Statement Of Purpose

On July 12, 1988, the Board of Trustees of Phillips Academy approved the following statement of purpose and long range goals, recommended by the Long Range Planning Committee of Trustees and Faculty. The goals are listed in the order of priority in relation to Academy effort in the next decade.

Phillips Academy is a residential high school that seeks students of character and intelligence from diverse ethnic, racial, socioeconomic, and geographic backgrounds.

The Academy's scholastic program is designed to foster excellence in all disciplines associated with the liberal arts tradition. Faculty members guide students to master skills, to acquire knowledge, and to think critically, creatively and independently. The school strives to help young people achieve their potential not only in intellectual understanding, but also in esthetic sensitivity, physical well-being, athletic prowess, and moral decisiveness so that they may lead productive, responsible lives.

Committed to discovering authentic sources of community, the Academy strives to understand and respect the differences that arise in a multicultural setting. Academic and residential programs encourage sensitivity to issues of gender, race, and social class. The school's residential structure fosters close association between faculty and students for personal, social and intellectual development.

Andover's 1778 Constitution charges the Academy to prepare "youth from every quarter" to understand that "goodness without knowledge is weak and feeble; yet knowledge without goodness is dangerous." This obligation challenges students in mind, body, and spirit to see beyond themselves and to go beyond the familiar; to remain committed to developing what is finest in themselves and others, for others and themselves.

GOALS

- To attract, support and retain outstanding secondary school teachers.
- To provide a strong residential community with increased student-faculty contact in residential life.
- To promote academic excellence through a coherent curriculum, academic planning, and student advising that reflect both the unique resources of the school and the need to make difficult choices.
- To build and nurture a multicultural coeducational community and to make Phillips Academy open to all qualified students regardless of their ability to pay.
- To maintain the buildings and grounds of the existing physical plant.
- To promote students' sense of responsibility for themselves, their peers, their school and the world in which they live.
- To manage the school with respect for all constituencies and with efficiency at all levels of decision making.

Report from the Headmaster

Donald W. McNemar

Phillips Academy has a long tradition of involvement in the world beyond Andover Hill. During the past year, Britta and I and our daughters, Heather, 14, and Galen, 12, had an opportunity to experience those programs in Europe, the Soviet Union, and Asia. We saw students studying in other cultures and other languages. We met alumni and members of the Andover family living and working throughout the world.

School Year Abroad programs in Rennes, France and Barcelona, Spain were founded by Andover, Exeter and St. Paul's to offer students the opportunity to live and study in Europe for a year while continuing their English and mathematics courses. The Andover SYA students took tremendous pride in looking after their "Headmaster," ordering at restaurants, showing us around the city, and assuring that we saw the cultural sights. These students had mastered a new language and culture and had discovered a wonderful self-confidence that will enable them to learn in unfamiliar settings in the future.

For two months, Britta and I taught in the Soviet Union at the Physics-Mathematics High School (FMSha), a boarding school in Novosibirsk, Siberia, which draws outstanding students from throughout the Soviet Union. The Andover-Novosibirsk exchange is in its fourth year and was the first program between an American and Soviet high school with students living and studying at the high school. Forty-five Andover students and ten faculty members have participated in the exchange to FMSha. Britta and I both had an opportunity to assist in the FMSha English language program for students and teachers, while Heather and Galen studied at local Soviet School No. 166. With Perestroika, the soviet school was increasing openness in history classes, discussion of Soviet politics, and expanding curiosity about American history and politics. The Andover-Novosibirsk exchange provides a lively opportunity for young people to share ideas and beliefs with students from a very different society.

In late May, after five days and four nights on the Trans-Siberian Railway, we arrived in Harbin, China. We were greeted by the President and Faculty of the Harbin Institute of Technology, with whom we have exchanged students for the past nine years. One of the most moving receptions of our trip was with 13 parents of Chinese students who had studied at Andover. None had ever seen our campus, yet they had lived the Andover experience through letters, pictures and translated reports from P.A. teachers. They expressed their deep appreciation for the Andover faculty who had cared about the intellectual and personal development of their children.

In Beijing, we were hosted by Beijing Teachers College, with which we have also exchanged students and teachers. We were in Beijing during the demonstrations at Tiananmen Square, and left the city on Saturday morning, June 3, just before the tanks came. We sensed the Chinese people's hope and excitement, and their disbelief and sadness when the army attacked the students. We left China deeply concerned about the country, yet with a greater appreciation of the importance of connections between Andover and schools in that country.

The parents and alumni in Hong Kong gave us a warm welcome which was especially gratifying. The Tokyo alumni welcomed us to Japan, and in Kyoto we visited Doshisha University, the Christian university founded in 1875 by Joseph Hardy Neesima, a graduate of Phillips Academy, Amherst College, and the Andover Theological Seminary.

Today, we are preparing students to live and work in the 21st century in a time of rapid change and in a worldwide community. The Phillips Academy and Abbot Academy tradition of liberal arts education and engagement in the world beyond the campus is crucial to that preparation for the future. Our travels convinced us that the Academy's purposes of teaching the liberal arts, a multicultural community, and a life with values are more important than ever in preparing young people for this future.

Dr. McNemar is an instructor in history and the social sciences and Headmaster on the foundation in Honor of John P. Stevens, Jr.

Report from the Acting Headmaster

Phillips Academy is indeed a remarkable place. Certainly there are not many, if any, other places where over 1,200 bright and lively teenagers with diverse backgrounds and from many different parts of the country and the world come together to learn, to learn from each other and from a talented faculty in a beautiful setting with outstanding facilities. This educational utopia would not remain so were it not for the efforts of many people who guide the Academy.

The Board of Trustees leave the day-to-day operation of the school to the Headmaster and the faculty. Their charge is to make major decisions, approve the budget, and once every 5 years to meet in July to do long range planning. The Board met in July 1988 for that very purpose. The results of these deliberations are on page 3 of this Annual Report.

The teaching faculty are the heart of the school. In addition to their teaching, they are house counselors, coaches, and together with the Headmaster and Trustees, the policy makers. This year, prompted by the new Statement of Purpose and Goals, ad hoc faculty committees on house counseling, the curriculum, and faculty evaluation made presentations to the full faculty in weekly meetings throughout the winter and spring trimesters.

The alumni, too, help guide this remarkable school. The Alumni Council meets annually, examines topics, and makes recommendations. Recently they have considered college counseling and athletics. Next year they will review our admission procedures. The class secretaries, class agents and reunion chairs play important parts in keeping the alumni informed and interested. The generosity of the whole alumni and alumnae body and that of current and past parents and grandparents helps to support the physical plant and the academic program through gifts to the Annual Fund.

Outstanding leadership is also provided by the men and women, alumni, alumnae and parents who serve the school as members of the Andover Development Board. They continue to strengthen Phillips Academy by raising major gifts for the renovation and expansion of the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library, increased endowment for teachers and for scholarships, and for the revitalization of George Washington Hall.

Visiting speakers help to make Andover special. Last fall, after a very successful sports weekend with Exeter, Andre Sakharov visited the campus to see his grandson's school. Addressing a standing-room-only crowd in the chapel, he told us to "work hard, be honest with yourself and care about those close to you as well as those far away." Alumnus Joe Malone '74 spoke on his race for the United States Senate against Ted Kennedy. Exeter Principal Kendra O'Donnell reflected on the idealism inherent in Exeter's and Andover's education. Pulitzer Prize winner Richard Rhodes spoke about the complementarity of the bomb and traced the evolution of nuclear physics from the discovery of X-rays to the Manhattan Project. Susan Lloyd, Abbot historian and member of our Department of History and Social Sciences, lectured about "Women on the Hill: Then and Now" as Women's History Month was launched. In the spring term, the Stearns Lecturer was Dr. Hanna Gray, President of the University of Chicago. Novelist Norman Mailer, father of Maggie '89, spoke at the Senior-Faculty Dinner two nights before graduation.

The Fuess Award recipient this year was Alumnus Robert C. Macauley '41. This award is given for distinguished contributions in public service. Bob Macauley is the founder and head of AmeriCares, an agency which has raised and sent more than $168 million in relief to various parts of the world.

Peter Q. McKee

For two reasons, this year has been a very special one for my wife Jean and me. First, it is our 42nd and final year at Phillips Academy. Second, I have been Acting Headmaster from the first of January to the first of September. I have always enjoyed the various forms of work at Phillips Academy: teaching, coaching, house counseling and administering. I am indeed privileged to have had such a long association with a truly outstanding school.

Mr. McKee is Acting Headmaster and an instructor in physics on the Donna Brace Ogilvie Teaching Foundation.

Report from the Acting Secretary of the Academy

John E. Bachman

The past year has been one of important transitions in Andover's Office of Academy Resources.

Joseph C. Mesics '53 retired from the position of secretary of the academy in August 1988 after six highly successful years. Joe's successor, Allen C. Adriance '61, grew up on the Andover campus during his father's (James R. "Spike" Adriance '28) tenure as dean of admission and assistant to the headmaster. Headmaster McNemar asked me to assume the acting secretaryship during the intervening school year (1988-89), until Allen could complete his duties as headmaster of Graland School in Denver, Colorado.

Two other significant personnel changes have occurred. Cornelia Weldon LeMaitre AA'53 came to Phillips Academy as Director of Annual Giving in 1983. After six years of outstanding contribution, Connie was wooed away last May to become director of the annual fund at Harvard Medical School. One of Connie's most important acts last year was to select as her associate Naomi F. Hitchcock, who has now succeeded Connie as Director of Annual Giving.

Also leaving the Office of Academy Resources this year is Director of Planned Giving Grace E. Curley '81. In her three years at Andover Grace did a remarkable job of educating PA alumni, parents and friends about various planned giving opportunities. Under her guidance more than $5.6 million in future expectancies were generated for Phillips Academy in 1988-89. Grace has left us to enter law school at Northeastern University. She is succeeded by Peter M. Capra '53.

Another major transition is a physical one. The Office of Academy Resources will soon move to the renovated Abbot Academy campus. OAR will occupy the second and third floors of McKeen Hall in quarters which will provide badly needed additional space and will permit the creation of an alumni center on the first floor. Starting in the summer of 1990, alumni who return to campus will have a comfortable home base to use for meetings, rest and relaxation. We have worked carefully with architects and contractors throughout the past year to plan for this move.

In the area of Capital Giving we also experienced several major transitions. The Oliver Wendell Holmes Library renovation culminated at a rededication ceremony held on May 19. Even as that $11,000,000 project approached conclusion, Andover trustees and a bi-coastal committee of volunteers were planning to raise $12,000,000 to renovate and expand George Washington Hall. GW Hall Committee co-chairs are Jack Lemmon '43 and Melville Chapin '36. At this writing, thanks to a lead gift by Andover parent Ben Ristuccia and gifts from several other members of the Andover Development Board, nearly half of this funding goal has been achieved. Last May the trustees approved working drawings. We hope construction will begin immediately upon conclusion of the 1989-90 school year.

In addition to these most necessary bricks and mortar projects, the trustees and the Andover Development Board continued to inform our alumni of pressing needs to expand resources for need-based financial aid and faculty salaries through endowment. The Endowment for Scholarships Committee led by Richard Goodyear '59 and John D. Macomber '46, and the Teaching Foundation Committee led by Frederick W. Beinecke '62, are at the forefront of these efforts.

In January 1989 the Board of Trustees approved an OAR proposal to seek funds from foundations in order to establish an endowment to support Phillips Academy's programs for teachers and students in inner-city public schools. The initial goal is to establish an endowment of $2,000,000 over the next three years that will provide one-third of the budget for Andover's highly successful $(MS)^2$ program (math and science x minority students).

The OAR staff joined the rest of the faculty in framing Andover's "self-study," in preparation for the New England Association of Schools and Colleges' ten-year evaluation for accreditation. Many alumni and parents assisted this process as survey respondents. A noteworthy result of the self-study is the recognition that among our most significant future challenges is the need to learn more about the new constituents who have joined the Andover community over the past two decades. What perspectives do they bring to the issue of charitable support for education? How best to engage them in this critical enterprise? As Andover approaches the 1990s, these questions will be preeminent.

Report from the Dean of Faculty

The 1989 school year begins with seventeen full-time and two part-time new faculty members. With Chris Cook's return to the classroom after distinguished leadership as Director of The Addison, Jock Reynolds assumes the helm. Jock has served as Director of the Washington Project for the Arts in Washington, D.C. Allen C. Adriance '61, is the new Secretary of the Academy. Due to the generosity of an anonymous donor, Dr. Diana Wood, instructor at Shady Side Academy, has joined us for one year as the Visiting Scholar in History.

The Teaching Fellow Program was a grand success last year. Special honors were bestowed on four of the Fellows: Marilee Chang (Joseph R. W. Dodge Award), Elizabeth Baker (Oliva Award), Paul Murphy (M. Lawrence Shields Award), and Wendy Bewig (Elizabeth Rogers Award). This year the program is being directed by John Lin, assisted by Tom McGraw; members of the English Department.

Following the Statement of Purpose and Goals, Andover continues to strengthen its commitment to multicultural education. This year there are 35 people of color teaching on the hill.

Drafted by the Benefits Committee and Chair Thomas Lyons of the history department, a proposal was ratified by the Trustees 1) to allow emeriti faculty and their spouses to participate in the Academy's Blue Cross/Blue Shield insurance group, with the Academy paying $300 per year per person topward the cost; and 2)to increase Andover's TIAA/CREF contribution to 8% of the faculty member's base salary up to $48,000, to retain the 13% Academy contribution for that portion of salarys above $48,000 and to raise each faculty member's individual contribution from 3% to 4% of the wage base up to $48,000.

Thanks to two years of unstinting work by history instructor Kathy Dalton and the Ad Hoc Evaluation Procedures Committee, the evaluation system for faculty reviews has been refined. At the heart of the proposals is an effort to emphasize the developmental component of evaluation and to insure greater communication between a colleague being evaluated and his/her evaluators. In the new system, there is a concerted effort to guard against sexism and bias. A new committee, chaired by math instructor Doug Crabtree, has been formed to devise evaluation procedures for non-teaching faculty and administrators.

New department chairs for 1989-90 include Max Alovisetti (Psychology Department and Director of Psychological Counseling), Yuan Han (Chinese), and Ed Quattlebaum (History). New deans are Susan McCaslin (Dean of Studies) and Marc Koolen (West Quad South Cluster). Elwin Sykes is the new Director of the Summer Session. Spanish instructor Francesca Piana and English instructor Jean St. Pierre have assumed new responsibilities: Francesca as the International Student Coordinator and Jean as Faculty Coordinator for Abbot Association Grants.

Other awards and appointments announced this year were the Sherrill Award to Chemistry instructor Cristina Suarez (given to a young colleague for excellence in teaching) and endowed chairs to Math instructor Paula Drewniany (the Lumpkin Family Bicentennial Instructorship); English instructor Craig Thorn (John H. Porter, Jr. Bicentennial Instructorship); Chair of the Physics Department, Robert Perrin (Donna Brace Ogilvie Teaching Foundation); and Ed Quattlebaum, (Donna Brace Ogilvie Teaching Foundation II).

The creative endeavors of several of the faculty were recognized off campus. English instructor Thylias Moss and Writer-in-Residence Bruce Smith won coveted National Endowment for the Arts grants to continue their work in drama and poetry. "Right Behind The Flag," Chair of the Theatre Department, Kevin Heelan's new play, premiered in New York this year at Playwrights Horizon. Spanish Instructor and poet Emilio Mozo received an honorary Doctorate of Literature from the World Congress of Poets in recognition of his contribution to Latin American poetry.

The last faculty meeting of the year ended with a surprise fête of Peter and Jean McKee. The faculty sang a hymn to the McKees, then marched over to the Commons for luncheon, highlighted by a gentle roast of Acting Headmaster McKee and acknowledgement of Peter and Jean's extraordinary service to the Academy since 1947.

Mr. Wise is an instructor in English on the William Newman Teaching Foundation.

Report from the Dean of Studies

Frank M. Eccles '43

The academic year began on a high note last fall with the opening of the expanded and magnificently renovated library. The returning visitor is immediately struck by the added class and seminar rooms, an abundance of attractive study spaces for students, carrels for teachers, numerous display areas, and a 75-terminal computer center. A much more powerful academic resource, the new library has been exerting an increasingly strong magnetic attraction for both students and faculty.

In January the Ad-Hoc Committee on the Academic Program, after a year and a half of preparation, brought its final report to the faculty. In a series of meetings over the next three months the faculty debated and voted on the report's ten proposals. The primary results of these deliberations are outlined below:

- Juniors and Lowers are to be accorded greater structure, supervision, and support in observing study hours and developing good study habits.
- A block of three coordinated yearlong courses in Art, English, and History will be developed as a requirement for all Juniors.
- Seniors will be expected to carry either a 5-course load or else a 4-course program which includes at least three "advanced courses"—a measure aimed at getting Seniors to dig deeper into areas of study where they have developed interest or else to carry the same number of courses as Uppers.
- A term-contained course will be developed to combine an exposure to the study of ethics with a consideration of a number of human issues topics such as substance abuse, interpersonal relationships, sexuality, health, racial awareness, and gender issues. The course will be intended to help students to make good decisions in their personal lives and, if successful, could become a requirement for all Lowers.
- The Community Service Program will be given greater support and status in hopes of engaging most students in its activities at some stage of their PA careers, thus making the Program a more integral part of school life.

In May the faculty voted to adopt the new Daily Schedule which had been on trial for a year. This schedule incorporates a 30-minute morning period, available exclusively for teacher-student conferences, and moves the late afternoon classes into a time slot right after lunch. The result is that students finish all their classes before going to sports and have a somewhat less fragmented day.

In another decision this spring the faculty abolished the practice of allowing students on the Honor Roll to cut two days of classes a term. To replace the Honor Roll Days, the faculty voted to grant Personal Days to every member of the student body— 1 per year for Juniors and Lowers, 2 for Uppers and 3 for Seniors. We have come to feel that class cuts are not an appropriate reward for academic success; besides, high grades provide their own adequate reward in terms of recognition and personal satisfaction.

In a step aimed at encouraging greater connectedness between disciplines, this winter every department declared a "Department Day" (a different "Day" for each department). On such a day, the department's classes were called off and each teacher was expected to visit several classes in another discipline. The experiment proved to be quite a success and the Department Chairs plan to continue the practice.

Having spent three years as the temporary Dean of Studies, I am pleased to turn over the position to Religion and Philosophy instructor Susan McCaslin. She is particularly well equipped for this job by virtue of her year's work in producing a truly comprehensive Self Evaluation Report required for the school's accreditation by the New England Associa- tion of Schools and Colleges. Highly respected by the faculty, Susan is a capable and committed educator.

Mr. Eccles is an instructor of mathematics on the Independence Teaching Foundation.

Report from the Dean of Residence

Jonathan A. Stableford '63

With new attention in the past fifteen years paid to the "non sibi" motto and its implicit charge, students look in a variety of directions to find ways to serve others. The Community Service program provides the clearest non sibi path, but there are others, some with trails less clearly marked. There may be no better place to observe the paradox of service at Phillips Academy, particularly from the student perspective, than in the Blue Key Society, which was established thirty-five years ago to welcome new students to campus each fall; over the years it has operated under student leadership with only the hint of faculty supervision. Today, students choose both the leaders and the members in the organization, then operate within rather specific expectations.

The central paradox is exquisite: students compete to serve. Roughly half the class can participate as members, and those who are not chosen are often bitterly disappointed. To some, selection appears arbitrary, particularly since students apply by cluster; depending on numbers, one cluster may select virtually all applicants while another may disappoint as many as it accepts. During the selection process it is difficult to focus on the notion of service or selflessness.

Nonetheless, during the summer as Blue Key advisors sit down to write their advisees, rarely is one so insensitive as to not identify with the new students' butterflies; and rarely are their thoughts not selfless as they welcome new students and their families on opening day or guide their groups over the walls or along the ropes of the Sanctuary games during Orientation. It is rare for a Blue Key member not to remember the loneliness of that first meal at Commons when he or she sits at dinner with advisees. Predictably, the initial success of the Blue Key contacts begins to dissipate as the school year moves into its regular rhythm, but some special friendships hold.

Two school-wide heads - one male, one female - oversee the whole Blue Key program from the initial selection process to their own replacement in the following year. As they meet with the entire society before Orientation in September, they set the tone for their particular year, often promising the "best year ever" as if service were competitive. In the fall of '88 the Orientation program for new students climaxed with a nighttime event dreamed up by Blue Key Heads Nancy Abramson and David Satterthwaite: a student dressed in a gorilla suit rappelled from the bell tower at night as a spotlight illuminated his descent — a moment memorable, ironic, and unexpected. In the context of service the moment seems frivolous, the product of rich imaginations inclined toward entertainment; but the effect on the new community was uplifting.

Throughout the year the Society, under the leadership of the school-wide heads, continues to act on the edges of "non sibi" by organizing the rallies for the Exeter contests, by leading spirited cheering and half time festivities. Behind their service always is the motivation of doing the weekend up bigger and better than ever before, and rarely, if ever, does the notion of beating Exeter soundly ever disappear.

The final event of the Blue Key calendar, the Abbot Bazaar, probably captures best this tension between "non sibi" and "pro se". The bazaar was traditional, as the name suggests, before the merger; but today's event, with its dunking booth, "Moon Walk," tie-dyed shirts, and whipped cream pies to buy and throw, is a child hardly resembling its parent. Coming at the end of the school year immediately before final exams, it is a day of springtime indulgence bathed in bright sun and rock music; but the profits from the food sales, the amusements, and the white elephant sale enabled this year's Blue Key Society to make a $2000 donation to the Community Service program where it will be put to work in projects outside the school.

At no time is the motivation of the students absolutely clear, and for purists the "non sibi" motto may have a somewhat haunting ring; but in some wonderful ways the work of the Blue Key Society enriches the community while it involves a variety of students in a variety of ways in service to others.

Report from the Dean of Admission

Jeannie F. Dissette

Phillips Academy's two hundred and eleventh entering class joined us on September 14, 1989. Four hundred and fifty-five strong, they came from 39 states and 28 countries. Fifty-three percent are boys; Forty-seven percent are girls. They include 49 black and Hispanic students and 119 relatives of Phillips and Abbot Academy students and graduates.

Selecting the two hundred and eleventh entering class presented us with a major challenge. For the first time in six years, we were unable to ignore family financial need entirely during the admission process— in spite of the allocation of $4.6 million of financial aid funds. Although Phillips Academy continues to lead all boarding schools in the percentage of students receiving financial assistance, for the 1989 entering class we did not have sufficient resources to offer need-blind admission to every student who qualified both for admission and for financial assistance. Our need-blind admission program grew out of Samuel Phillips' intention, as stated in our 1778 Constitution, that his Academy be "ever equally open to Youth, of requisite qualifications, from every quarter." Our ability to be need-blind for a five year period changed the nature of our student population in ways fundamental to our stated mission: to create an educational environment that teaches young people how to live with and respect students from a range of socioeconomic and racial backgrounds. Even before the budgetary restraints of this year, we were aware that changing demographics and rapidly increasing tuition costs were creating the potential for a crisis in our ability to continue need-blind admission. Traditional boarding families are having substantially fewer children; the actual numbers of students from families who are able to pay our tuition and who expect their children to attend a secondary boarding school have dropped dramatically over the past five years and are not expected to increase in the foreseeable future. Increasingly - and in part because of the success of our need-blind policy - our strongest applicants, both in quality and in quantity, need financial assistance in order to attend Phillips Academy. Moreover, since increasing costs require the school to raise tuition levels at rates above the rate of inflation, greater numbers of families qualify for financial assistance at Phillips Academy each year.

To address this problem, last fall we proposed two projects to the Headmaster and the Board of Trustees. First, that we join forces with other major national boarding schools to study our current and potential sources of full-paying students. We need to find ways to attract families whose finances permit, but whose values and lack of experience with secondary boarding education would not encourage them to have their children attend a boarding school. The other plan was to explore a creative financing program which would make an Andover education affordable to a much wider range of families, both those currently receiving financial aid and those who are ineligible for aid but who feel unable to carry our cost on a short term basis. Both programs received conceptual approval by the Board and are being developed.

The Endowment for Scholarships Committee has redoubled its efforts to raise funds, as another way to provide the necessary financial aid resources. The Long Range Planning Committee, a joint Trustee and Faculty Committee, will have a special meeting before the October 1989 Board Meeting, to discuss how best to continue to meet the financial aid requirements of our most able applicants, while still meeting the Academy's other principal goals of providing superior teachers and educational resources.

The Admission staff will again travel broadly to recruit outstanding students from a wide range of socioeconomic, racial, and geographic backgrounds. As always, we will continue to rely on our alumni/ae and parents across the world to help us to identify, to interview, and to matriculate the best entering class possible. All of our efforts must be directed toward "Youth from every quarter", as we recognize that in the future the students from the upper quarters will be as challenging to recruit as those from disadvantaged backgrounds. We will confront great challenges over the next decade, but as a community of great strength we are equal to the task of maintaining Phillips Academy's tradition of being a school of extraordinary consequence.

Mrs. Dissette is the dean of admission on the Joshua Lewis Miner III Endowed Foundation for the Dean of Admission.

Report from the Director of Athletics

Paul Kalkstein '61

What a year! From our first football scrimmage in September to the crew regatta on Lake Quinsigamond, Andover's interscholastic teams put together great records in 1988-89.

A strong fall season was capped at the end with a clean sweep of our Exeter opponents. The football team went 6-2, thrashing Choate 41-6, defeating a strong Deerfield team 15-8, and then making it two in a row over Exeter, 21-12. Leon Modeste's staff installed a tough ground game, led by Tony Pittman '90 at tailback, to control the opponents. Field hockey won the New England Five title, while girls' soccer reached the New England semifinals. And everyone beat Exeter!

In the winter, a resurgent boys' basketball team, featuring 6'7" star Pete Condakes '89, went to the New England Class A tourney for the first time since 1981, but was knocked out in the semifinals. Girls' hockey went 9-3, with a big 3-2 come-from-behind win at Exeter, while the male icemen overcame a slow start to finish a grueling schedule at 11-10-1, capped by a 12-3 rampage over the Red. Wrestling, coached by Nick Kip '60, turned a recent losing streak and finished 6-5.

The best, it seems, was left for the spring. Andover had Interscholastic Champions in boys' tennis, boys' track, and girls' crew; girls' track and boys' crew came in second in these regional championships. In the spring, all varsity teams had winning records, with the exception of the young girls' lacrosse team, which finished 7-7. Boys' lacrosse hammered Exeter 8-1, for the largest margin in fifteen years.

Our teams tend to start slowly and finish strongly. This generalization applies not just to individual contests in the various sports, but also to the seasons on the whole. Compared to other schools, we suffer some competitive disadvantages. Our teams do not take pre-season trips; our practice times are generally limited to ninety minutes, whereas most of our opponents work out for at least two hours each day. But this is in keeping with both P.A.'s philosophy of the balanced day, and our students' need for time to prepare their classes and dip into an extra-curricular activity or two. Though it takes longer to get started, the skills build steadily, and the teams come together at the right time. We don't get stale.

Stamina in competition comes from effective training methods and dedication on the part of the athletes. Our training staff of Mike Kuta, Kathy Birecki, and Tom Wray leads the way in helping coaches with pre- and in-season training programs. The tradition of strong captains and senior leadership is as strong as ever; the players work hard.

They have to work hard. We continue to "schedule up" in comparison to our sister prep schools. We seek the highest level of competition we can find. This often means playing college J.V. teams and the top high schools in New England. Thus our players grow as competitors, and all of their victories mean something to them. A loss is learning, too: they come quickly to realize that losing to an outstanding opponent brings no shame—and then they turn around and beat another great team.

Almost all of our teams continue to be coached by the teaching faculty. This practice makes for two-way understanding, and for close bonds between players and coaches. The faculty who coach interscholastic sports do so because they love the game and the kids they work with. The students are also there because they enjoy what they do. No one—faculty or student—is required to spend the extra time necessary to participate in an interscholastic sport. Amateurism at its best is on display every day on our courts and playing fields.

And when this hard, wonderful road leads to success, all the finer!

Report from the Chief Financial Officer

Neil H. Cullen

The joint meeting of the Board of Trustees and the Long Range Planning Committee in July 1988 launched fiscal year 1988–89 (FY89). This meeting marked the culmination of a year-long process to develop a strategic plan to guide the trustees, faculty and administration in the 1990's. The resulting Statement of Purpose and Goals, the rationale for the goals, methods by which to achieve them, a stated commitment to operate annually within a balanced budget, revenue guidelines and a financial equilibrium model enable me to develop a five-year financial plan which can be revised each year as part of the annual budgeting process. The plan should prove invaluable as we determine how best to achieve our goals within limited resources.

The financial markets exhibited great resiliency during FY89, and the Academy endowment benefited. The endowment is invested in a highly diversified portfolio to dampen risk and volatility. Divided roughly into 65% equities and 35% fixed income securities on June 30, 1989, the pooled endowment achieved a total return of 16.7% compared to 20.5% for the S&P 500 index and 12.3% for the Shearson/Lehman bond index. Over the ten year period ending June 30, 1989, the endowment has achieved an average annual compound return of 15.5% compared to 16.9% and 11.3% for the S&P 500 and Shearson/Lehman bond indices respectively. A more detailed analysis of the endowment results may be found in the Financial Report (see p. 14).

Attending to the deferred maintenance of the school's physical plant dominated the financial planning calendar in FY89. In December 1987, the Massachusetts legislature passed a bill enabling secondary schools to participate in the tax-exempt financing markets for the first time. As a result, schools such as Phillips Academy have the opportunity to consider borrowing funds at relatively low tax-exempt interest rates for major capital improvements rather than being limited either to seeking donations or using scarce endowment resources. Following a thorough review by its Finance Committee, the Board of Trustees authorized a borrowing by Andover. On June 29, 1989, the school issued bonds in the amount of $12,000,000 through the Massachusetts Industrial Finance Agency.

Essentially, the Academy borrowed $12,000,000 for 30 years, used $2,000,000 to repay the endowment for a temporary loan to fund capital projects from January 1988 to June 1989, placed the remaining $10,000,000 in an interest bearing account, will draw down the $10,000,000 plus any earnings to fund major capital renewal projects from July 1989 through June 1992, and will repay the MIFA loan plus interest over the 30 year period July 1989 - June 2019. The cost of borrowing will be carried in the operating budget. Borrowing in this manner is attractive financially since it enables the Academy to proceed with an accelerated capital renovation effort while leaving its endowment fully invested. The school will benefit since the cost of borrowing should, by historical standards, be less than the earning rate of the endowment for the same period.

Academy renewal efforts also moved forward during the year. Work will soon begin on McKeen Hall to renovate space for the Andover Community Child Care Center, and for the Office of Academy Resources (OAR) which will occupy the upper two floors. The Draper Hall conversion to market rate apartments should begin early in 1990.

Dormitory renovation efforts continued with the completion of Day Hall for occupancy in the Fall of 1988 and Draper Cottage (Fall 1989). Other work included extensive painting, residing and roofing; renovation of kitchens and bathrooms in faculty houses; most of the work on a co-generation electrical facility so that the Academy can be energy self-sufficient and sell excess electrical capacity to Massachusetts Electric Co.; restoration of the Rose and Blue Rooms and the Ropes Salon in Commons. The woodwork and murals were fully restored in the Ropes Salon, resulting in a magni ficent room for special occasions.

FY89 was a productive one for the financial and administrative personnel on Andover Hill.

Financial Report

Operating Results

The 1988-89 fiscal year concluded with a surplus of $12,000 above the total operating expenses of $27,096,000 which were 10% greater than the prior year.

A large percentage expense increase of 18% occurred in financial aid, to permit continued admission to the Academy on a need blind basis. The $4.1 million of aid represents 15.2% of the total operating budget and about 29% of tuition and fees, reflecting a higher commitment to financial aid, by far, than any other private secondary school in the country.

Instruction, the largest expense component (28.5%), increased nearly 10% to $7,731,000. Instruction includes all the teaching faculty salaries, and reflects the third annual increase of a plan to widen Andover's leadership margin in the area of secondary school faculty compensation.

Expenditures of Physical Plant continued at approximately the same proportion of the budget. Additional expenditures for capital projects were funded by a $1,000,000 transfer from the endowment. For the next three fiscal years, capital improvements will be funded largely by a $12 million bond issue through Massachusetts Industrial Finance Agency (MIFA). The cost of this debt will be covered in the operating budget.

Administrative expenses have remained relatively stable on a year to year basis, as the slight reduction in this category reflects. Benefits were significantly higher due to mandated (social security taxes and workers compensation) insurance increases and a 32% rise in medical insurance costs.

Increased revenues include a 10% increase in tuition and endowment income of $8,260,000, which is 5% of FY 1989's average market value of endowment investments. Annual giving continues to support over 10% of our operating expenses.

Tuition and Financial Aid

Total financial aid, including scholarship grants and loans, increased nearly 15% over the prior year to $4,509,000. A record number of 486 students received aid of one type or another, representing 40% of our enrollment.

Direct grants and loans are awarded to students on the basis of need. Given the increasing cost of secondary education, however, it is important to recognize Andover's financial support of each student above the tuition charged to parents. The average actual cost per student was $18,400 in 1989, while the average tuition for boarding and day students was $11,700, representing Academy support for each student of $6,700.

The boarding rate of $12,400 in 1988-89 was an increase of 10.7% over the prior year, and the rate of $13,500 in 1989-90 is an 8.9% increase. Tuition remains modest, nonetheless, in comparison with other residential schools.

The Endowment and Its Investment

The total Academy endowment, with investments stated at Market value, was $177,084,794 at June 30, 1989, compared with $157,280,700 one year earlier. The significant increase in the endowment's market value was due to the following factors:

Increase as a result of gifts and bequests added to the endowment	$3,664,345
Transfer to income from fund appreciation	(1,509,960)
Appreciation, both realized and unrealized, in the market value of the investments	16,836,796
Net effect of all other additions and withdrawals	812,913
Total increase in market value	$19,804,094

The performance of the Academy's investment managers is reviewed regularly by the Finance committee of the Board of Trustees on the basis of the Academy's stated Investment Objectives. Currently the school has five equity managers, one fixed income manager, and several organizations managing a relatively small portion of real estate and venture capital investments.

In fiscal year 1988-89 the general pooled investments (of $162 million) realized a total return of 16.7%, which compares favorably with 17.2% for a weighted composite of the S&P500, the Shearson Lehman bond and the Treasury Bill indices. For the ten year period ending June 30, 1989 the Academy's invested funds realized a 15.5% average annual return, as compared to a 15.0% composite index and a 14.6% return for the mean performance of 75 educational endowments as reported by Cambridge Associates.

The accompanying graph illustrates Andover's endowment growth since 1984. The pie chart depicts the endowment asset allocation as of June 30, 1989.

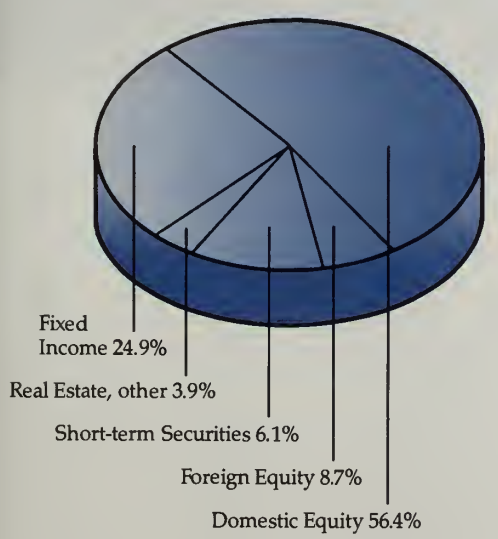

In closing, I would like to express my appreciation to Roger F. Murray, 2nd '28, for his dedicated service as consultant to the Trustee Finance Committee for the past fifteen years.

Alumni Fund establishes new records!

It is with great pleasure that we report on the success of Andover's Alumni Fund. Thanks to the tremendous commitment of hundreds of dedicated and eager Class Agents, the 1988-1989 Fund experienced a 7% growth over last year. The $2,471,305 raised from 8,262 donors (45% participation) clearly represents the Academy's long-standing tradition of NON SIBI spirit!

We offer special congratulations to our reunion classes. Challenged by fantastic results from last year's reunion classes, the enthusiastic "4's and 9's" this year raised just over $1,109,000. Although we can not list all of their accomplishments (and there were many), we note several of particular interest:

- The Class of 1939's 50th reunion effort, with Tom Kelly, Joan Hubbard Lawson, and Jack Walsh leading the force, raised $317,387 from 72% of the class.
- A new 25th reunion record for NON SIBI donors (gifts of $1,000 or more) was set by the Class of 1964. Paul Gallagher, Sean Kennedy, and Jackie Meyers Eby inspired more than 44 classmates to make gifts at this leadership level.
- In celebration of their 40th reunion and charged-up by Head Agent Jim Messing, a record 81.6% of the Class of 1949 made commitments totalling $155,270 to the Alumni Fund.
- The Class of 1969, led by Art Oller and Sheila Prout Accomando, and the Class of 1979, led by Sarah Moore, increased participation significantly over last year's levels. The Class of 1969 moved from 36% to 42% and Sarah's diligence resulted in an incredible 13% increase from 36% to 49%!

On behalf of the Academy, Acting Headmaster Peter Q. McKee gratefully accepts a facsimile chesk representing the 1988–89 Alumni Fund gift of $2,267,000 from Fund Co-Chairmen Caroline Greene Donnelly '58 and Donald L. Shapiro '53 during Reunion Weekend June 1989.

Phonathon volunteers across the country made important contributions to the Fund drive, as well. More than 200 alumni came together in Boston, Andover, Washington, New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Los Angeles, and San Francisco and raised nearly $300,000 in pledges. Students also made calls during a friendly cluster competition. They took their charge well and solicited $44,727 from alumni. Abbot Cluster had a clean sweep of prizes by succeeding to raise the most dollars, get the most pledges, and bring on board the most new donors.

Abbot women had another good year, too, for which we are most grateful. Despite diminishing numbers, these alumnae continue to understand Andover's needs and support our important endeavor.

Finally, we want to acknowledge the 727 alumni leadership donors who are members of our NON SIBI Association (those who have made a commitment of $1,000 or more). Association membership has grown steadily since its inception in 1981 and this year, with a record number of contributors, the group provided 64% of Alumni Fund dollars. This generosity provides a firm foundation for the Academy in accomplishing its long-range goals of educating for values as well as knowledge, continuing academic excellence, improving the residential community and furthering a multicultural community.

Thanks to each of you for your special support!

Corporate Matching Gifts

During 1988-89, 192 corporations matched 570 gifts which their employees made to Phillips Academy. These corporate matching gifts totaled $241,739. The Annual Fund received $187,404 and $54,335 went to support other purposes such as endowment, special programs, and capital projects.

By utilizing their companies' matching gift programs, donors can significantly increase the power of their giving to Andover.

The following list gratefully acknowledges those companies that have assisted Phillips Academy during 1988-89 by expanding the generosity of Andover alumni, parents and friends. Andover's ten top matching gift companies, in terms of number of gifts matched, are printed in blue.

Corporate and Foundation Support

In 1988-89, 29 new grants to Phillips Academy from corporations and private foundations totalled $455,083. These grants provide major assistance for the $(MS)^2$ program (Math and Science) x (Minority Students), the Andover-Dartmouth Urban Teachers Institute, the Andover-Bread Loaf Urban Teachers Writing Workshop, and support Andover's public service programs.

Andover has depended largely upon foundation and corporate grants to launch and sustain its outreach programs that extend the Academy's resources to benefit public school students and teachers. Hence we are most grateful for sustaining support for $(MS)^2$ which received 13 new grants totaling $131,500 and for two grants totalling $118,635 to extend the work of the Andover-Dartmouth Urban Teachers Institute among inner-city, public school teachers of mathematics. The Andover-Bread Loaf Urban Teachers Writing Workshop, received $79,268 to support program expansion over the next three years.

The Urban Studies Institute is an intensive, multidisciplinary course of study offered each spring to applicants from Phillips Academy and Lawrence High School (the LHS students become Andover boarders for the term). USI received $12,180 in grants from local sponsors to support its core budget.

The Foundation and Corporate Support Office will be cultivating sources for new projects in FY90. These new projects include a summer intern program to recruit minorities into the teaching profession; a faculty trip to China; a South African faculty exchange and a writing across the curriculum program. Funding will continue to be sought for ongoing programs.

In approaching foundations and corporations, Andover has been guided by the Foundations Committee, chaired for years by Richard D. Lombard '49 who sadly passed away in February. The Corporate Support Committee is chaired by William W. Boeschenstein '44.

Andover is deeply grateful to the following foundations and corporations for their support of Academy projects and programs during 1988-89.

Andover Development Board

Since May 1985 under the leadership of Chairman R. L. Ireland III '38 the Andover Development Board has been seeking capital gifts for endowment and for major renovation projects to the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library and George Washington Hall as part of a five-year plan to raise $40,000,000, exclusive of annual giving. The four-year total in May 1989 had passed $36,000,000 with a year to go.

At the Andover Development Board annual meeting on May 19, 1989, the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library was rededicated with many major donors attending. Charles Pierce, a former teaching fellow who is now the Director of the Pierpont Morgan Library in New York City, spoke eloquently about the role of libraries in educational institutions. Close to $10,500,000 has been raised for the renovation and expansion of the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library by the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library Development Committee, chaired by David M. Underwood '54 and Barbara C. Timken '66.

The launching of the George Washington Hall plan provided another focus of the 1989 Andover Development Board meeting. Co-chairmen, Jack Lemmon '43, Mel Chapin '36, and the George Washington Hall Development Committee have initiated the fundraising to support George Washington Hall. With more than $5,700,000 in pledges and gifts for the building that will be the home of the performing arts, a student center, and the Academy's administrative center, the Development Board viewed the plans and heard about the project from Acting Headmaster Peter Q. McKee. During the weekend the Andover Development Board recognized Ben Ristuccia, parent of four Andover sons and three Andover granddaughters, who has made the major commitment of $3,600,000 to the project in memory of his wife Elinor M. Ristuccia. Ben joined Abbot alumna Donna Brace Ogilvie '30, Mel Chapin '36 and Tim Ireland '38 in sharing with those present their rationale for giving extraordinary service, commitment and financial support to Phillips Academy.

The 1989 Andover Development Board meeting provided cause for celebrating a new teaching foundation in memory of A. Wells Peck '08 and eleven new endowed scholarships. Frederick W. Beinecke '62 is chairman of the Endowment for Teaching Committee, and John D. Macomber '46 and Richard Goodyear '59 are co-chairmen of the Endowment for Scholarships Committee. The Scholarship Committee began meeting in December 1988 and surpassed its $1,000,000 goal with a total of $1,276,000.

In the spring Ruth Steinbach, who with her late Trustee husband Milton Steinbach '20 has generously supported Phillips Academy through the years, created a $1,000,000 gift by bequest for the new drama lab in George Washington Hall. She also pledged $400,000 for four additional scholarships, increasing her existing scholarship endowment to over $2,000,000.

As this was the last Andover Development Board meeting presided over by Chairman R. L. Ireland III '38, Tim was honored with a warm thank-you and presentation from his colleague, Trustee President Melville Chapin '36.

The new chairman of the Andover Development Board will be Trustee Richard Goodyear '59, who led the effort to establish a $1,000,000 endowment in honor of Josh Miner and has co-chaired the Endowment for Scholarships Committee.

Planned Giving

Streaking past its $4,600,000 goal for 1988-89, Planned Giving ended the year with over $5,700,000 in new expectancies for Phillips Academy. These dollars represent 51 gifts made by alumni and parents, gifts which are accomplishing a variety of sound fiscal objectives for the donors and for Andover.

Each gift arrangement has its own particular identity, as developed planned gifts are a reflection of a donor's wishes, in close consultation with the Director of Planned Giving, attorneys, and family members.

The Class Endowment Agents under the leadership of Alexander B. Trowbridge '47, chair of the Planned Giving Committee, are the main force behind the success of Planned Giving. These class leaders and the members of the Planned Giving Committee reach out to alumni and parents to discuss and illustrate the flexibility and opportunities of planned giving.

In 1988–89, the Samuel Phillips and Sarah Abbot Society, saw a strong increase in its numbers as more and more alumni, parents and friends informed Phillips Academy of their plans to remember the school in their will or estate arrangements. Members receive a gold and blue pin and those who returned to campus for this year's reunions were invited to a special breakfast hosted by the Acting Headmaster Peter Q. McKee. To join this society, please contact the Director of Planned Giving.

Statement Of Purpose

On July 12, 1988, the Board of Trustees of Phillips Academy approved the following statement of purpose and long range goals, recommended by the Long Range Planning Committee of Trustees and Faculty.

Phillips Academy is a residential high school that seeks students of character and intelligence from diverse ethnic, racial, socioeconomic, and geographic backgrounds.

The Academy's scholastic program is designed to foster excellence in all disciplines associated with the liberal arts tradition. Faculty members guide students to master skills, to acquire knowledge, and to think critically, creatively and independently. The school strives to help young people achieve their potential not only in intellectual understanding, but also in esthetic sensitivity, physical well-being, athletic prowess, and moral decisiveness so that they may lead productive, responsible lives.

Committed to discovering authentic sources of community, the Academy strives to understand and respect the differences that arise in a multicultural setting. Academic and residential programs encourage sensitivity to issues of gender, race, and social class. The school's residential structure fosters close association between faculty and students for personal, social and intellectual development.

Andover's 1778 Constitution charges the Academy to prepare "youth from every quarter" to understand that "goodness without knowledge is weak and feeble; yet knowledge without goodness is dangerous." This obligation challenges students in mind, body, and spirit to see beyond themselves and to go beyond the familiar; to remain committed to developing what is finest in themselves and others, for others and themselves.

GOALS

- To attract, support and retain outstanding secondary school teachers.
- To provide a strong residential community with increased student-faculty contact in residential life.
- To promote academic excellence through a coherent curriculum, academic planning, and student advising that reflect both the unique resources of the school and the need to make difficult choices.
- To build and nurture a multicultural coeducational community and to make Phillips Academy open to all qualified students regardless of their ability to pay.
- To maintain the buildings and grounds of the existing physical plant.
- To promote students' sense of responsibility for themselves, their peers, their school and the world in which they live.
- To manage the school with respect for all constituencies and with efficiency at all levels of decision making.

Report from the Headmaster

Donald W. McNemar

Since its founding in 1778, Phillips Academy has exercised leadership in American education. By its very existence this school is one of the early American academies that helped give definition to American public education as it subsequently evolved in the 19th century.

Certain aspects of Andover's approach to education have remained constant since the school's founding, including the fundamental purposes as expressed in the Constitution. Phillips Academy was charged therein to ". . . be ever equally open to Youth, of requisite qualifications, from every quarter. . . to enlarge the minds, and form the Morals of the Youth . . . well considering that, though goodness without knowledge . . . is weak and feeble; yet knowledge without goodness is dangerous; and that both united form the noblest character, and lay the surest foundation of usefulness to mankind."

Today Phillips Academy seeks to exercise its educational leadership role in a manner consistent with those founding principles, while responding to societal realities and educational requirements of our youth who, indeed, do come from every quarter, locally, nationally, and internationally. At the same time, just as Phillips Academy contributed significantly to the educational needs of a new nation, today Andover continues to take seriously its contributory role on the larger stage of public education, nationally and internationally.

I am very pleased to be able to report that the 1989 evaluation for accreditation of Phillips Academy by The New England Association of Schools and Colleges (NEASC) confirmed Andover's fundamental strengths, as reflected in the accompanying report by Dean of Studies Susan McCaslin. The NEASC evaluation also highlighted and challenged us to extend our efforts in several innovative areas, outlined below and further developed in the accompanying reports by my colleagues.

Education of the Whole Person—We recognize that we are teaching adolescents who typically come to Andover from life experiences more complex than those of previous generations of students. In view of the choices they already confront, as well as the opportunities and challenges to which they must respond in the future, it has become all the more important to offer our students an educational program that nurtures the development of the whole person. From this recognition, two years ago the faculty Ad Hoc Committee on the Academic Program approached the task of curriculum review. Among other revisions, proposals for the Junior Humanities Program and the Human Issues course for Lowers emerged and were approved by the full faculty. These initiatives are discussed in Dean McCaslin's report. These concerns have also inspired the development of an annual, week-long program under the heading "Freedom from Chemical Dependency." During each of the past nine years FCD week has enhanced our students' understanding of alcohol and drug abuse, helping them to live intelligently in a society where such substances abound.

Community Service and Values—As a further extension of this concern for the development of the whole person, Andover explicitly focuses our students' attention on opportunities for service to community, country, and the world. Recently the Community Service Program at Phillips Academy has engaged as many as 500 students each year in off-campus service activities. The Ad Hoc Committee on the Academic Program recommended that "the Community Service Program be integrated systematically into the Andover educational experience; that responsible care of oneself and selfless caring of others and for the environment be made prominent among our priorities." The faculty is actively seeking to carry out this intention.

Community Service takes many forms at Phillips Academy. One of them is PALS (Phillips Academy—Leonard School), wherein Andover faculty and students have developed a partnership with the Leonard School in the nearby city of Lawrence. With support from local foundations and corporations, Andover faculty and students in the PALS program work with a group of 75 at-risk middle school-aged students over a period of three years. In an intensive summer program, with continuing support during the school year, our faculty and students are helping the Leonard School children acquire confidence, and the academic and social skills they will need to sustain their own educational progress as they enter and proceed through public secondary school.

Another example of service to a larger community is the Dakar Project in Senegal, referred to in the report of the Dean of Community Affairs Cathy Royal.

An outstanding demonstration of Non Sibi spirit and service is the story of Andover alumnus Dick Phelps '46, reported by Athletic Director Paul Kalkstein. Dick Phelps' major gift to enhance scholarship opportunities for Phillips Academy students exemplifies the living out of one's personal values in a way that has been inspirational for our entire school community.

Multicultural Education—Here at Phillips Academy, multiculturalism implies our efforts to give voice to those whose voices have been unheard or diminished during the historic evolution of our country—African Americans, Hispanic Americans, Asian Americans, and women. In her report, Dean Royal summarizes some of these initiatives—the celebration of Martin Luther King Day, the emergence of several new student organizations, and the participation in anti-racism workshops by faculty and students. This spring the Headmaster's Symposium focused on gender issues. As Dean McCaslin points out, our adoption of the National Association of Independent Schools' multicultural self-assessment model greatly enhanced the value of our NEASC evaluation for accreditation process.

Internationalism at Phillips Academy—Multicultural also refers to the many nationalities that make up the Phillips Academy community. As John Bachman writes in his report, this year we found a special way to recognize and symbolize Andover's internationalism through the display of flags representing the nationalities on campus. These flags were introduced at the opening Convocation and were displayed proudly during the visit to campus by President George Bush '42. Also this year we created the role of International Student Coordinator—held by Francesca Piana who, together with student leaders, has been working to address international issues and highlight international perspectives.

As the McNemars learned during our 1989 sabbatical, Phillips Academy is already playing a significant international role far beyond what we had imagined. School Year Abroad, our exchange programs in the Soviet Union and China, and the presence of Andover students, faculty and alumni abroad, have had a major impact on the lives of those they have touched and have been a force in generating important educational developments abroad. We continue to seek opportunities to enrich our programs by encouraging students from other lands to attend Phillips Academy, and by engaging our students and teachers in experiences abroad.

I began by noting that Phillips Academy has always been a part of American public education. Although independent schools represent less than one percent of all American schools, I believe that there are significant contributions that we alone can provide. Andover offers several summer institutes for inner-city public school students and teachers, referred to in the report by Dean of Faculty, Kelly Wise—the Andover-Dartmouth Math Teachers Institute, the Institute for Recruitment of Teachers, the Andover-Bread Loaf Urban Teachers Writing Workshop, and $(MS)^2$. As collaborative efforts by Phillips Academy, public schools and universities, with support from foundations, corporations, and individual donors, these programs are serving hundreds of public school students and teachers each summer. And during the regular school year these programs continue having a positive effect in the public school systems from which these students and teachers come. Additionally, Andover's regular Summer Session provides an opportunity for students and teachers, other than those enrolled in the regular session, to gain direct benefit from our educational resources. And through their educational and scholarly writings, and through the sharing of their teaching practices, Andover's faculty make valuable contributions to American education far beyond Andover Hill.

Phillips Academy continues to nurture innovative programs in pursuit of our enduring purposes and in response to the evolving circumstances in which education takes place. Beyond pioneering of the NAIS Multicultural Self-Assessment Program, and responding to the recommendations of our own Ad Hoc Committee on Academic Programs, during the past year we introduced the Andover Plan, mentioned in the report of Dean of Admission Jeannie Dissette. Modeled after the best of college and university financial assistance programs, the Andover Plan breaks new ground in introducing to independent schools and their families several new ways to afford independent secondary schooling.

We are proud of Andover today. In keeping with our traditions, we are meeting ever changing educational challenges, as we prepare young people for the 21st century.

Report from the Executive Assistant to the Headmaster

John E. Bachman

This position I hold was created anew in the 1989–90 school year, intended in part to fill some of the gaps left by retiring Associate Headmaster Peter Q. McKee, and in part to extend the Headmaster's effectiveness by permitting him to focus his attention on issues which he alone can manage. It has been a real privilege to serve Phillips Academy in this role—to become better acquainted with a range of issues cutting across the campus and relating to wonderful people from every constituency of the Andover community.

Two projects emanating from the Headmaster's office this year left me with great pride about what this school represents: the new tradition of international flags, and the Bicentennial Convocation we held on November 5, 1989 to commemorate the 200th anniversary of the visit of President George Washington to Phillips Academy, attended by President George Bush '42.

For the first time we opened the school year with an outdoor convocation highlighted by a procession of flags carried by individuals from the 67 nationalities represented in our student body. It was a joyous, colorful manifestation of the multiculturalism present at Andover today. Appearing at subsequent convocations throughout the school year, the flags served to remind us of our human complexity, to herald that aspect of the Andover experience, and to recognize that to take the full measure of an Andover education we must cast away presumption, pause regularly to listen to one another, and thereby learn from our human diversity.

As was acknowledged by President Bush and many other participants in the November 5, 1989 Bicentennial Convocation, nowhere was the symbolism of the flags more pronounced than on that beautiful, crisp Sunday morning. President Bush, the Chaplains, the Academy Orchestra, readers and speakers representing many cultures and perspectives from the Phillips and Abbot Academy traditions joined hands that morning to celebrate what binds us together as we pursue universal educational aspirations here on Andover Hill. There was evident a great sense of mutual respect among a sea of human uniqueness. Moments like that are precious in the life of an institution, and it was wonderful to witness how many people could experience the sense of institutional fulfillment that the day seemed to bring.

Report from the Secretary of the Academy

It is with great pleasure that as the school's new Secretary of the Academy I report a banner year in the Office of Academy Resources. During a year of transition, with four new directors and five new staff members, total support for Phillips Academy in gifts and pledges was nearly $17 million—the largest single year total since the Bicentennial Campaign. Credit for this success goes to a veritable legion of tireless, dedicated volunteers and to them we extend our heartfelt thanks. Without the commitment of their time, expertise and personal resources, we could not begin to reach our ambitious goals.

The capital funds raised through the offices of Capital Development, Corporate and Foundation Support and Planned Giving will support a myriad of projects including the renovation of George Washington Hall, scholarships, teaching foundations, the Community Service Program, the Addison Gallery and such summer projects as $(MS)^2$, Andover-Bread Loaf Urban Teachers Writing Workshop, Andover-Dartmouth Urban Math Teachers Institute, the Phillips Academy-Leonard School Program, and the new Institute for Recruitment of Teachers. The Annual Fund, in the face of an uncertain economy, surpassed last year's mark. These monies, given by caring alumni/ae, parents and friends, provide critical support for the academy's operating budget including scholarships, salaries, and other campus needs.

In 1985 the Board of Trustees established the Andover Development Board to help meet the endowment and capital needs of the academy. The ADB met that May and set an ambitious goal of $40,000,000 to be raised over five years. Under the able leadership of R. L. Ireland III '38 and, in its fifth year, Richard Goodyear '59, the ADB met this past May, and with the entire Phillips Academy community assembled, celebrated its remarkable accomplishment of $43.7 million raised!

On June 9, 1990, at the Annual Meeting of Alumni/ae, the truly generous gift of $3.7 million from Alumni Trustee Richard J. Phelps '46 was announced. This is the third largest single gift in the school's history and will be used to support need-based financial aid for scholar athletes, a teaching foundation, the George Washington Hall project, the Addison Gallery, playing field and tennis court improvements, and a veteran's memorial honoring alumni/ae killed in Korea and Vietnam.

This was a busy year for other OAR departments as well. The Publication Department completed 141 projects including three outstanding issues of the Andover Bulletin. The office of Alumni and Parent Affairs established a new regional alumni association in North Carolina and coordinated numerous successful on-campus events including Reunion Weekend with a record-breaking 1,523 in attendance. The office of Information Services welcomed four new people and planned the transfer to a new computer system. The office of Public Information was kept busy with the visit of President George Bush '42 in November, in addition to its regular activities.

All of this activity and more occurred while everyone in OAR prepared for the move to a new, permanent home in the renovated McKeen Hall on the Abbot campus.

This past year saw the retirements of Charter Trustee and Board President Melville Chapin '36 and R. L. Ireland III '38. Serving as Charter Trustees for 16 and 30 years, respectively, both worked closely with OAR and were instrumental in ensuring success through numerous fundraising endeavors. It is comforting to note that these two tireless volunteers will maintain their commitment to Andover as Trustees Emeriti. Also retiring were Alumni Trustees Kate Sides Flather '59, George Bundy Smith '55, Alumni Council President Henry G. Higdon '59, and Co-chair of the Alumni Fund Donald L. Shapiro '53. We thank them all for their tireless service to the school.

We welcome to the trustee ranks new Alumni Council President Stephen W. Foss '59, Alumni Fund Co-chair Caroline Greene Donnelly '58, and newly-elected Alumni Trustees Sandra Urie Thorpe '70 and Gerrit M. Keator '57.

It is a privilege to be part of this preeminent academy and a pleasure to work daily with 34 wonderful OAR colleagues and untold numbers of dedicated volunteers. I look forward to meeting and working with many more of our loyal supporters in the years ahead.

Report from the Dean of Faculty

Kelly Wise

It has been a busy and productive year for the faculty. Key issues that were addressed were plans to renovate George Washington Hall, continuance of the Racism Workshop, school-wide grading issues, the proposed faculty trip to China, an early retirement program, ethics and human issues, and student "personal days."

The Benefits Committee, chaired by Tom Lyons, has proposed an early retirement program: for each year of early retirement, a participant in the program will receive 50 percent of his/her final actual working year's salary, plus medical insurance coverage and TIAA-CREF benefits. During the period of early retirement, the Academy will contribute to TIAA-CREF annually an amount equal to 15 percent of one's final year's salary.

The Headmaster's Symposium, co-chaired by Nancy Boutilier of the English Department and Tony Rotundo of the History Department, was a fine success. Focused on "Issues of Gender," it brought to campus a number of thoughtful and provocative lecturers, notably Jill Conway, former President of Smith College, and Professor Lillian Rubin of Queens College.

Several new deans, department chairs, and teaching foundations have been appointed: Henry Wilmer has been named new Dean of Residence; Pete Joel new Dean of Faculty; and the new Athletic Director is Leon Modeste. Two new Cluster Deans were appointed: Bill Scott (Rabbit Pond) and Loring Kinder (Flagstaff).

New and reappointed chairs of academic departments include: Elaine Adams (Chemistry); Peter Warsaw (Music); Robert Moss (French); Kevin Heelan (Theatre); David Cobb (English); and Joe Wennik (German).

The Trustees honored the following faculty by naming them to teaching foundations: Chris Gurry, History Department to the Martha Cochran Foundation; Natalie Schorr, French Department to the Ami Wright Lancashire Foundation; Paul Kalkstein, English Department to the William M. Newman Foundation; Leon Modeste to the John F. Castle, Jr. Foundation; and Kelly Wise to the Independence Foundation.

Special honors were bestowed upon four Teaching Fellows this year. For outstanding service in multiple areas of school life, the following were commended: Sarah Redfield in History (Oliva award); Christopher Ahn in Academic Counseling (Joseph W. R. Dodge award); Vivienne Cho in Art (Elizabeth Rogers award); and Dwayne Daniel in Art (M. Lawrence Shields award). The new Director of the Teaching Fellow Program is Thomas McGraw.

The Summer Session, directed by Elwin Sykes, convened with 770 students from around the country. Taught by seasoned collegiate, secondary school, and Phillips Academy faculty, the course offerings were rich and varied, ranging from Japanese to "Spies, Terrorists, and Revolutionaries." One group, the Spanish Study Tour, attended the University of Salamanca in Spain. The Summer Session continues to significantly impact American education through a variety of programs for minority students and secondary school teachers: $(MS)^2$; Andover-Dartmouth Institute; Andover-Bread Load Writer's Workshop; and the recent new Institute for Recruitment of Teachers.

Faculty creativity and scholarship continue to thrive. Historian Tony Rotundo received a National Endowment for the Humanities Grant to complete his study on "Masculinity, 1790–1910." Another historian, Tom Lyons, is readying his book "After Hiroshima: America since 1945" for its third edition. English instructor Thylias Moss has recently published a new book of poems, "Pyramid of Bone." She became a 1990 finalist for the coveted National Book Circle Critics Award.

For the 1990-91 academic year, twelve full-time and four part-time faculty and sixteen Teaching Fellows have been hired, and we welcome Susan Noble, director of the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library as well as Xiao-Min Ni on a one-year appointment as visiting scholar from Harbin University, China.

Since this is the last time my comments will appear in the Annual Report, I would be remiss if I did not personally thank Melville Chapin, recently retired President of the Board of Trustees. Mel and the board have been warm friends of the faculty. Through their efforts, Andover has a salary scale that almost no other secondary school in the nation can match, excellent institutional facilities, and a diverse and first-class student body.

Mr. Wise is an instructor in English on the Independence Foundation Teaching Endowment.

Susan McCaslin

The academic year opened at a fast clip, with our ten-year accreditation visit during the fourth week of school, and gathered steam from there. Andover's re-accreditation process represented a pioneering effort in that it combined the usual New England Association of Schools and Colleges evaluation with the Multicultural Assessment Plan, developed by the National Association of Independent Schools. We undertook this move out of a recognition that multicultural concerns are prominent in the school's statement of purpose approved by the Trustees last year; the Assessment Plan was a way to focus our efforts in this area. The news from our evaluators concerning the academic program was generally affirming. They commended the Academy for providing "outstanding intellectual experiences" for its students. By way of recommendation they urged us to make our commitment to multicultural education "institutionalized, thorough and ongoing." Work in this area has begun most significantly through the creation of a new position, Dean of Community Affairs and Multicultural Development, which is held by Cathy Royal; the continuation of anti-racism workshops for both students and faculty; and the development of a pilot course for Lowers, called Self and Community, that pays explicit attention to issues of gender and race. In this work of understanding and respecting human differences that arise in a multicultural setting, the school stands on new ground, new to Andover and new to American education. As the accreditation Visiting Committee Report noted, "Andover has taken a leadership role second to none in its vigorous efforts to become an institution of learning which will reflect the diversity of American society throughout its educational policies."

The academic program received intense internal scrutiny as we sought to implement the Ad Hoc Committee on the Academic Program proposals voted by the faculty last spring. The watchword that echoed throughout these proposals was that of coherence—out of a recognition that, if we are not careful, our complexity and multiplicity of opportunities will fragment rather than enrich the Andover intellectual experience. This concern also prompted the creation of the Junior Humanities Program, combining the study of art, English and history.

Interest in curricular coherence extended to an examination of the progression of courses within departments. As we seek to serve students with increasingly diverse backgrounds and levels of preparation (although not of ability!), we must be increasingly alert to providing them with appropriate degrees of initial challenge and support so that they can reach the standards of achievement expected at Phillips Academy. In areas where knowledge is sequential in nature, such as math and science, flexible entry levels are particularly important so that students can gain the solid foundation of skills and knowledge to perform well at the higher levels. Starting next year, all Juniors, regardless of their previous science background or math preparation, will be able to take a year-long lab science.

An innovation this year was the offering of the Headmaster's Symposium as a credit course for Seniors. The Symposium this spring focused on gender issues, and judging by the number and intensity of conversations about gender at Commons and around the campus, the level of engagement in the Symposium was remarkably high. This is all the more noteworthy given the banner list of speakers who visited the school this spring. The Community Service Program brought Harvard psychologist and author Robert Coles and former Congressman Father Drinan, while the Andover Economics Project hosted British political leader Shirley Williams and Lester Thurow, Dean of the Sloan School of Management at M.I.T.

As we enter the nineties, one of the challenges facing the academic program is how to encourage and support initiatives without expanding the faculty. During the eighties the Academy witnessed significant growth in the curriculum, from the introduction of Chinese in the Language Division to the addition of numerous off-campus programs, and a corresponding growth in the size of the faculty. The school's current long—range planning projections make clear that it is not possible to expand the program and the faculty and attain the Trustee-mandated goals of significantly increasing faculty salaries and keeping Andover open to "Youth from every quarter" through a substantial financial aid program. This will mean hard choices ahead about what we can, and cannot, do.

Report from the Dean of Residence

Jonathan A. Stableford '63

"The world is filled with people who have not graduated from Andover," I heard myself saying in late May as I drove a Senior, just dismissed, to the airport for a lonely trip home and to his disappointed parents. "Like Humphrey Bogart," he sneered, taking my words in his own way, identifying with a hero expelled rather than those who had never heard of the school.

In my ten years as a Dean—five as Dean of West Quad South, the past five as Dean of Residence—I have been struck by the paradoxical behavior of some students who love the Andover experience dearly but who jeopardize their positions by behaving recklessly with the rules of the school. There is nothing more poignant than a tearful student, exiled from the school through the disciplinary process, suddenly realizing the personal costs. Why would a student who treasures the academic experience, the community, and the culture of Andover risk them all so carelessly? The obvious answer, of course, is that student does not expect to be caught. True enough, but not a durable explanation. In the spring of 1990 no fewer than eight students were dismissed, and the student body was buzzing with the events. Everyone knew the risks. Everyone was talking about how "stupid" some people could be.

A more comprehensive explanation might suggest that taking risks is common behavior in adolescence and that some students are actually excited by taking irrational chances with their secure spot in school. Indeed, we encourage this behavior to a degree in acceptable contexts. A student who in a physics independent project challenges conventional thought might be considered brilliant; in the drama lab a student would be applauded for psychotic behavior; in athletics a little violence might be what the coach expects. These approved expressions of rebellion are not as available to some students as to others. To rebel, a student might choose to "cruise," to leave a dorm at night after sign-in, perhaps to visit a friend of the opposite sex; throughout adolescence students are making decisions about the use of alcohol and other drugs, and some, lamentably, experiment while school is in session; some forms of academic dishonesty—for me the most dangerous of behaviors in an academic setting—are adolescent challenges to institutional values. Not all students are rule-breakers, but it is a rare student who does not occasionally experience ambivalent feelings about living and studying at Andover. There are moments when students lose focus, and there are moments when the rules of the school are far less compelling than common sense might suggest.

A spring like the one of 1990 should make a school take a look at itself and ask if something new is afoot, if we are responding properly to student needs and behaviors. In a single week a Dean is likely to hear from one parent that as a school we are too liberal and tolerant, that we are repressive and cruel from another. At this point I believe that what we experienced was exaggerated but not significantly different. Rebelliousness and carelessness are normal in adolescence; most of the expressions of these feelings are normal, though unacceptable within the community. As adults and educators we must continue to respond to these expressions, occasionally with dismissals. As we do, it is important to recognize what we all know well, that the real world lies beyond Andover. Despite their feelings at the moment of departure, most of those who must leave for disciplinary reasons will go on to normal, healthy, happy—and occasionally brilliant—lives.

Report from the Dean of Community Affairs

The 1989-90 Academic Year saw the establishment of a new Dean's position on campus. As the Academy reviewed its reflections from its self-study along with the recommendations from the Multicultural Assessment Plan (M.A.P.) Evaluating Team, it was clear that an institutional shift was needed to create an office whose responsibilities included coordinating Phillips Academy's efforts toward diversity. The Minority Counseling Advisor, as a result, became the Dean of Community Affairs and Multicultural Development, incorporating into this new structure the continued support of African-American and Hispanic-Latino students on campus.

The resulting year has been exciting, rewarding, and challenging. Areas of academic and residential life continually intersected with the Office of Community Affairs, beginning with a report on the South African Fact-Finding Committee's trip to South Africa. This was followed by a seminar on Parents' Weekend—a dialogue entitled "creative community building" with educators, parents, and community activists from around the country. Black Arts Weekend, Latin Arts Weekend, and a highly successful Martin Luther King Day program allowed the community to learn more about and reflect on the diversity that is present at Phillips Academy. The 1990 MLK Celebration was the first of its kind at the school. For one day, students and faculty paused to observe Dr. King's birthday with seminars, guest speakers, and workshops on a variety of issues.

The Office continues to be the base for the Afro-Latino American Society and all the valuable work which that group does on campus. Many other student organizations have joined the Society to work to bring about a better understanding of people of color at Phillips Academy and beyond. The Asian Cultural Society, Students Against a Racist Community (SARC), and many students from the international community often voice their support and provide input for the Office of Community Affairs.

Whenever an institution attempts fundamental organizational change, there are challenges along the way—that is to be expected. The highlights of the year, however, have been the real joy of the experience for me: the ability to watch students of all races and backgrounds come together for an anti-racism workshop; to speak candidly, and sometimes painfully, about what it means to be "the other" or a person of color in the world today. They spoke about wanting to change the world to make it better, about the realization that even at Phillips Academy there is much work to be done, and most importantly about their commitment—even eagerness—to do this work.

The faculty added their voices to this commitment as we continued our anti-racism program for both people of color and white faculty members. It has been three years since the program began, and now approximately 100 faculty members have attended at least one workshop. The faculty also voted to explore a course in ethics and human issues. This year two colleagues—Vincent Avery and 'Cilla Bonney-Smith—and I began the pilot course for this Lower-level program. The course was so successful that every one of the eighteen students who participated recommended that it be mandatory for all Lowers and that there should be another course that allows further exploration at the Senior level.

Cathy L. Royal

The Dakar Project, a five-year community service program in West Africa, brings students selected through a campus essay competition to Senegal, and focuses their energies on rebuilding elementary schools in Dakar during the winter vacation. In return, three Senegalese scholars attended Phillips Academy.

Phillips Academy is a national high school with an international reputation and, as such, is beginning to explore how that affects each student, regardless of his or her background. There are many avenues that underscore our commitment to diversity and quality education which validate the philosophy and understanding that a diverse community does not "lower" the standards for anyone in that community. The Office of Community Affairs and Multicultural Development is committed to being at the forefront of these efforts for all in the Phillips Academy community.

Report from the Dean of Admission

Jeannie F. Dissette

The four hundred and thirty-five new students who will enter Phillips Academy in September 1990 come to us from forty states and twenty-six countries; fifty-two percent are boys, forty-eight percent are girls. One hundred and ten are relatives of Phillips or Abbot Academy graduates; thirty-eight (nine percent) are the sons or daughters of Academy graduates. Our new black and Hispanic students number fifty-three, (twelve percent); forty-eight of our new students are international students. One hundred and fifty-nine are receiving financial aid.

The size of our applicant pool is stable; indeed, the number of applicants is slightly higher this year than last, and the applicants are the strongest I have witnessed in my five years at Phillips Academy. The mean rank in class among matriculants is the ninety-fifth percentile; the mean Secondary School Admission Test score is the eighty-seventh percentile. Among our new students are a number of nationally recognized musicians and athletes, and we are especially proud of those who have overcome great obstacles to join us: one is legally deaf, one has cystic fibrosis and one, born with cerebral palsy, is a varsity athlete.

The power of this applicant pool also enabled us to be need-blind for all clear admits: eight-five percent of the applicants were chosen without reference to family financial circumstances. Faculty readers and class officers were instructed to read without reference to financial aid; no one identified as a unanimous admit was denied admission based upon financial circumstances. We did consider aid as we reviewed students placed in "limbo," but we were able to admit only one in six of those students whether or not they requested aid. We in Hardy House share with the Trustees, Headmaster, alumni, faculty and student body the goal of resuming a fully need-blind admission process. Dick Phelps' '46 remarkably generous $2. 3 million gift to endow need-based scholarships for scholar-athletes, shines as a beacon of hope toward that goal.

The 1989-90 admission year was one in which the whole community worked together on our admission effort. Don McNemar appointed a faculty Task Force on the Composition of the Student Body, to provide perspective and policy direction. Members of the faculty continued to interview candidates, read folders, speak to groups of prospective families during the Second Visit and other special programs, helping us to persuade students to choose Andover. Our students gave over two thousand tours and hosted prospective students during special programs and during the week of Second Visits. Our alumni admission representatives conducted nearly 450 interviews worldwide. This year's Alumni Council Weekend examined the topic of admission to Phillips Academy and provided us with an opportunity to demonstrate the strength of our current applicant pool, to describe the selection process and to hear the Deans of Admission of Deerfield, Milton Academy, and Taft School, as well as the Director of Enrollment Planning at Middlebury College discuss the challenges which confront boarding schools and which have created enormous changes in our admission prospects and processes. Andover's applicant pool remains at the apex, but we can not take any part of that pool for granted. We will need continued and increased assistance from the entire Phillips Academy community; faculty, current students and especially graduates and current parents, if we are to maintain the quality of our student body.

Changes in Hardy House during 1989-90: Clem Morell retired after 32 years of service to Andover, the last three of which were spent as part-time Director of Financial Aid. We wish him well and thank him for his dedication to the students and families with whom he worked. We welcome Jim Ventre '79, Admission Officer 1983-86, as the new full-time Director of Financial Aid. Jim will be responsible for The Andover Plan as well as for the $4.7 million financial aid program. Elizabeth Bruns Eaton AA '62 has returned to continue her superb work as coordinator of our alumni and parent admission volunteers. I am especially appreciative of the talented, dedicated and experienced team of professionals with whom I work and to the members of the Phillips Academy community who understand the admission challenges we face and who support us with such talent and energy.

Mrs. Dissette is the Dean of Admission on the Joshua Lewis Miner III Endowed Foundation for the Dean of Admission.

Report from the Director of Athletics

Paul Kalkstein '61

The 1989-90 athletic year was a roller coaster. High hopes and enthusiasm marked the fall season, followed by the winter doldrums for many of our teams. Then, just when we thought everything was wrapped up with some strong spring performances, came the most exciting event of all: a gift of $3.7 million from Dick Phelps '46, with $2.3 million providing need-based scholarships for new scholar-athletes.

The increase in spectator interest that I have reported here before continues. A crowd of over 600 attended the first night game on the newly illuminated Brothers Field: field hockey versus Brooks School on October 6. Night football versus Wilbraham & Monson also drew a big crowd, as the prediction of the Athletic Advisory Board that the new lights would draw the community together came true.

Our field hockey and football teams had terrific seasons, both playing in New England Championships. A 14-1 regular season record put field hockey on the map, while football went 7-1 and defeated Exeter for the third straight year. The winter highlight was a boys and girls track sweep in the Interscholastics, followed by a rare thumping of Exeter. Girls hockey, now coached by Jon Stableford '63 was strong, but the boys squad of Chris Gurry '66 had an off year.

In the spring, girls crew repeated as Interscholastic champion, boys tennis won the New England title, and boys lacrosse won a record 12 games, including their fifth straight over old nemesis St. Paul's.

But the biggest thrill for those who love sports at Andover came after the season was all over. During Reunion Weekend, Dick Phelps '46 announced the third largest gift in Andover's history—of which $2,300,000 supports athletics directly. In addition to 12 scholarships for needy scholar-athletes, Dick's gift includes an endowed mid-career teacher-coach position and major capital support for tennis court and varsity baseball diamond reconstruction.

Addressing students, faculty and staff at a luncheon in the cage for the Andover Development Board in early May, Dick told his own Andover story. He was a member of the Watertown High School baseball team in the spring of 1944 and had pitched a strong game at Andover. An Andover parent asked him if he might be interested in coming to PA Dick replied that his family could not afford such an education.

"Are you a good student?" asked the parent. "Heck, yes," chimed in several of Dick's teammates, "he's a better student than he is a ball player."

So Dick came to Andover on scholarship. He had an outstanding two-year career, excelling in the classroom as he did on the football and baseball fields, and on the hockey rink in winter. Dick relates that during all the time he was at PA his family received just one bill from the school: "for five dollars, and I don't know what it was for."

Dick Phelps' gift is a wonderful return to Andover because it will help youngsters like himself, full of ability and fully able to prosper in the PA academic and athletic setting. Don McNemar gave the varsity coaches a preview of the gift just prior to the public announcement. The room was energized; we were excited at the prospect of having more athletes to work with. These will NOT be "athletic scholarships"—like all of our scholarships they will be granted entirely according to need—but they will allow us to actively seek out bright boys and girls who are also strong athletes for grades 9-12 in a way we could not have done before.

Thanks, Dick!

Report from the Chief Financial Officer

Neil H. Cullen

The Academy experienced an operating shortfall of $874,000 in the year ending June 30, 1990 on a total expense base of $29.9 million. The problem was created principally by heavier than anticipated expenses in medical insurance, workers compensation, social security tax, staff pensions, food and heating oil.

While the budget strains were evident in relatively specific spending categories, the overall picture emerges from our continued attempts to achieve our three major objectives:

- a 50 percent increase in faculty compensation in the six year interval from 1988 to 1993 to help attract and retain excellent faculty members.
- a multiculturally diverse community attained partially through the maintenance of need blind admissions.
- renewal of the physical plant by spending $2 million (in 1989 dollars) annually, building gradually to that figure by 1992.

In July, 1988, we thought we could attain the above objectives and still balance the Academy's budget over the long term. What has happened since that time? We are well ahead of schedule in achieving the faculty compensation objective, having increased the faculty compensation pool (salary and benefits) by approximately 39 percent in the three years from 1988 to 1990. Part of this increase is due, of course, to the extraordinary rise in the cost of medical insurance. The increase in the salary pool alone for the same period was approximately 33 percent. Since faculty compensation represented approximately 31 percent of the total 1990 budget of $29.9 million, our rate of progress has a significant impact on our spending pattern.

We are also devoting more resources to financial aid than we anticipated in 1988. In 1988, we hoped to achieve need blind admission by having a financial aid budget equal to 26 percent of tuition or $4 million in 1990. In fact, such a figure turned out to be unrealistic, and we spent $4.4 million in 1990 which was 28.4 percent of tuition.

In the physical plant area, we are behind our 1988 plan to reach the $2 million level in 1989 dollars by 1992. In 1990, we spent $1.05 million and we have budgeted $1.3 million in 1991. We have consciously slowed spending in this area, due both to other operating budget pressures and to the Academy's decision to borrow $12 million through the Massachusetts Industrial Finance Agency (MIFA) on June 29, 1989.

In brief, trying to achieve our compensation, financial aid and renewal objectives simultaneously is difficult, especially in view of some environmental factors largely beyond the Academy's control such as rising employee benefits and fuel costs.

In view of the 1990 shortfall, it is heartening to note that data from comparable schools revealed that Andover is relatively cost effective and is devoting proportionately more of its resources to teaching and support activities than are its peer institutions. While we can and must become more efficient, especially in view of recent events, we cannot expect significant expense savings if we are to continue to offer a superior educational environment for approximately 1,200 students. The most telling statistic is the one revealing that in spite of our $180 million endowment, Andover has less endowment per student than some of its peer institutions. To maintain the current educational environment and thereby to achieve the aforementioned objectives, Andover needs at least $70 million more in endowment in 1990 dollars or its equivalent in other revenue sources to generate an additional $3.5 million in annual revenues.

The educational and financial challenges before us are large, and we are prepared to reduce expenses and to identify new sources of revenue to meet them. On the occasion of reporting on the 1990 fiscal year, however, I would like to pause to specify some of the significant physical plant renewal efforts completed: a $2.5 million historic renovation of McKeen Hall on Abbot Circle, the rehabilitation of Pemberton Cottage, continued renewal of the underground electrical distribution system, a new telephone system with fiber optic cable, and the renovation of several campus buildings including faculty homes and the major towers (Memorial Bell Tower, Samuel Phillips Hall, Pearson Hall and Graham House). Such renewal efforts will benefit the Academy for many years to come.

Operating Results

The 1989-90 fiscal year concluded with a shortfall in revenues of $874,000 on a total operating expense base of $29,834,000.

Revenue exceeded the actual revenue of the prior year by $1.8 million due largely to an increase in tuition and endowment income (both 8 percent greater), as had been planned. Expenses, however, rose by $2.7 million over the year 1988-89, a 10 percent increase.

The most significant categories of expense contributing to the 10 percent increase were:

Salaries: faculty, administrative, and staff salaries increased 6.1 percent—$616,000. Salaries represent 45 percent of total operating expenses.

Benefits: total cost was $708,000 greater than last year, a 28 percent increase. Pension contributions went up $305,000 due in part to a change in Federal regulations enabling staff employees to qualify for an Academy pension contribution of 7 percent of base salary at the end of their second year of service, rather than after three years as in 1988-89. Medical insurance premiums rose by $233,000.

Physical Plant: including salaries, total costs were $993,000 greater than last year, a 20 percent increase. Nearly $600,000 of this increase was related to the interest costs for the $12 million bond issued in June 1989 to fund renewal projects on campus.

Plant renewal costs will continue to increase in future years in recognition that current students use the facilities and should therefore pay a fair share of the renewal on an ongoing basis.

Balancing the budget remains a high priority of the Trustees and the administration, and efforts are underway to return to a break-even status.

Tuition and Financial Aid

Total financial aid, including scholarship grants and loans, increased nearly 8 percent over the prior year, to $4,846,750. The number of recipients of aid remained at 485, representing 40 percent of our enrollment.

Direct grants and loans are awarded to students on the basis of financial need. Andover's financial support is extended to all students above the tuition charged to parents, however. The average actual cost per student was $20,000 in 1990, while the average tuition for boarding and day students was $12,800, representing Academy support for each student of $7,200.

The boarding rate of $13,500 in 1989-90 was an increase of 8.9 percent over the prior year, and the rate of $14,600 in 1990-91 is an 8.1 percent increase. Tuition remains modest, nonetheless, in comparison with other residential schools.

The Endowment and Its Investment

The total Academy endowment, with investments stated at market value, was $190,109,654 at June 30, 1990, compared with $175,927,626 one year earlier. The significant increase in the endowment's market value was due to the following factors:

Increase as a result of gifts and bequests added to the endowment	$ 4,591,718
Transfer to income from fund appreciation	(752,842)
Appreciation, both realized and unrealized, in the market value of the investments	$10,624,573
Net effect of all other additions and withdrawals	(281,421)
Total increase in market value	$14,182,028

The performance of the Academy's investment managers is reviewed regularly by the Finance Committee of the Board of Trustees on the basis of the Academy's stated investment objectives. Currently the school has five equity managers, one fixed income manager, and several organizations managing a relatively small portion of real estate and venture capital investments.

In fiscal year 1989-90 the general pooled investments (of $176 million) realized a total return of 12.8 percent which compares favorably with 13.3 percent for a weighted composite of the S&P500, the Shearson/Lehman bond and the Treasury Bill indices. For the ten year period ending June 30, 1990 the Academy's invested funds realized a 15.1 percent average annual return, as compared to a 15.0 percent composite index and a 14.9 percent return for the mean performance of 75 educational endowments as reported by Cambridge Associates.

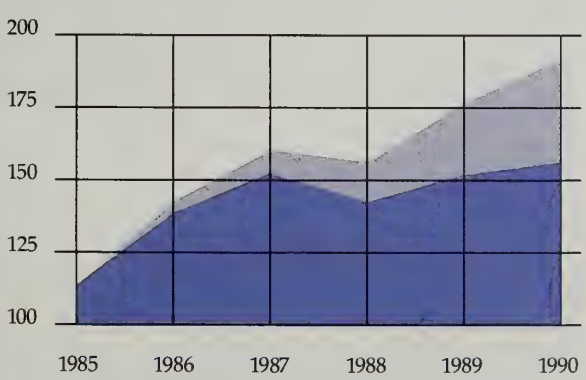

The accompanying graph illustrates Andover's endowment growth since 1985. The pie chart depicts the endowment asset allocation as of June 30, 1990.

Alumni Fund Update

It is with pleasure that we report on the 1989-1990 Alumni Fund. The commitment and NON SIBI spirit of hundreds of Alumni Fund volunteers continue to inspire and raise significant resources in support of Andover's annual operating budget. This year $2,445,032 was raised from 7,943 donors, falling just short of our dollar and participation objectives. As we look to the 1990-1991 year, we call upon each of you to heed the Academy's call for active involvement and support. With your understanding and participation we can meet the challenges set forth as Phillips Academy prepares for the 21st century.

On the pages that follow, we acknowledge everyone who has furthered Andover's mission by selflessly supporting the Alumni Fund and each of our special volunteers who makes this undertaking possible. Additionally, the names of those who have donated to other important Academy Funds are listed with their class. Thank you for understanding the school's needs. We are grateful for your involvement.

1989-90 Highlights

- The Class of 1940, under the untiring, enthusiastic, and inspirational leadership of Dave Gile, Gene Schnell, and Margit Lorenze raised nearly $350,000 from nearly 90 percent of the class in unrestricted annual support. This tremendous accomplishment constitutes a new academy Alumni Fund record —one we hope other classes will emulate and break often! Congratulations and heartfelt thanks to a superb 50th reunion class!

- A new 45th reunion record was set, as well, with Head Agents John Blake and Marion "Biz" Birney at the helm. The previous longstanding record, set by the Class of 1938 in 1984-1985 was $59,250. John and Biz raised over $63,000 for Andover.

- More than 390 alumni and student phonathon callers in New York, Washington, Boston, Andover, and Philadelphia raised 2,447 pledges totalling almost $200,000. Thanks to all! We offer special recognition to Alice Mary Leach '76 who coordinated the best-ever Washington event!

- Abbot women joined in support of the Academy with gifts totalling $121,269.

- NON SIBI Association gifts at the level of $1,000 or more (please note the NON SIBI donor listings) from more than 650 alumni provided nearly 60 percent of all Alumni Fund dollars. This leadership and generosity continues to be critical for the school.

- The Class of 1990, under the spirited direction of Eric Older, raised a Senior Class Gift totalling $2,106. Proceeds were used to purchase a beautiful Copper Beech tree with a "Class of 1990" plaque and to benefit the school's general endowment for scholarships. This is the first gift of its kind and the beginning of a great tradition.

- We say good-bye to Don Shapiro '53, who has served as Alumni Fund Co-Chair for the last four years. Don has been an exceptional, motivating, and highly respected leader. During Don's tenure the Fund has grown 12 percent! He will be missed. Gerry Jones '55, familiar to many (past Alumni Council President, 1955 Co-Agent and father of three Andover daughters) will succeed Don and serve as Co-Chair with Carol Greene Donnelly '58.

Parent and Grandparent Funds

1989–90 Parent and Grandparent Funds Exceed $475,000 Goal

- Alumni and non-alumni parents with students in the class of 1990 raise $160,024 in honor of Andover's fine faculty.
- Current non-alumni parent giving soars to $231,826 as increasing numbers join the NON SIBI Association of leadership donors.
- Parents of alumni achieve $100,000 goal as support for Andover continues well past graduation.
- Grandparents contribute significantly to help Andover maintain excellent programs.

Nancy and Peter Milton, parents of Rob '90 and Holly '87, accept a small token of appreciation from Headmaster McNemar for their leadership of the 1990 Senior Parent Fund Campaign in Honor of the Faculty. The Miltons continue their commitment to Phillips Academy as Past Parent Committee Chairs 1990-91. (Photo by Helen B. Bayly, P '80,'91)

Corporate Matching Gifts

During 1989-90 176 corporations matched employee gifts to Phillips Academy. Of the $232,913 total received, $172,127 supported the Alumni and Parent Funds and $60,786 was for other purposes such as endowment, special programs, and capital projects.

By utilizing matching gift programs, alumni, parents and friends have significantly increased the power of their individual giving to Andover.

Gratefully acknowledged here are companies that have reinforced the generosity of their employees and helped further Phillips Academy's mission.

Andover's ten top matching gift companies, in terms of number of gifts matched, are printed in blue.

Corporate and Foundation Support

Foundation and corporate grants to Phillips Academy nearly doubled this fiscal year, increasing 99% from $455,000 in 1988-89 to $904,751 in 1989-90.

Of the 50 grants awarded, 47 supported Andover's 5 summer urban education outreach programs: $(MS)^2$; Andover-Bread Loaf Urban Teachers Writing Workshop; Andover-Dartmouth Urban Math Teachers Institute; Institute for Recruitment of Teachers and PALS. The Parent Loan Fund, the Richard Jewett Schweppe Memorial Scholarship Fund and the Summer Session Scholarship Fund each received a grant.

Math and Science for Minority Students, or "$(MS)^2$," received $426,100. Special thanks go to Robert Frehse, Vice President and Executive Director of the William Randolph Hearst Foundation (the initial $(MS)^2$ funder), who sponsored a luncheon at the New York Harvard Club, February 1990, for interested foundations and corporations. The Hearst Foundation kicked-off the event with an endowment gift. We welcome the Starr Foundation, the Esther A. and John Klingenstein Foundation, the Heckscher Foundation for Children, the Mary A. H. Rumsey Foundation, the Quaker Oats Foundation, and the FMC Foundation to the $(MS)^2$ Family. In addition to these, the Edward John Noble Foundation made a challenge grant to the $(MS)^2$ Alumni Association for scholarship support. This extraordinary gift provided a tangible goal for the newly created Alumni Association. They met the challenge in only 40 days.

The new Institute for Recruitment of Teachers received support totaling $147,705. IRT recruits minorities into graduate school, and eventually, the teaching profession.

The Andover-Dartmouth Urban Math Teachers Institute, which trains urban math teachers to be more effective in the classroom, continues to thrive thanks to one steadfast anonymous donor.

The Andover-Bread Loaf Urban Teachers Writing Workshop received two gifts this year totaling $94,000. Special thanks to the George I. Alden Trust for providing the George I. Alden Trust Directorship, over the next three years, allowing the director to devote full time to the workshop. ABLUTWW helps urban teachers improve their writing and that of their students.

The Phillips Academy-Leonard School Program (PALS) received 6 grants totaling $41,650. The PALS Program enhances the reading skills and self-images of approximately 45 youngsters from the Leonard Elementary School in Lawrence.

Andover Development Board

Andover Development Board Surpasses Five Year Goal—
Raises $43.7 Million

On May 4, 1990 the Andover Development Board surpassed its five-year goal of $40,000,000 by raising more than $43,700,000 in new gifts and pledges without a constituency-wide campaign. Andover Development Board members themselves contributed over $21,000,000, and more than 75% of them had been active during the five years by hosting events for the school, serving on project fund-raising committees and soliciting gifts. When combined with the over $13,000,000 that was given to the annual Alumni and Parent Funds, the grand total since 1985 stands at more than $57,000,000.

At the Development Board meeting Richard Goodyear '59, Chairman, honored volunteers and especially the Development Board's first Chairman, R. L. Ireland III '38, whom he presented with the first Andover Development Board silver bowl. The ADB also honored Richard Stern '30, who contributed a teaching foundation in 1990; Mr. & Mrs. John R. Robinson, who gave the computer center in the library, works of art and other gifts, totaling more than $500,000 during the five years; and Trustee Richard L. Gelb '41, whose gifts to Andover Development Board projects since 1985 surpassed $500,000.

During the five years under the leadership of Endowment for Teaching Committee Chair Frederick W. Beinecke '62, ten new teaching foundations were added to Phillips Academy's endowment. With Co-Chairs Ward W. Woods, Jr. '60 and Mollie Lupe Lasater '56, the Endowment for Scholarships Committee helped to raise 30 new scholarship endowments, some totaling as much as $600,000. Led by Co-Chairs David M. Underwood '54 and Barbara Corwin Timken '66, the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library addition and renovation were completed and funded with $10.5 million. More than 61% or $7,500,000 of the George Washington Hall construction costs are now funded with gifts and pledges solicited by members of West and East Coast Committees, chaired by Jack Lemmon '43 and Melville Chapin '36. A new track, lights for night games on Brothers Field, the faculty trip to Russia in 1985, and initial funding for the faculty trip to China in 1991—all have been accomplished with capital gifts during the past five years. Also included, and funded by foundations and corporations, are several summer programs that faculty members have initiated, which provide access for people of color to Phillips Academy's strong academic tradition and a focused outreach for inner city public school teachers.

Preparing for the '90's and for the 21st century, Chairman Goodyear focused the ADB meeting on finding new ways to continue to meet Andover's needs and in particular, to strengthen Andover as an international school with a thriving multicultural campus community. The school's priorities for teachers' salaries, for scholarships and for plant renewal offer a variety of major gift opportunities for alumni, alumnae and parents. As a part of the future ADB focus, a new corporate committee will work to interest corporations in collaborating with Andover.

At reunion weekend after the sale of his corporation Superior Brands, Inc., Richard Phelps '46 assured a healthy start for the ADB's second five years by giving Andover $3.7 million, the Academy's third largest gift. Phelps has strengthened the scholarship program by designating $2.3 million toward need-based scholarships for academically talented athletes and has assisted the Academy in a variety of other ways by creating a teaching foundation, by supporting George Washington Hall, by initiating a project to resurface the tennis courts and to upgrade the baseball field, by supporting the Addison gallery and by making a generous gift to help create a memorial in honor of those graduates who died in the wars in Korea and Vietnam. Dick Phelps' generosity will enable the ADB to challenge others in the years ahead.

Dick Phelps '46 addresses the Andover community in May 1990, celebrating the first five years of Andover Development Board achievements.

Planned Giving

Alumni/Alumnae, parents, and friends who included Andover in their estate plans in 1989–90 made a very personal commitment to the school while receiving, in most cases, measurable financial benefits for themselves. New Gift Annuities, Pooled Income Fund participation, Life Insurance Policies and Trusts, plus increases in existing gifts resulted in new expectancies of $3,611,000; funds Andover will receive in the future. During this time, we received from prior expectancies a total of $1,316,000 which was used to fund scholarships, teaching and other important school projects.

Each gift reflects the desires of the donor and is brought to realization by close consultation with the Director of Planned Giving, the donor's legal counsel, and family members. Assets committed have been mostly appreciated securities and cash, but more inquiries are now being received regarding the donation of closely held stock and real estate.

The success of Planned Giving rests with the active participation of Class Endowment Agents, the Planned Giving Committee under the direction of Alexander B. Trowbridge '47, and others who take the time to explain to alumni, alumnae and parents the benefits of planned gifts to both Andover and the donor.

A word on bequests which have been a major source of funding for the school. Making a bequest to Andover is a significant and personal link to your school; it demonstrates your support for future generations of students. On the following page are listed benefactors who provided for Andover through their estates during the past year. For wording or suggestions on how to include Phillips Academy in your will, please contact the Director of Planned Giving.

Report from the Headmaster

Samuel Phillips and Madam Sarah Abbot each had a vision of the education young men and women would need to lead our struggling new country in its first century. Today Andover has a vision of what high school students will need for the global future of America in its third century. The challenges our students will face include rapid change, new interdependence in economic and political spheres, and tougher ethical questions.

To meet these challenges, we are preparing Andover students who:

- use a breadth of knowledge in the liberal arts to respond to changes in technology and society;
- are able to think and work in a global context, respecting national traditions and understanding international perspectives;
- appreciate and share their own cultural traditions and are curious about and can cooperate with people from different backgrounds;
- make a commitment to values of honesty, integrity, respect for others, and service.

The Andover Constitution of 1778 charges the teaching of "goodness and knowledge," and so today we challenge students to pursue an education which encourages excellence in all they do and develops personal commitments. We draw upon the traditions of Phillips Academy and Abbot Academy which include great teaching; talented, motivated students; a beautiful campus; prudent resource management; and generous support.

Great Teaching

Dedicated teachers are our greatest resource. We seek to retain and support men and women who care deeply about young people and who have a depth of knowledge and enthusiasm about their subject which ignites students. Andover faculty members "teach" in many arenas: instructing in classroom discussions and individual conferences; coaching athletic skills and teamwork; counseling about personal issues; advising extracurricular activities and clubs; mentoring community service projects; supervising work duty; or just talking in the dining hall or dormitories. Faculty members are asked to be teachers 24 hours a day.

In the Andover classroom, with a teacher and only 15 students, students are challenged daily. As one new student told me, "there is no 'back row' here." Students are asked to assume and are given a lot of personal responsibility—to be in class on time, to get their work done on their own schedule, and to seek out help. At the same time, we provide a "safety net" of support and services for them when mistakes are made.

Talented Students

Phillips Academy attracts academically motivated and exceptionally talented young people. The 1990–91 year yielded great accomplishments. In academics, the Senior class had a record 48 National Merit Scholarship Semi-Finalists. In the arts, the students staged two operas: a stunning production of Scott Joplin's "Treemonisha" and an all-student presentation of Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro." In athletics, our football team was victorious in the traditional Andover-Exeter competition for the fourth year in a row and our girls' basketball team won its first New England championship.

I am also proud that PA students share their talents throughout the community. By tutoring in Lawrence, MA, interning in Washington, DC, or helping in Dakar, Senegal; and by supporting each other in the Work Program, attending a roommate's play, or cheering at a friend's athletic competition, students develop their own talents and share them as well.

Another strength of Andover today is the amazing diversity within the student body. While students have common traits of talent and motivation, they represent a wonderful uncommonness in geographic region, economic class, cultural background, race, and religion. The strength of the scholarship program and the commitment to meeting the needs of students admitted to Andover have resulted in a scholarship budget of $5.1 million for 1991–92. This money, 15 percent of our operating budget, enables us to admit the strongest applicants, regardless of financial circumstances. Today at Andover "Youth from every quarter" means having 41 percent of the students on some sort of scholarship or loan. Of these, 133 children are from families who cannot contribute any money to their child's education. This courageous commitment, rare among independent schools and colleges, is made possible by alumni, parents, friends, and Trustees through their gifts to the Academy.

This diversity provides opportunities for talented young people from different backgrounds to live and learn together. Andover is committed to nurturing a multicultural community because we seek to prepare our students to lead productive and responsible lives in a global society.

Beautiful Campus

Andover brings together dedicated teachers and talented students in a beautiful place. The expanse of the Great Lawn, the quiet of the Sanctuary, the surprise of cherry trees in the spring—what a setting in which to study and play! Because of the merged campuses of Abbot Academy and Phillips Academy, we are fortunate to have a broad range of athletic facilities, music and performance spaces, well-equipped laboratories, a state-of-the-art computer center, and an outstanding library to support students in their discoveries.

To maintain that beauty and to improve the quality of residential life, we recently updated the cottages, Andover, Draper, Eaton, Pemberton, and Day and Foxcroft Halls. We continue to enjoy the success of the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library renewal project, which provides enhanced space for the collection, new study space for students and faculty, a computer center, and rare book and archival space. During the past year, we completed the renovation of McKeen Hall on the Abbot Campus, which brings new life to the Abbot Circle, providing an upgraded Community Child Care Center for our employees and more functional space for the Office of Academy Resources. Davis Hall, rededicated at Reunion Weekend, is a spectacular meeting space for the community and alumni, and a home base for Abbot Cluster students.

We have begun renovating George Washington Hall and are on schedule to complete this work in January 1992. This project will provide modern performance and classroom space for the Theater Department and enhanced areas for mailboxes, donut sales, day students, the Dean of Residence, Cluster Deans, College Counseling, the Headmaster and Dickie. The GW fund-raising has produced $8 million pledged toward the $11.8 million goal as we enter the last year of this effort.

Academy Resources

Our ambitious goals of supporting faculty, financing scholarships for students, and undertaking renewal of the physical plant and care for the campus are possible only through the development of significant resources for the Academy and the careful management of those resources. The Academy's 1990–91 annual budget derived 53 percent from tuition, 32 percent from endowment income (the endowment was valued at $197 million on June 30), 10 percent from the Annual Fund, and 5 percent from other sources.

While the Academy is vigorously pursuing these goals, the economic recession of the past year has affected Andover as it has all families, communities, and educational institutions.

In order to insure that we maintain a balanced budget in future years, we have taken a series of significant steps to reduce expenses by about 8 percent from the original projection for 1991–92. Chief Financial Officer Neil Cullen details these steps in the Financial Report on page 15.

Support for the Academy

The Academy is able to achieve its mission only through the loyal support and generous contributions of Phillips and Abbot Academy graduates, parents, and friends—people who believe in the promise of youth and who share our commitment to this school today and for the future. The devotion and extraordinary personal generosity shown by the Trustees and by the men and women of the Andover Development Board produced over $10 million in support for endowment and capital projects in 1990–91. Donors to the Alumni Fund and the Parent and Grandparent Funds demonstrated renewed commitment to Andover when, in a year of economic difficulties, they increased the dollars given by 15 percent over the previous year. The gifts of individuals through bequests and planned giving for teaching and scholarship endowment will help sustain Andover into the future. Of special note, the parents of the Class of 1991 dedicated their gift to the faculty; 85 percent of them gave to the Senior Parent Fund in honor of teachers—a remarkable tribute.

The Fuess Award Ceremony in May honored alumni and friends who have helped enhance our understanding of Asia. As we listened together—students, faculty, staff, alumni, parents, Trustees—we heard about individuals who have combined "goodness and knowledge," excellence and values. Their words reaffirmed for us all that the challenge of educating young people to lead and to serve in our global community of the 21st century is a noble one.

Thank you for your encouragement, support, and belief in the Andover of today and tomorrow.

Dr. McNemar is an instructor in history and the social sciences and headmaster on the Foundation in honor of John P. Stevens, Jr.

Report from the Executive Assistant to the Headmaster

The Phillips Academy community experienced intensely the war in the Persian Gulf. For students and faculty 1991 will be remembered as a year in which war in the Middle East affected us all and, to a significant degree, altered the way we think about education.

Many Andover alumni were involved in the Gulf War. Indeed, we all recognized the burden borne by President George W. Bush '42, as he led the UN coalition forces, engaging the U.S. and its allies in hostilities to enforce Saddam Hussein's withdrawal from Kuwait. We recognized, too, how inescapable for President Bush and for the world was the price of these actions—the loss of human lives and material destruction, and the cost of such a major interruption in the commitment to peaceful means of conflict resolution to which so many Andover alumni have committed themselves in recent decades.

From the beginning of the school year, we on campus were aware of the tensions in the Middle East. Parents of some of our students working in the Gulf were sent back to the United States. New students joined us, as it became impossible for them to continue school in their home country. Each of us knew family or friends who were living or serving in the Persian Gulf. Twenty-two PA students were from that region—from Iran, Kuwait, Saudi Arabia, Egypt, Jordan, Israel, United Arab Emirates, and Turkey.

As prospects for peaceful resolution dimmed, and the coalition forces were sent to the Gulf in greater numbers, parents and family members were called to serve in the US Armed Forces and left jobs and homes to do so. Quiet concern filled the days as the occupation of Kuwait persisted.

On January 15, students and faculty met in the Chapel to discuss the mounting crisis. Most poignantly, Dean of Faculty Joel described his feelings as his son went off to the Middle East as a United States Marine.

As the bombing began, our most immediate concern focused on those we knew and loved who were directly involved at the center of the conflict, as well as for others, unknown to us, at risk of injury, damage, and death. Simultaneously our concern broadened to identify and to assist other members of the Phillips Academy community whose lives might be endangered as a result of the conflict: students in the School Year Abroad program in France and Spain, participants at Phillips Academy programs in Goettingen, Germany, and in Antibes, France, as well as families living or traveling in potential hot spots abroad.

Students and faculty quickly recognized that they needed good sources of information in order to track and interpret events in the Gulf. Several new sources of information materialized: a Middle East bulletin board; a Middle East bulletin; meetings for seniors wondering whether the draft might be reinstituted; and Cable News Network television receivers, made available by a gift from Adrian '32 and Tom '62 Israel, which were rapidly installed at several prominent points around the campus.

As the bombing persisted, those of us on campus also reached out to support one another. The chaplains organized regular vigils and services—opportunities for sharing fears, worries, doubts, and guilt about the war. Many people experienced confusion about whether or not the United States should be involved. Such confusion was exacerbated by pride and wonder at the apparent American ability to minimize coalition losses through technological warfare and recognition of horrendous losses among the Iraqis.

John E. Bachman

As Mr. McNemar said in his 1991 Commencement address, most of all "the war showed us how little any of us knew about the history, culture, religion, and languages of peoples in the Middle East." Certainly at Phillips Academy the Persian Gulf War was experienced as a recognition of how much we have yet to learn if we are to lay the bedrock of cultural and global understanding that will permit the world to progress through peaceful conflict resolution in the future. Hopefully Andover will continue to seek ways to exercise its educational responsibility along the path toward such global understanding.

Report from the Secretary of the Academy

Allen C. Adriance '61

The early weeks of 1990–91 saw the 35-member Office of Academy Resources team relocated to the beautifully renovated McKeen Hall on the Abbot campus, following over a decade in the basement of Evans Hall. This event marked the first phase of a plan to revitalize the Abbot campus. This plan is the brainchild of historic restoration specialist, Elaine Finbury '68, who served as project manager for McKeen.

By any reasonable measure, the year was not the most propitious time to increase much needed financial support for the academy. Economic difficulties abounded throughout the country. But, thanks to the efforts of OAR's Annual Giving team, national Alumni Fund Co-chairs, Carol Greene Donnelly '58 and Gerry Jones '55, Non Sibi Co-chairs Julie Schauffler Bucklin '48 and Dick Pechter '63, in addition to numerous dedicated alumni/ae and parent volunteers, Annual Giving set an all-time record of $3.35 million in cash and pledges. Anonymous challenge gifts to the reunion classes of 1941, 1946 and 1951 helped produce this magnificent total.

In May, the Andover Development Board, under the able leadership of Charter Trustee Dick Goodyear '59, gathered on campus for the annual meeting to celebrate the raising of $10.93 million for its fund year (May–May). These substantial funds, raised through the offices of Capital Development, Corporate and Foundation Support and Planned Giving, sustain such projects as teaching foundations, scholarships, renovation of George Washington Hall and Abbot Hall, the Community Service Program, the Addison Gallery and summer focus programs which include the Andover-Bread Loaf Urban Teachers Writing Workshop, Math and Science for Minority Students $(MS)^2$, the Institute for Recruitment of Teachers, and the Phillips Academy-Leonard School program (PALS).

The 91-member Alumni Council convened in April under the new leadership of President Steve Foss '59. A subcommittee on athletics, co-chaired by Eleanor Tydings '86 and Tone Grant '62, presented a preliminary report on the committee's comprehensive study of athletics at Andover. A final report was prepared for the fall meeting of the Board of Trustees.

This past year saw the departure of two OAR directors. Naomi Hitchcock left in May to become director of development at the Hebrew Rehabilitation Center for the Aged in Boston, Massachusetts following three years at the academy. Betsey Cullen, director of the Parent Fund assumed the role of acting director of Annual Giving and Linda Mason-Smith joined the staff as acting director of the Parent Fund. Denis Tippo, director of Alumni and Parent Affairs for nine years assumed a new challenge in June as director of development at Thayer Academy. Joe Wennik '52, a teacher, coach and administrator at the academy for nearly 25 years was appointed to this post in July.

The year also saw the retirement of two Charter Trustees: William W. Boeschenstein '44, who was elected in 1971, retired this past October, and Carol Hardin Kimball '53, the first Abbot alumna elected as a Charter Trustee, assumed her post in 1974 and retired in May of 1991. Both served the academy with distinction and will continue their support as Trustee Emeriti. In October the Board welcomed newly-elected Charter Trustees Clinton J. Kendrick '61 and William M. Lewis, Jr. '74.

At its winter meeting, the Board of Trustees endorsed an OAR proposal to hire a consulting firm to conduct a management audit in an effort to help us maximize our fundraising potential. In the spring two consultants spent considerable time on campus interviewing several individuals and gathering data. Their report was made to the OAR directors and trustees in the fall.

Be it the efforts of our fundraising offices, the office of Public Information, Publications, Alumni and Parent Affairs, Information Services or the Andover Bulletin—this has been a busy and productive year at the Office of Academy Resources. We are most grateful for the continuing support of the countless volunteers and contributors who help in so many ways to ensure that Phillips Academy maintains its preeminent position in secondary education.

Report from the Dean of Faculty

Today the "multicultural"—a practical need to educate the world in the value of diversity—challenges teachers to study the habits that made them and to excite students to do the same. When linked to equity and possible loss of money or position to people historically denied access, education for diversity can threaten. It can seem to require more time than we have. It can seem like "thought-control," like an attack on who we think we are. Yet the world is multi-cultural and so must education be.

Structurally Andover supports diversity well. Francesca Piana, as International Student Coordinator, monitors each international student's social and academic progress. She also organizes informative programs for international students and the entire school community. For example, Ms. Piana might invite a professor with expertise in the Mexican economy to have dinner with a small group of students and teachers and then to speak in Kemper Auditorium. Significantly, Ms. Piana's role as International Student Coordinator developed out of a suggestion from students and faculty members that someone should hold specific, special responsibility for the well-being of students from overseas. In a similar way, an open letter from disappointed African-American seniors to the faculty resulted in 1985 in Headmaster Don McNemar's appointment of Cathy Royal as counselor to African-American and Latino students. Ms. Royal, now Dean of Community Affairs and Multi-cultural Development, is responsible for leading the school community to appreciate diversity and to work for equity.

This year Ms. Royal asked the Multi-cultural Advisory Committee, which she chairs, to draft a policy on racial harassment for consideration by the faculty and administration. The Multi-cultural Advisory Committee also discussed at length two drawings in the Phillipian prejudicial to Asian-Americans. Additionally it sponsored faculty forums on Andover's Anti-Racism Workshops, in which more than a hundred faculty and trustees have thus far taken part. Questions such as, "Are the workshops the best way to `Fight Racism'?" and "Why should I go when I have been anti-racist all my life?" and "What is this idea that only white people can be racist in America?" animated the exchanges.

The increasing diversity of the faculty, about 8 percent non-white, supports a student body now twenty-four percent non-white. For years, Andover has been seeking outstanding women teachers and teachers of color. This year, the department chairs adopted a goal to assure a candidate of color in the finalists for any position. Most of the time, we have met the goal. I strongly encourage alumni/ae and friends of Andover to continue to suggest outstanding potential candidates for the faculty.

Helmuth W. Joel, Jr.

Not only the growing diversity of the faculty but also Mr. McNemar's appointment of women teachers and teachers of color to administrative positions has strengthened Andover as a community educating in the value of diversity. A faculty member of color remarked to me after the Summer Session how wonderful it had been working for a black administrator. As a white, and as the former cluster dean of this fine teacher, I suddenly felt diminished—a dismaying response I rejected as rapidly as possible. Of course, it had been wonderful!

Andover today is a difficult place in which to practice unexamined living. The motto NON SIBI ("Not for Self") from our school seal takes on fresh and powerful significance. "I know of no more encouraging fact," Thoreau proclaims in Walden, "than the unquestionable ability of man to elevate his life by a conscious endeavor." At Andover in the year ended, valuing and teaching diversity have enlarged us all.

Susan McCaslin

The major academic news this year was the first significant revision of diploma requirements since 1971. In May the faculty voted to accept the Curriculum Committee's recommendations for increased or amended requirements in science, the arts (visual and music), and history and social science. These recommendations were the product of more than a year's deliberations within the Committee and with the departments requesting changes.

In Science the current requirement of one year-long lab science and three term-contained science courses was amended to two year-long lab sciences. This shift was prompted by a recognition that year-long lab courses provide the most solid foundation in the sciences. An academic guideline for three term-contained science courses was also approved to signal support for the importance of scientific study in our increasingly technological society. Academic guidelines indicate course choices strongly urged by the faculty but do not carry the absolute force of diploma requirements.

The new arts requirement doubles the current requirement for Juniors and increases it for Lowers. It calls for four-year students to take two terms each of art and music and for three-year students to take two terms of either art or music and one term of the other. Four-year students must take a year-long two-term-equivalent course in art or music in the Junior year. This added time will permit the Art Department to extend visual studies to include three-dimensional design and motion media, such as film and computer animation, to educate about the sophisticated use of these images that increasingly defines perceptions of reality. In Music, the extra time will permit students to pursue performance, composition or literature in greater depth. It will also enable the Department to offer more varied types of music beyond the European tradition.

In History and Social Science a year-long two-term-equivalent course for Juniors was added to the current four-term requirement. The primary objectives of this course are to build interpretive skills and to give students a multidimensional (using geography, history, anthropology and literature) appreciation of the rich variety of world cultures.

The overall impact of these proposals is to maintain the significant elective opportunities present in the Upper and Senior years, but also to introduce more structure into the lower two years. This movement is occasioned by a recognition that our students come to us with increasingly varied levels of preparation. We can no longer assume that certain skills are in place, and so we need to assure that they are developed in the Junior and Lower years so that our students can continue to negotiate successfully the upper reaches of the curriculum. A second motive is the desire to introduce our three and four year students to a broader array of the curriculum in the lower two years so that they can make better informed choices later on.

Hard choices were evident during 1990–91. Early in the Fall Term it became apparent that we could not maintain the current scope of the academic program and balance the budget. To accommodate this financial reality, we substantially reduced the number of students permitted to participate in off-campus programs. The programs affected were the Washington Intern Program, the Maine Coast and Mountain Schools and our term-contained foreign language programs to France, Spain, Mexico, Germany, Italy, the Ivory Coast and the Soviet Union. All of these programs offer great potential for educational enrichment and experiential learning. We are determined to keep such options open to our students, even as we must do so in a more modest way.

Intellectually, Andover remains vibrant. This year we sent two students to the national Physics Olympiad and placed first in the New England regional mathematics competition. Our theater students directed and acted in plays even though we had no theater. The Music Department produced two operas, including the New England premiere of Scott Joplin's "Treemonisha." One student, on her own, produced a puppet version of Mahabharata. The Headmaster's Symposium instructed all in the politics, economics and cultures of the nations of the Pacific Rim. All this, and courses, too.

Report from the Dean of Residence

Henry B. Wilmer

During the 1991 school-year, the faculty and students tackled difficult societal issues like AIDS, date rape, homophobia, substance abuse, multiculturalism, political correctness, classism, and sexuality. Though we try to foresee important issues and develop proactive programs for dealing with them, issues are often forced upon us by statements or events which challenge deeply held but sometimes deeply hidden assumptions: a smattering of catcalls in one dining hall greeted the announcement of Dr. Virginia Uribe's visit to campus to discuss the dilemmas facing gay and lesbian students; articles in the school newspaper on date rape were greeted with appreciation by some and denial by others; a search for drugs in a dormitory led some to say it was about time the school confronted more forcefully the use of drugs (especially alcohol) while others said we were overreacting to "normal" teenage drinking; a cartoon in The Phillipian was perceived as racially insensitive by many who in turn were perceived as hypersensitive and advocates of political correctness; the Gulf War brought out proponents and protesters to spar with one another. Our discussions were not always enlightened, rational exchanges about topics chosen dispassionately and acknowledged as important by all participants. How different from my French classroom where the rituals and subjects are comforting in their familiarity, if also occasionally soporific.

Can education happen in the apparent chaos outside the classroom? Absolutely! When a system of beliefs, assumptions, or behaviors starts to come unglued, questions are inevitable, questions lead to change, and both are at the heart of education. Because Andover students and teachers are incredibly willing to struggle honestly and creatively through the entire cycle of dissolution to resolution, the subsequent changes ultimately strengthen us all individually and collectively. Indeed, residential life is where faculty and students work most closely together and the mere fact of their cooperation in a common enterprise draws the school together.

Forty to fifty seniors per term have attended Human Sexuality Seminars run by specially trained faculty members. Not only are moral and ethical dilemmas discussed, but also anatomy, safe sex practices, gender issues, and homosexuality.

Student and faculty leaders participated in a series of Date Rape Prevention Seminars, and spent the winter term planning a pilot program for all uppers in Pine Knoll Cluster. Girls and boys met separately to discuss what constitutes rape, how it happens, and how males and females can cooperate to prevent it. The participation of students in both planning and leading the program made it realistic in both goal and approach, and consequently all the more effective.

Thanks to the efforts of the Gay/Straight Alliance, Dr. Virginia Uribe visited campus for two days this past Spring. She spoke about Homophobia to several student/faculty gatherings and met with a variety of small groups. The Alliance itself sponsors weekly discussions and hosted a symposium for several schools in May.

The counselors from Freedom from Chemical Dependency made their annual week-long visit to campus this past fall to educate the community about Substance Abuse. All new students were required to attend four seminars of their choice; old students were to select two from among the many offerings developed just for them. Andover's Drug and Alcohol Awareness Committee sponsored weekly discussions, prepared a program for Parents' Weekend, helped with an elegant pre-prom mocktail party, and approached individually those kids whom they or others perceived to be in need. If student drinking seems worse, it's partly because we know more about it—but we also know that many students are increasingly willing to help us address the problem.

So students and faculty cooperate to solve the tough questions that sometimes divide us. Most of whatever progress we make comes not through formal programs, but through the complementary discussions that occur spontaneously in dorms and classrooms (yes, even there!) thanks to house counselors and teachers keenly aware of hot issues and willing to challenge students to confront them. Our collaboration helps us discover common values which in turn help us to see our differences as assets rather than liabilities.

Report from the Dean of Community Affairs

Cathy L. Royal

Phillips Academy is a national high school with an international reputation and, as such, is beginning to explore how that affects each student, regardless of his or her background. There are many avenues that underscore our commitment to diversity and quality education which validate the philosophy and understanding that a diverse community does not "lower" the standards for anyone in that community. We continue to articulate our belief that multicultural education is quality education. During the last year the Academy has continued to support and expand our goal of seeking ways to become an authentically multicultural, anti-racist community.

What are the issues that we must address as we strive to accomplish this goal? What are the challenges we encounter? To include groups of people and issues that have been excluded from our community often requires us to examine our own feelings of fear, superiority or prejudice.

Students, faculty, Trustees, alumni and parents have all contributed their time, energy and support to the development of the programs that this office sponsors. The Afro-Latino American Society has joined with other student organizations to expand "Power Plays," our role in the Academy's orientation program, and worked through the Cultural Leaders Alliance to sponsor meetings and discussions with academic departments focusing on curriculum changes that would provide a broader lens of inclusion through course offerings and syllabus revision. Residential Deans, in collaboration with this office, have begun to examine opportunities for dialogue and education within our residential community, centering on a continuing examination of attitudes and behavior that impede good friendships across racial and cultural lines.

This past year we also dealt directly with the pain of racial harassment. Four of our new Lowers were chased when they were returning to campus from town. The town community and leaders joined with Phillips Academy and spoke clearly about our support for the Black students being harassed and the town's clear displeasure over this incident.

Many conversations and "teachable moments" resulted from this incident. The Human Issues course and S.A.R.C. (Students for an Anti-Racist Community) discussed politically correct behavior, freedom of speech and civil rights. The Multicultural Advisory Committee held Phillips Academy community meetings to discuss our multicultural efforts. The Advisory Committee also formulated an anti-harassment policy which will be reviewed by the Board of Trustees, and continues to deliberate issues of inclusion and equity for the community.

We also found ways to celebrate our commitment to change and growth.

The Office of Community Affairs and Multicultural Development will administer an E. E. Ford Foundation grant of $50,000. The grant was awarded to support the anti-racism workshop and to provide the opportunity for other New England independent schools to learn about the workshop through an all-day conference sponsored at Phillips Academy.

The Gay/Straight Alliance sponsored the first annual Gay Awareness Week on campus, with films, lectures and discussions. Our keynote speaker was Dr. Virginia Uribe creator of Project 10, a support program for gay and lesbian youth.

The Dakar Project completed its fifth year of travel to Dakar, Senegal. The school that we continue to support—the Leopold Angrand primary school—has benefitted from our presence tremendously. All classrooms have been renovated and painted. Much of this work was done by Phillips Academy students as part of their commitment to this community service project. The celebration of the completion of the project is in October 1991 with a visit to the United States of Joseph N'Diaye, Directeur and Curator of Le Maison de Esclaves and Fallou M'Boup, our coordinator for the Dakar Project in Senegal. Suffolk University and Tufts University have helped to sponsor their visit and lectures in the United States. To date we have six Dakar scholars studying in the United States as a result of this project.

These are certainly exciting and stimulating times for the Office of Community Affairs and Multicultural Development. The year has been a fruitful one!

Report from the Dean of Admission

Jeannie F. Dissette

The Admission Office is pleased to report that the results of the 1990–91 admission effort were better than anticipated. Despite adverse trends in both economics and demographics, Andover reached a matriculant yield of 63 percent and was also able to maintain a need-blind admission policy for all clear admits. The 435 new students bring the school to full capacity and make the 1991–92 student body especially strong.

The matriculants represent 34 states and 25 countries. They come from 269 schools (52 percent from public schools, 31 percent from private schools, 7 percent from parochial schools, and 10 percent from schools abroad). Thirty are children of alumni; 110 others have alumni in their families. Fifty-one are Black or Hispanic (up from 46 last year). Among all matriculants, 80 percent are in the top 10 or the top 10 percent of their current school; 42 percent scored above the 90th percentile on the SSATs. These new students bring extracurricular talents as well: 365 have been noted for distinction in athletics, 185 in music, 54 for leadership, 50 in community service, 47 in drama, 34 in art, and 26 in dance. Among our new athletes, 45 are "blue-chip" prospects (30 boys and 15 girls), 22 of whom are receiving financial aid, eight of them as distinguished Phelps Scholars.

It took the effort and the talent of the entire Andover community to matriculate such a class in these difficult times. The faculty, students, staff and alumni did a tremendous amount of work on campus and, indeed, all over the world. Thanks to their efforts, Andover's applicant pool remains the largest in boarding schools and exceptionally strong. We cannot take any single part of that pool for granted, however, as the issues which have confronted us in recent years are becoming even more challenging. First the demand for financial aid, from current students as well as from applicants, is tremendous and continues to grow steadily. Secondly, the pool of families and their expectations of boarding schools is decidedly altered, and probably permanently so. These families (according to a recent NAIS report) are largely public school educated and consider most important in a school: education of "the whole person", academic strength, education with ethics and values, college preparation and placement, and small classes with personal attention. Decidedly secondary factors are a school's facilities, name recognition, prestige and location. Thus, it would seem that Andover's prestige does not mean what it once did; children of alumni often attend other schools in order to have their "own" school; many of the boarding school admission traditions are disappearing; and the pool of "traditional" boarding school applicants is dwindling as well.

Clearly, all of us in the extended Andover community have our work cut out for us if we are to continue to attract the brightest and most talented boys and girls to Phillips Academy. Fortunately, we are in a good position to do so. Jim Ventre's position as full-time Director of Financial Aid has been essential; he has done a tremendous job of stretching our financial aid budget. The Andover Plan is also proving to be critically helpful. Our alumni and parent network is engaged and growing. And we are delighted to welcome a new group of professionals to join Jim, Bobby Edwards, Peter Drench and John O'Brien this fall in Hardy House.

Jane Fried, former Associate Dean of Admission at Dana Hall, is our new Senior Associate Dean of Admission. She is joined by Bill Leahy, Assistant Dean, who comes to us from the Admission Office at Boston University, and by three new Admission Officers, Dawn Fitzhugh, who is just finishing her master's degree; Debby Burdett (PA '86), who will head up our Alumni and Parent Networks; and Mike McCleery, a PA teaching fellow last year, who will have special responsibilities for athletics.

We bid farewell to Scott Looney and Beth Moore, Betsy Eaton, Eleanor Tydings, and Holly Weston. We thank them for their work and wish them all the best in their new endeavors.

We in Hardy House receive much support, real and emotional, from members of the Phillips Academy community. We want to express our gratitude for that support, and to let you know we are energized by your support, rejuvenated by the summer and ready to face with you the challenge in 1991–92.

Mrs. Dissette is the Dean of Admission on the Joshua Lewis Miner III Endowed Foundation for the Dean of Admission

Report from the Director of Athletics

Leon A. Modeste III

This was an exciting year for Andover athletics. Participation in athletics and appreciation of fitness are up on campus, as the notion of lifetime wellness is beginning to permeate our country and our school. The athletic complex is being used by members of the P.A. community from sunrise to well after sunset. As Athletic Director, I am delighted by the number of people using our facilities.

Our athletic teams were very competitive this year. Championships were attained by girls' basketball, boys' winter and spring track, girls' winter track and girls' crew. Additionally, David Schumacher '91 and Rob Hill '91 received All-American honors in wrestling and swimming respectively. Throughout the year Andover showed its mettle by often upsetting superior foes. Victories over Exeter in boys' lacrosse and football are wonderful examples of the determination of our athletes.

Off the field athletic activity was also very exciting. The generous gift of Dick Phelps '46 has helped to attract superior student athletes to our school. This year Eleanor Tydings '86 worked in the Admission Office to get the Phelps Scholar program off to a great start. The generosity of Mr. Phelps and the efforts of Ms. Tydings will benefit our athletic program for years to come.

This year's Alumni Council focused on athletics and physical education at Andover. Generally the Council felt the school is doing a solid job. However, they made some suggestions about enhancing the awareness of athletics and physical education at Andover, and upgrading our athletic facilities. Plans to create a new training room and fitness center were discussed. The Athletic Department is most grateful for all of the suggestions and support of our alumni and alumnae.

Finally, one of the most touching and inspiring events of the year took place in the Gelb Reception Area of the Borden Gym at the beginning of Reunion Weekend. On that Thursday evening, Bill Wood '47 and Dick Phelps gathered alumni from all over the country to honor three of Andover's most beloved coaches, Deke DiClemente, Flop Follansbee, and Steve Sorota. The large and enthusiastic turnout was indicative of how warmly our alumni feel about these great men and how much they appreciate athletics at Andover. At the ceremony, Dick Phelps announced a fund raising drive to create of the "DiClemente, Follansbee, Sorota Scholarship" for needy scholar-athletes and "The DiClemente, Follansbee, Sorota Fund for Athletics" to be used by the Athletic Director to refurbish and replace athletic equipment. Needless to say, the Athletic Director is overjoyed.

Athletics and fitness are experiencing a wave of rejuvenation nationwide and in our school. Phillips Academy intends to ride this wave into and throughout the nineties.

Mr. Modeste is an instructor in Physical Education, director of athletics on the John H. Castle, Jr. Instructorship and chairman of the department of physical education.

Financial Report

Operating Results

The 1990–91 fiscal year concluded with a shortfall in revenues of $1.9 million on a total operating expense base of $33.2 million. This figure includes the actual operating shortfall of $1.2 million and $700,000 of non-cash expenses, i.e. liabilities which the Academy may or may not incur in the future but which must be acknowledged under generally accepted accounting principles.

In light of the fact that the Academy incurred operating shortfalls in both of the most recent fiscal years, the Headmaster and Trustees approved a significant reduction from the expense levels originally anticipated for the 1991–92 academic year. In particular, we reduced projected expenses for academic programs ($200,000), financial aid ($250,000), faculty compensation and support ($500,000), staff compensation ($350,000), administrative support ($225,000) and plant renewal ($475,000). We implemented this $2 million reduction reluctantly since we had to curtail important activities. Given our projected revenues, however, we recognized the necessity of limiting our current program.

The Comparative results for 1989–90 and 1990–91 are illustrated in the accompanying table, Revenue and Expenses.

Tuition and Financial Aid

Financial aid, including scholarship grants and loans, increased 4 percent over the prior year, to $5,052,435. The 475 recipients of aid represented 41 percent of our enrollment. These direct grants and loans are awarded to students on the basis of financial need.

Given the rising cost of an Andover education, one should also note that the Academy supports all students financially above the tuition charged to parents. The actual cost per student was $22,600 in 1991, while the average tuition for boarding and day students was $13,800, representing Academy support for each student of $8,800.

The boarding rate of $14,600 in 1990–91 was an increase of 8.1 percent over the prior year, and the rate of $16,060 in 1991–92 is a 10 percent increase. Tuition remains modest, nonetheless, in comparison with other residential schools.

The Endowment and Its Investment

The total Academy endowment, with investments stated at market value, was $196,841,853 at June 30, 1991, compared with $190,109,654 one year earlier. The significant increase in the endowment's market value was due to the following factors:

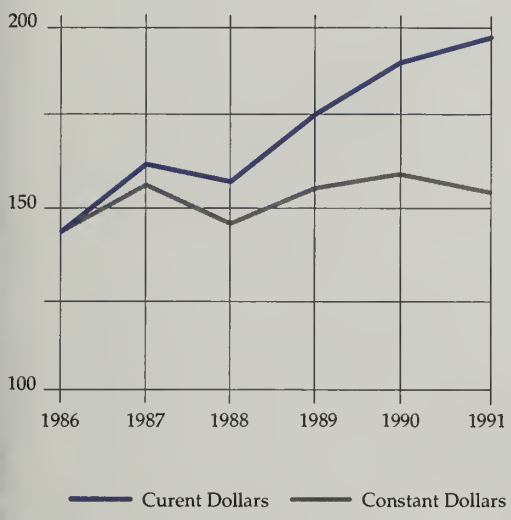

Increase as a result of gifts and bequests added to the endowment	$ 8,248,095
Transfer to income from fund appreciation	(2,193,284)
Appreciation, both realized and unrealized, in the market value of the investments	$1,286,962
Net effect of all other additions and withdrawals	(609,574)
Total increase in market value	$ 6,732,199

The performance of the Academy's investment managers is reviewed regularly by the Finance Committee of the Board of Trustees on the basis of the Academy's stated investment objectives. Currently the school has five equity managers, one fixed income manager, and several organizations managing a relatively small portion of real estate and venture capital investments.

In fiscal year 1990–91 the general pooled investments realized a total return of 6.0 percent which compared to 6.5 for the mean performance of comparable endowments in the Cambridge Associates universe. This relative under performance stemmed from the below average performance of two domestic equity managers. For the twelve year period ending June 30, 1991, however, the Academy's invested funds realized a 14.2 percent average annual return compared to a 14.1 percent return for the mean performance of the Cambridge Universe. The accompanying graph illustrates Andover's endowment growth since 1986. The pie chart depicts the endowment asset allocation as of June 30, 1991.

Resources Of Andover

Since many alumni support specific projects and funds with gifts which are not credited to the Alumni Fund, we acknowledge this generosity by listing all cash gifts received during the 1990–91 fund year. Reunion Giving totals are comprised of 1990–91 Alumni Fund gifts as wll as the total of all capital gifts to projects and endowment made during the five years since July 1, 1986.

Alumni Fund Update

It is a pleasure to report on the 1991 Alumni Fund. The commitment and NON SIBI spirit of hundreds of Alumni Fund volunteers continue to inspire and raise significant resources in support of Andover's annual operating budget. This year a record $2,832,109 was raised from 8,676 alumni and alumnae, an increase of 17 percent in a challenging economic environment. Congratulations to all! As we look to the 1991–92 year, we call upon each of you to heed the Academy's call for active involvement and support.

On the pages that follow, we acknowledge everyone who has furthered Andover's mission by selflessly supporting the Alumni Fund. As ever, our heartfelt thanks to all of you for keeping Andover strong.

Alumni Fund Co-Chairs

1990–91 Highlights

Gerry Jones '55 joined Carol Greene Donnelly '58 as Alumni Fund Co-Chair, leading Alumni giving in a record setting year. Gerry brings to the position his experience as past Alumni Council President and 1955 Co-Agent, as well as his perspective as father of three Andover daughters. Welcome aboard, Gerry!

The NON SIBI Association completed its first year under the enthusiastic direction of Dick Pechter '63 and Julie Bucklin '48. The Association raised a record $926,029 in gifts of $1000 or more in the Phillips and Abbot non-reunion classes.

Across all classes, NON SIBI Association gifts over $1000 contributed 63 percent of the total Alumni Fund dollars. The school is deeply grateful to these 781 alumni for their generous NON SIBI spirit (please note the NON SIBI donor listings).

Seven classes smashed Alumni Fund reunion records his year under superb leadership:

1926	Frank Spinney (PA)
1931	Fred Cuthbertson (PA) Tom Lawrence (PA) Charlie Strauss (PA) Evelyn Folk Ramsdell (AA)
1946	Bob Wexler (PA) Mavis Twomey Cox (AA)
1966	Chris Rafferty, Jamie Wyper (PA) Marcia Watson Goldberg (AA) Margaret Ryder Kornblum (AA)
1971	Rob Hearne (PA) Mary F. McCabe (AA)
1976	Mike Murdoch
1981	John Blasberg Liz Longsworth Mike Marrus

Overall reunion giving totaled $1,110,433—39 percent of the Alumni Fund, and set a new school record.

A new program was launched in the reunion classes designed to combine Annual and 5 year Capital gifts for a reunion total (see pg.19).

Abbot Classes raised $139,389 for the Academy, up 18 percent over last year, and 13 percent over goal.

In the first year of our College Program we significantly increased alumni participation across all four years, raising almost $10,000 as a group. Alumni at Dickinson won the college competition with 71 percent contributing and Princeton took an impressive second place with 56 percent.

With thanks and praise for Gift Committee Chair Sam Robfogel, the Class of '91 raised $2,000 to provide a granite bench with a "Class of '91" plaque for outside George Washington Hall. Monies were also set aside by the class to create an endowed scholarship in memory of classmate Matt Williams—a generous and thoughtful gift from these students as they became Alumni. Welcome, and thank you!

All donors and statistics are reported as June 30, 1991.

Corporate Matching Gifts

With the initiative of loyal alumni, alumnae, parents and friends, these 185 corporations matched their gifts to Phillips Academy this year. Of the $307,053 received, $180,038 supported the Alumni and Parent Funds and $127,015 was for other purposes such as endowment, special programs, and capital projects.

Andover Development Board

Andover Development Board sets course to raise $50 million in five years for endowment and capital projects

ADB Chair Richard Goodyear '59

Inspired by the $3.7 million gift of Alumni Trustee Richard J. Phelps '46, the Andover Development Board soared past its first year $10 million goal in its current five-year plan. Chair of the Andover Development Board, Richard Goodyear '59, announced new gifts and pledges totaling $10,930,175 at the annual meeting held May 3 and 4 in conjunction with the Board of Trustees meeting and a campus weekend of focus on Asia.

The Fuess Award ceremony as the centerpiece of an all- school celebration and picnic honored former Board of Trustees President, Donald H. McLean, Jr. '28; his colleague in founding the Tokyo International House of Japan in 1952, Shigeharu Matsumoto; Robert S. Ingersoll '33, former Ambassador to Japan; Bardyl Tirana '55, who helped to initiate the People's Republic of China exchange between Phillips Academy and the Harbin Institute of Technology in 1980; and Frances Young Tang '57, Andover Development Board member and former Alumni Trustee, and her husband Oscar Tang '56, who so generously supported the 1991 trip to China for sixty Phillips Academy faculty members. Their hope is that the faculty will better understand Chinese culture and history and share their knowledge with students and the Andover community during the 1991–92 academic year and thereafter.

As a part of the Headmaster's Symposium on the Asian Pacific World, activities highlighted Asian studies at Andover and current and future economic realities in Japan, Hong Kong, China and Southeast Asia from the perspective of five alumni who have been doing business in Asia.

Andover Development Board members honored Dick Phelps '46 with a silver bowl inscribed "Mens Sana in Corpore Sano " and "Non Sibi," fitting tributes to Dick and his generosity which has insured that boy and girl scholar-athletes can continue to learn the valuable lessons of sportsmanship and team participation on the playing fields of Andover. Phelps also received a crystal paperweight, the customary symbol awarded to all donors of gifts of more than $500,000. Donald P. Wilson '29, the initiator of the Class of 1929 Teaching Foundation, posthumously received a paperweight.

At their meeting Goodyear and the committee members reaffirmed the priorities for fund-raising in the 90's—teaching endowments, endowed scholarships and plant renewal projects with a focus on George Washington Hall, due to re-open in January 1992. Members of the Andover Development Board are also helping to raise funds for the renovation and furnishing of Davis Hall and McKeen Hall on the Abbot campus and the renovation of Abbot Hall for use by the Art Department and the Addison Gallery.

Looking ahead, Shelly Guyer '78 spoke about a new program of nationwide cultivation called AndoverLink - a network to bring alumni, faculty and students together through small gatherings hosted by AndoverLink volunteers for the purpose of learning about Andover's strengths today and its priorities and future needs.

As Goodyear led the annual meeting and recognized the efforts for which the Andover Development Board has been raising funds, he conducted an apropos Latin lesson. Using the United States dollar bill and Andover's "finis origine pendet" and "Non Sibi,"he proclaimed these mottoes herald the course the Andover Development Board has set for its second five-year plan to raise the funds that will meet Andover's capital and endowment needs.

Addison Gallery of American Art

Frank Stella '54 and Allan Stone '50 are co-chairs of the new Addison Art Drive, a campaign seeking one hundred significant modern and contemporary works for the Addison's permanent collection. Stella volunteered to lead the effort with gifts of his own work and donations of art by other American artists. Stone, a member of the Addison Gallery Committee, agreed to co-chair the effort with Stella. Peter Halley '71, Mel Kendrick '67, Carroll Dunham '67, Wade Saunders '67, Lucy Lippard AA'54, Robert Feldman '54, William Drake '50, Cleve Gray '36, and Klaus Kertess '58 formed the leadership group. They have been joined in this effort to enrich the collection and bolster teaching resources for the arts at Andover by Addison Gallery Committee members David Underwood '54, Melville Chapin '36, Michael Scharf '61, and Ann Hatch AA'67. Richard Phelps '46, and Ann Hatch AA '67, generous past donors to the Addison, have stepped forth once again, offering major challenge gifts to help renovate Abbot Hall for expanded facilities for the Addison Gallery.

Planned Giving

During this past year, Andover was the beneficiary of several non-traditional gifts which will provide the school with substantial funds. In one case, an alumnus deeded to the school a cooperative in Hawaii to fund a named scholarship; Andover also received through a trust a 50 percent ownership in an income producing property in California. We are also discussing a life tenancy arrangement with another donor. While real estate is in the doldrums in many parts of the U.S., we still welcome any inquiries about gifts of property. Andover also received a block of shares in a closely held company from Don Wilson '29 to be applied towards a class of 1929 Teaching Foundation; in another instance debentures of a closely held corporation were given which will eventually yield a substantial gift. Appreciated marketable securities, stock in closely held companies and real estate have been welcomed sources of new endowment funds given by dedicated alumni/ae. A new set of guidelines on processing gifts of real estate has been drawn up by the Planned Giving Office. During the year, we also changed the trusteeship of our Pooled Income Funds to State Street Bank, Boston.Total new expectancies in 1991 including bequests with known values, Pooled Income Funds, gift annuities, closely held stock and real estate totalled $2,744,000. During the year, we received from prior planned gifts, $2,493,000 which was used to fund teaching, scholarships, GW renovation and other important school projects. The bequests and life-income gifts of today provide future income to sustain Andover's mission in years to come.

With this coming year, planned giving programs will become a more integral part of the fund raising effort for returning classes for the 55th reunion year and older.

The effectiveness of the Planned Giving Program is enhanced by the support it gets from alumni/ae, parents and friends who take the time to promote these options with others and give support to the Director. This is especially true of the support from Alexander B. Trowbridge '47 Chair of The Planned Giving Committee.

The Samuel Phillips and Sarah Abbot Society

To recognize and honor those alumni, alumnae, parents and friends who have remembered Phillips Academy in their estate plans, the Office of Academy Resources has established the Samuel Phillips and Sarah Abbot Society:

STATEMENT OF PURPOSE

This revised version of the Statement of Purpose, voted by the faculty in the spring of 1988, reaffirms the Academy's goals set forth in the Constitution of 1778.

Phillips Academy is a residential high school that seeks students of character and intelligence from diverse ethnic, racial, socioeconomic, and geographic backgrounds.

The Academy's scholastic program is designed to foster excellence in all disciplines associated with the liberal arts tradition. Faculty members guide students to master skills, to acquire knowledge, and to think critically, creatively and independently. The school strives to help young people achieve their potential not only in intellectual understanding, but also in esthetic sensitivity, physical well-being, athletic prowess, and moral decisiveness so that they may lead productive, responsible lives.

Committed to discovering authentic sources of community, the Academy strives to understand and respect the differences that arise in a multicultural setting. Academic and residential programs encourage sensitivity to issues of gender, race, and social class. The school's residential structure fosters close association between faculty and students for personal, social and intellectual development.

Andover's 1778 Constitution charges the Academy to prepare "youth from every quarter" to understand that "goodness without knowledge is weak and feeble; yet knowledge without goodness is dangerous." This obligation challenges students in mind, body, and spirit to see beyond themselves and to go beyond the familiar; to remain committed to developing what is finest in themselves and others, for others and themselves.

Report from the Headmaster

English students use the word-processing capability in the Computer Center of the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library to revise their papers for the fourth time, as they learn that clear and careful writing is a process of revision and improvement. History students use the archives of Phillips and Abbot Academies to research their American history papers, using original materials on the history of the schools. Chemistry students use the laboratory and computer capability to record the results of their experiments and assist in analyzing their data in the science classroom. Beginning students of Russian, Chinese, or Spanish walk into class on the first day and hear only the target language in class from the beginning of their learning, as part of the direct method of teaching.

All of these learning experiences for students in the past year are a part of the Academy's continuing commitment to engage dedicated teachers with curious students in the learning process. The Academy's commitment to excellence in academic work draws on a long tradition and integrates new learning possibilities to maintain the qualities of excellence and great teaching.

At a residential school, learning takes place not only in the academic classroom but also in athletics, arts, activities, and residential programs that occur. The faculty at Andover work with students in many different arenas and teach not only about academic subjects but also about life issues and values.

The diversity of the student body at Andover—in terms of race, religion, nationality, and economic class—contributes to the potential for learning as well. Andover has a tradition going back to the words of the Phillips Academy constitution that the school will be ever open to "youth from every quarter." This tradition is carried forward today with a commitment to a strong scholarship program and to an active recruitment program. Today 40 percent of the students receive financial aid, and 10 percent of the student body are on full scholarship. These talented young people from diverse backgrounds learn from each other as they study together, participate on teams, and form friendships.

The reopening of George Washington Hall in January of 1992, after its renovation and expansion, provided important new space for faculty-student interaction. The lobby with Dickie's desk, new student mailboxes, a day student lounge, a drama lab theater and the renovation of the mainstage theater into a 450-seat flexible theater bring students, faculty, and administrators together on a daily basis.

The Academy budget for 1991-92 was balanced. In the face of the increased demand for financial aid during recessionary times, increased cost of benefits at the Academy, and increases in physical plant renewal, the Academy had run a deficit in the previous year. The commitment of faculty, administrators, and trustees to accomplish dramatic savings on the order of approximately $2 million led to a series of difficult decisions about eliminating programs and activities and reducing staff. I am pleased to report that the active efforts of all enabled us to complete the year with a balanced budget.

The top quality of the Andover educational experience, the strong scholarship program, and the beauty of the campuses of Phillips Academy and Abbot Academy are possible because of the generosity of donors who care about the institution and believe in the future mission of Andover. Total giving to the Academy for last year exceeded $20 million, reflecting the depth of commitment and the generosity of graduates and all of us who have the joy of giving. Those of us who are fortunate to participate in the daily life of the Academy express deep appreciation to all the graduates, parents, and friends who support the institution and make possible the education we offer today.

Report from the Secretary of the Academy

It is with great pride on behalf of my colleagues in the Office of Academy Resources that I report an all-time, single year fundraising record for the academy—nearly $20.5 million in cash and pledges for fiscal 1992! Credit for this success goes to literally thousands of donors, large and small, and hundreds of able, dedicated volunteers. We extend heartfelt gratitude to all who helped make this remarkable achievement possible.

Special thanks go to the leaders of our many volunteer groups including Alumni Fund Co-chairs Carol Greene Donnelly '58 and Gerry Jones '55; Non Sibi Co-chairs Julie Schauffler Bucklin '48 and Dick Pechter '63; Parent Fund Co-chairs Lorna and Howard Elkus; Senior Parent Fund Co-chairs Cookie and Ken Neil; Past Parent Fund Co-chairs Nancy and Peter Milton; Grandparent Fund Co-chairs Nardi and Tom Campion '34; Andover Development Board Chair Dick Goodyear '59; George Washington Hall Committee Co-chairs Jack Lemmon '43 and Trustee Emeritus Mel Chapin '36; and Scholarship Committee Co-chairs Mollie Lupe Lasater '56 and Ward Woods '60.

The busy 1991-1992 school year included many notable events, some of which are featured elsewhere in this Annual Report. On May 1, the Andover Development Board and Alumni Council came together for a weekend of joint meetings focusing on the substantial physical plant needs of the academy. At their gathering that evening in the newly-renovated George Washington Hall theater, David Underwood '54, president of the Board of Trustees, announced the remarkably generous $5 million gift from Oscar Tang '56 in memory of his wife Frances Young Tang '57. David noted that $1.5 million of the gift had been allocated to the theater which henceforth would be the Frances Young Tang Theater—a fitting memorial to a woman who gave so much to both academies. Oscar's gift stands as the largest single gift by a living academy alumnus.

The year was also one of transition. In January, OAR welcomed Don Abbott, most recently headmaster of Millbrook School, as associate director of Capital Development, replacing Duncan Will who joined the Addison Gallery staff as director of Museum Resources and Public Information. Alumni Trustees Carol Greene Donnelly '58, Mollie Lupe Lasater '56, Dick Phelps '46 and Alumni Council President Steve Foss '59 have retired. We owe each of them a great debt of gratitude for their support of the school.

We welcome to the Board our new Council President Rick Barry '62, Alumni Fund Co-chair Gerry Jones '55, and newly-elected Alumni Trustees Shelly Guyer '78 and Charles Beard '62.

In last year's edition I reported that the trustees had endorsed an OAR proposal to employ a consulting firm to conduct a management audit in an effort to help us maximize our fundraising potential. The audit was accomplished in the spring and early summer of 1991 and presented to the Board in the fall.

Allen C. Adriance '61

The consultancy was most helpful to OAR and assisted us in examining our modus operandi and formulating recommendations to the trustees. An OAR report was prepared by this office in April outlining accomplishments, needs and funding. At their May meeting, the trustees supported an expansion plan which called for the addition of three OAR professionals, three support positions and a budget increase to fund new initiatives. The expanded budget will not be funded by the academy's operating budget, but rather by restricted earnings on new endowment monies raised. The FY'93 annual and capital fundraising goals have been increased by approximately 10% above previous projections.

With these new resources and the continued support of you, our loyal alumni, I have no doubt that we will be reporting a banner fiscal '93 a year from now.

Financial Report

Neil H. Cullen, Chief Financial Officer
Donald H. Bade, Comptroller

We achieved three significant financial objectives in the 1992 fiscal year. Operating revenues of $33.6 million exceeded operating expenses by approximately two thousand dollars, thereby enabling the Academy to operate in balance for the first time since the 1989 fiscal year. Secondly, the endowment realized an annual return of 15.1 percent, a performance significantly higher than the average of comparable institutions. Thirdly, 1992 marked the end of a six year period in which the Academy spent $37.4 million on capital improvements to its physical plant and marked the beginning of a commitment to a comprehensive condition assessment of the buildings and grounds. The latter will serve as the basis for further addressing our deferred maintenance needs and for assuring that we will fund maintenance adequately in the future.

Operations

We balanced operating revenue and expenses though a community-wide effort begun in 1991 which required a reduction in programs and personnel and a slowing of our physical plant renewal efforts. Program quality was maintained, however, and we continued to raise faculty compensation (increased 58.7 percent between 1987 and 1992) and to meet the financial need of our students. These objectives were achieved while increasing expenses only .1 percent on a year-to-year basis.

Comparative results of 1990-91 and 1991-92 are illustrated in the accompanying table entitled Revenue and Expenses.

Tuition and Financial Aid

Financial aid, including scholarship grants and loans, increased 15.8 percent over the prior year to $5,850,000. The 493 recipients of aid represented 41 percent of our enrollment. These direct grants and loans are awarded to students on the basis of financial need.

Given the rising cost of an Andover education, one should also note that the Academy supports all students financially above the tuition charged to parents. The actual cost per student was $22,600 in 1992 while the average tuition for boarding and day students was $15,200, representing Academy support for each student of $7,400.

The boarding rate of $16,060 in 1991-92 was an increase of 10 percent over the prior year, and the rate of $17,300 in 1992-93 is a 7.7 percent increase. Tuition remains modest, nonetheless,in comparison with other residential schools.

The Endowment and Its Investment

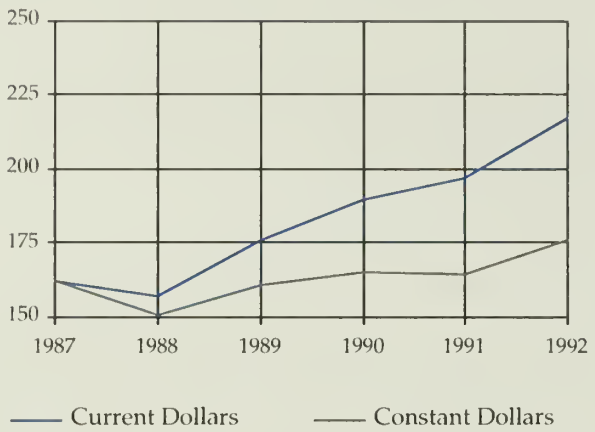

The total Academy endowment, with investments stated at market value, was $217,652,000 at June 30, 1992, compared with $196,842,000 one year earlier. The significant increase in the endowment's market value results from the following factors:

Increase as a result of gifts and bequests added to the endowment	$ 3,836,000
Transfer to operating income from fund appreciation	(2,172,000)
Appreciation, both realized and unrealized, in the market value of the investments	18,954,000
Net effect of all other additions and withdrawals	192,000
Total increase in market value	$20,810,000

The performance of the Academy's investment managers is reviewed regularly by the Finance Committee of the Board of Trustees on the basis of the Academy's stated investment objectives. In January 1992 three new equity managers were added - Richard Fontaine Associates of Baltimore, Grantham, Mayo & Van Otterloo of Boston, and Nicholas-Applegate of San Diego - while two managers were released. Currently the school has six equity managers, one fixed income manager, and several organizations managing a relatively small portion of real estate and venture capital investments.

In fiscal year 1992 the general pooled investments realized a total return of 15.1 percent which compared to 14.0 percent for the mean performance of comparable endowments in the Cambridge Associates universe and a 12.7 percent average return for colleges and universities as reported by the National Association of College and University Business Officers (NACUBO). For the eight year period ending June 30, 1992, the Academy's invested funds realized a 15.8 percent average annual return compared to a 15.3 percent return for the mean performance of the Cambridge universe. The accompanying graph illustrates Andover's endowment growth since 1987. The pie chart depicts the endowment asset allocation as of June 30, 1992.

Market Value of Andover's Endowment

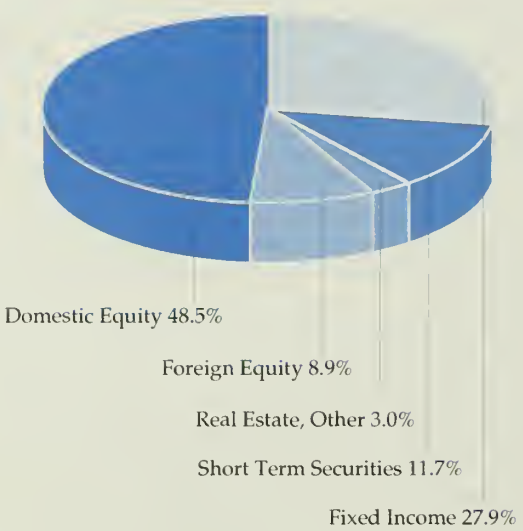

Physical Plant

Between 1987 and 1992, the Academy invested $37.4 million in its physical plant. Of that amount, $23 million provided for deferred maintenance, and the remainder supported new construction, mainly the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library expansion in 1989 and the George Washington Hall renovation in 1991. The project categories and the funding sources appear in the accompanying table.

The Trustees authorized proceeding with a comprehensive physical plant condition assessment and space utilization study at the May, 1992 meeting. This study should provide the basis for managing and preserving our physical plant assets well into the 21st century.

Since many alumni support specific projects and funds with gifts which are not credited to the Alumni Fund, we acknowledge this generosity by listing all cash gifts received during the 1991–1992 fund year. Reunion Giving totals are comprised of 1991–1992 Alumni Fund gifts, Reunion Capital Projects and all capital gifts to projects and endowment made during the five years since July 1, 1987.

It is a pleasure to report on the 1991-1992 Alumni Fund. The commitment and NON SIBI spirit of hundreds of Alumni Fund volunteers continue to inspire and raise significant resources in support of Andover's annual operating budget. This year $2,671,904 was raised from 7,926 alumni and alumnae. Congratulations to all! As we look to the 1992-1993 year, we call upon each of you to heed the Academy's call for active involvement and support.

On the pages that follow, we acknowledge everyone who has furthered Andover's mission by selflessly supporting the Alumni Fund. As ever, our heartfelt thanks to all of you for keeping Andover strong.

Alumni Fund Co-Chairs

1991-92 Highlights

Gerard E. Jones '55 and Carol Greene Donnelly '58 led the Alumni Fund to a solid finish in a challenging year economically. Carol concludes four years of outstanding service as Alumni Fund Co-Chair, providing enthusiasm and insight during her two year term on the Board of Trustees.

The NON SIBI Association completed its second year under the enthusiastic direction of Richard S. Pechter '63 and Julie Schauffler Bucklin '48. The Association raised a record $968,436 in gifts of $1,000 and more from the Phillips and Abbot non-reunion classes. (Please note the NON SIBI Association memberships list.)

Under the new Reunion Gift Plan, overall reunion giving neared $7 million, including over $1 million for the Alumni Fund, an additional $1 million toward class endowment and building projects, and nearly $5 million in capital gifts from reunion class members since July 1987.

The Andover Canadian Fund continued its support of scholarships for Canadian students. Annual contributions of Canadian alumni/ae have provided generous annual support since the Fund was established in 1979.

The Class of 1992, under the leadership of Adam Roil and Andrew Zurcher, raised $2,348 to plant an elm tree on the great lawn—a generous and thoughtful gift from these students as they became alumni. How appropriate that the new graduates are preserving the beauty of our campus for generations to come!

The Academy sincerely thanks all donors listed on the following pages, with special thanks to the class agents who faithfully work on the school's behalf. All donors and statistics are reported as of June 30, 1992.

Foundation and Corporate Support

Grants increased 21% this fiscal year from last with a grand total of $1,548,835. 111 grants were awarded, 109 of which were made in support of Phillips Academy's urban education outreach programs; $(MS)^2$, the Andover-Dartmouth Urban Math Teacher's Institute, the Andover-Bread Loaf Urban Teacher's Writing Workshop, the Institute for Recruitment of Teachers, PALS (The Phillips Academy-Leonard School Program) and the Urban Studies Institute. Two other grants were made, one to the Addison Gallery of American Art, and another in support of Russian students.

Math and Science for Minority Students, or $(MS)^2$, now celebrating its 15th year, received a grand total of $640,088. This includes an endowment gift of $500,000 from The Sperry Fund. Special recognition goes to Charter Trustee Frederick W. Beinecke '62 for his extraordinary gesture of support in facilitating this grant. As always, we recognize the goodwill and loyalty of the William Randolph Hearst Foundation, which co-founded the program 15 years ago, and, in particular, Phillips Academy's good friends Roger Murray '28 and Robert M. Frehse, Jr.

The Andover-Dartmouth Urban Math Teachers Institute, celebrating its 11th year, continues to thrive thanks to the longstanding generosity of the Sherman Fairchild Foundation, who awarded the program a grant of $371,720.

The Andover-Bread Loaf Urban Teachers Writing Workshop received $347,393 from four donors sponsoring teachers from their respective cities. They are the George I. Alden Trust (Worcester, MA); The Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation (East Orange and Newark, NJ); The Education Enhancement Partnership (Stark County, OH); and The Henry Luce Foundation (Boston, MA).

The Institute for Recruitment of Teachers received grants totaling $67,339 from members of the IRT Steering Committee, alumni and friends. Special thanks go to Dr. Theodore Sizer, Adolph Mueller, Matthew Diggs, Drew Guff '79 and Marc Ruddick.

A total of 48 individuals donated gifts to the Phillips Academy-Leonard School Program (PALS) in memory of Dr. Richard McGrail; combined with other corporate and foundation gifts, the total income for PALS this year comes to $42,195.

Thanks to Cliff Elias '48, the Artemas W. Stearns and the Josephine G. Russell Trusts provided $30,000 for the Urban Studies Institute to offer a one term, boarding experience for Lawrence High School students.

Finally, the Addison Gallery received a gift of $50,000 from the Glen Eagles Foundation and the Boston Foundation made a gift in support of Russian students.

Oscar Tang '56

The Tang Theater with its Dickie Lobby is the focal point of the renovated and expanded GW. It has been the setting for several innovative productions already, including Sondheim's Into the Woods and Shakespeare's Hamlet. In fall 1992 Bernstein's musical Candide was performed in the round. Oscar Tang came to Andover on reunion weekend in June 1992 to formally present his $5 million gift to Headmaster McNemar and to speak eloquently about honoring his wife's memory at Phillips Academy. The inscription on the plaque at the Tang Theater tells of his and Frankie's dream for Phillips Academy.

> To believe in wisdom and decency is an act of optimism. To believe that they can lead to a just society is an act of faith. To believe that schools can profoundly help individuals gain these virtues is a radical notion, quite out of vogue today. But these hopeful and wide beliefs spawned our Academies. They must serve us well now and in the future.

> September 11, 1972 on the occasion of the merger of Abbot Academy and Phillips Academy

The rededication of George Washington Hall provided the climax of the 1991-92 Andover Development Board year. As David M. Underwood '54 offered the thanks of the Board of Trustees to all the donors present in the GW theater, he enthusiastically announced the latest $1.5 million gift which had taken the fundraising for GW way over goal to $12,915,436. Melville Chapin '36 and Jack Lemmon '43 led the volunteer committee that attained that goal. David applauded Oscar Tang '56 who had pledged $5 million to Phillips Academy, and had given $1.5 million to the GW project, naming the theater in memory of his late wife, Frances Young Tang, Class of 1957 at Abbot Academy. The rededication was also the occasion for celebration of the many beautiful new and refurbished spaces in GW Hall. We celebrated GW at the joint Andover Development Board-Alumni Council meeting by recognizing donors and hosting an open house throughout the building.

Oscar Tang has designated $2.5 million of his gift for endowment and preservation of the Abbot Campus, an effort which Frankie had led through the years. Oscar also gave $1 million to support an endowment for faculty education. This endowment will allow the Academy to sponsor a trip every five years, similar to the China trip the Tangs inspired and helped to fund in 1991, or to plan a learning experience that will enlarge the horizons of the faculty and by a ripple effect have a considerable impact on the student body.

The Board of Trustees early in 1992 put together a $1,000,000 challenge fund to complete the GW project, which provided the impetus to reach the GW goal. A $1,000,000 gift from Thomas C. Israel '62 to support the student lounge in GW in memory of his father Adrian C. Israel '32 followed shortly thereafter along with several commitments to complete the GW fundraising, including boxes and seats in the Tang Theater and over 600 gifts from her many friends to raise $500,000 for the Dickie Thiras Lobby.

As part of its total goal the ADB Scholarships Committee, under the leadership of Co-Chairs Ward W. Woods, Jr. '60 and Mollie Lupe Lasater '56, surpassed its goal, raising $2,029,738 and completing its match of Richard J. Phelps '46 challenge from June 1990.

Teaching endowments also attracted $1,577,615 in new support.

The total dollars raised in non-annual gifts and pledges reached a new high in 1991-92, $18,380,048, and gave the ADB a total of $29,310,223 for the first two years of its current fund-raising cycle.

IDEAS AND NOTATIONS

Addison Gallery of American Art

Fundraising highlights for 1991-92 included a wonderful gift from Michael '46 and Penny Winton to underwrite the 1993 Winter Term exhibition of the National Museum of American Art's Homecoming: William H. Johnson and Afro-America, 1938-1946 show, and to support the Addison Gallery's educational outreach program. The Wintons' gift covers exhibition rental fees, shipping and installation costs, and provides funds for an Addison Gallery Education Outreach Fellow, books, videotapes, and curricular support materials which will be provided free to PA and public school teachers.

Joining the Wintons in leadership support for the Addison's exhibition program were Mike's 1946 classmate and Charter Trustee John Macomber and Caroline Macomber, who generously underwrote the 1992 Fall Term exhibition Walker Evans: Subways and Streets organized by National Gallery of Art.

The National Endowment for the Arts confirmed a $50,000 grant to the Addison from its Museum Program in support of the Addison's climate control-conservation project.

A new membership campaign, The Friends of the Addison Gallery, was initiated to broaden support for the Addison's annual operating budget. 1992 also saw the development of new Addison Gallery brochures, membership materials, and the installation of a new mailing list database, as well as establishing a link between the Addison and the Office of Academy Resources computer database.

The Addison Gallery is grateful for the support, wisdom, and guidance of two very special groups of dedicated volunteers: the Addison Gallery Committee, ably chaired by Trustee President David M. Underwood '54, and including Melville Chapin '36, Peter R. Halley '71, Ann McKeever Hatch '67, Michael J. Scharf '60, Allan B. Stone '50; and the Addison Art Drive Committee, co-chaired by Frank Stella '54 and Allan B. Stone '50, which includes William C. Agee '55, William M Drake, Jr. '50, Carroll Dunham '67, Robert A. Feldman '54, Cleve Gray '36, Peter R. Halley '71, Ann McKeever Hatch '67, Melvin S. Kendrick '67, Klaus D. Kertess '58, Lucy R. Lippard '54, Elizabeth A. Senior '76, and Wade Saunders '67.

Planned Giving

During fiscal 1992 the school received $1,937,000 from bequests and past planned gifts which was used to fund scholarships, teaching and the annual fund. Planned gifts, particularly bequests, are a very important component of the total dollars raised for Andover in a given year. This past year new gifts of real estate, pooled income funds, trusts and gift annuities aggregated $1,859,000 and new bequests totalled $920,000. Real estate included two life estate gifts where donors deeded property to Andover but continued to live in the residence, and an outright gift of a building lot in Exeter, NH. Planned giving programs are an integral part of the new Reunion Gift Plan for older classes and the funds raised from this source was a significant portion of their totals this past year. One particular alumnus gave appreciated stock valued at $97,000 for a Pooled Income Fund which was added to his class's reunion totals. We are indebted to the many individuals who have included Andover in their estate plans and to the support given by Alexander B. Trowbridge '47, Chair of the Planned Giving Committee.

The Samuel Phillips and Sarah Abbot Society

To recognize and honor those alumni, alumnae, parents and friends who have remembered Phillips Academy in their estate plans, the Office of Academy Resources has established the Samuel Phillips and Sarah Abbot Society:

ıual Report 1992–93
lips Academy, Andover

STATEMENT OF PURPOSE

This revised version of the Statement of Purpose, voted by the faculty in the spring of 1988, reaffirms the Academy's goals set forth in the Constitution of 1778.

Phillips Academy is a residential high school that seeks students of character and intelligence from diverse ethnic, racial, socioeconomic, and geographic backgrounds.

The Academy's scholastic program is designed to foster excellence in all disciplines associated with the liberal arts tradition. Faculty members guide students to master skills, to acquire knowledge, and to think critically, creatively and independently. The school strives to help young people achieve their potential not only in intellectual understanding, but also in esthetic sensitivity, physical well-being, athletic prowess, and moral decisiveness so that they may lead productive, responsible lives.

Committed to discovering authentic sources of community, the Academy strives to understand and respect the differences that arise in a multicultural setting. Academic and residential programs encourage sensitivity to issues of gender, race, and social class. The school's residential structure fosters close association between faculty and students for personal, social and intellectual development.

Andover's 1778 Constitution charges the Academy to prepare "youth from every quarter" to understand that "goodness without knowledge is weak and feeble; yet knowledge without goodness is dangerous." This obligation challenges students in mind, body, and spirit to see beyond themselves and to go beyond the familiar; to remain committed to developing what is finest in themselves and others, for others and themselves.

Report from the Headmaster

Donald W. McNemar

During 1992-93, a joint trustee-faculty committee developed a Long-Range Plan for the next five years, which the trustees adopted in July. This plan will significantly affect the course and focus of the academy's energies during the last years of this decade.

Placing a major emphasis on residential life to complement the excellence of the academic program, it directs us to enhance our teaching outside the classroom on such matters as values, societal concerns such as drug and alcohol abuse and personal issues of nutrition, interpersonal relations, sexism, racism and human sexuality. The Plan also emphasizes strategies to strengthen the connections between students and teachers not only in the classroom but also in dormitories, and it encourages increased support for day student counseling, athletics and student activities.

Key to the implementation of increased attention to residential life is renovation and in some cases major remodeling of dormitories to increase faculty presence in the lives of students. Therefore, as a major step in implementing the Long-Range Plan, the academy has borrowed tax-free capital in order to secure funds to continue major plant renewal.

The process of seeking a rating from Moody's and from Standard and Poor's to proceed with the issuing of bonds provided us a new perspective on the overall strength of the institution, from our academic excellence to our concern for the personal growth of individual students; from the continued strong demand for admission to the generosity of our alumni; from the beauty of our campus to the strength of our $237 million endowment.

This mini-audit of the academy highlighted especially some of our important numbers. This year we had over 1,700 completed applications for the 400 available places. The acceptance rate was 40 percent, and 60 percent of those admitted matriculated—rates that would make any institution proud. We are a leader among schools in our scholarship program, with $6 million in scholarship grants, 41 percent of our students on scholarship and 10 percent of our students on full scholarship. Our commitment to the scholarship program distinguishes Andover from other schools and fulfills our service to "youth from every quarter."

I am also pleased to report that our goals of strong support for teachers, a financial aid program to enable the most talented students to attend and increased renewal of the historic campus were pursued with the academy's existing resources to produce a balanced budget in 1992-93.

Perhaps the most significant development in the day-to-day life of the academy this year was the reestablishment of the weekly school meeting, bringing together our 1400 students and faculty each Friday morning in the Chapel or Cage. School meetings have been important in the educational experience of Phillips Academy and Abbot Academy graduates, helping to build the strong sense of community which is one of the hallmarks of education at Andover. During the 1992-93 year the students heard many speakers. As an introduction to Asian Arts Weekend, Oscar Tang '56 described his experiences at Phillips Academy as a young Asian boy at Andover. The former Prime Minister of Romania, whose daughter was a senior this year, came to talk about the privatization of the economy of his country. Recent alumni returned, including Jolena James '86, who described her experiences teaching the third grade in the Watts school system in Los Angeles. Student performers, an open microphone for student comment and a presentation by the Peruvian band, "Inca Son" provided experiences shared by the entire community.

Andover's long and strong tradition of alumni involvement remains critical to the academy's success: encouraging prospective students, offering both encouragement and critical commentary on school developments through visits, letters and the vehicle of the alumni organization and providing financial support, both in the form of major capital gifts and "living endowment" which is the Annual Fund. The loyalty and pride of alumni who give each year at ever more generous levels have provided $3.5 million to the Annual Fund this year. This level of support helps to assure our continuing strength. With this report, we thank all of the donors who have made gifts to the school, enabling us to continue the mission of Phillips Academy and Abbot Academy in the 1990's.

Report from the Secretary of the Academy

Allen C. Adriance '61

It is with decidedly mixed emotions that I write my last annual report as secretary of the academy. While I anticipate with enthusiasm my return to headmastering and the opportunity once again to work closely with students and teachers, I will sorely miss Andover which has figured so prominently in my life and the life of my family.

I will particularly miss my colleagues in the Office of Academy Resources who work tirelessly and with admirable dedication to support the school through the offices responsible for fund-raising, alumni and parent affairs, special events, public information, publications, the Bulletin and information services. These colleagues met the challenge of limited resources, increasing workloads and fund-raising goals, internal evaluation and reorganization, relocation, new programs and expansion. That the fund-raising team, supported by all offices at OAR, raised over $60 million within four years, without a capital campaign, including a single year, all-time record of $20.5 million in fiscal year 1992, stands as true testimony to their hard work.

Despite that hard work these results would not, of course, have been possible without the truly generous support of alumni, alumnae, parents and friends, together with the efforts of a veritable legion of dedicated volunteers. Be it the remarkable commitments of $5 million from Oscar Tang '56 and family in memory of his wife, Frances Young Tang '57, $3.7 million from former Alumni Trustee Richard J. Phelps '46, and most recently $2.2 million from Edward E. Elson '52, or the literally thousands of gifts, large and small from other generous donors, Phillips Academy owes all of you a deep debt of gratitude.

Fiscal 1993 closed with impressive fund-raising results. The Alumni Fund, under the leadership of Edna Grieco Thomas '51 and Gerard E. Jones '55, set a record of $3,482,857, while the Andover Development Board, chaired by Charter Trustee Richard Goodyear '59, raised a total of $9.3 million. An expanded Non Sibi Program produced a 13 percent growth in dollars raised and a 16 percent increase in donors, and the Reunion Gift Program, which is in its second year, doubled the dollars given by reunion classes.

As the academy looks to a year of transition and the challenging task of appointing a successor to Headmaster McNemar, the Office of Academy Resources will also experience transition. To provide an opportunity for the new head to select the next secretary, Patricia H. Edmonds, OAR's senior professional who has served these past nine years as a most able director of capital development, will lead the office throughout fiscal 1994. Mrs. Edmonds is eminently qualified to carry on OAR's important mission, and it is reassuring to know the office will be in such good hands.

To all of you I extend a heartfelt "thank you" for your friendship and support. So many of you helped make my years at Andover rewarding, indeed. With your commitment of time, expertise and personal resources, Phillips Academy will continue to thrive.

Financial Report

Neil H. Cullen, Chief Financial Officer
Elliot Hacker, Comptroller

Three significant achievements marked the 1993 fiscal year: a revised long-range plan concluding that the academy should place special emphasis on enhancing the residential life of students and faculty, an operating surplus of approximately $227,000 and the completion of a physical facilities assessment which prompted the academy to borrow $35 million in September 1993 to address a major portion of the accumulated deferred maintenance in campus buildings.

Operations

The 1993 fiscal year concluded with an operating surplus of $227,000 on a total expense base of $39.8 million. Revenue patterns remained relatively stable with the exception of Other Income, which grew significantly due to a growth in interest on operating cash, the use of a physical plant reserve fund and the use of available income to cover program growth in the Addison Gallery, Music Department and the Peabody Museum. Expenses grew beyond the rate of inflation in 1993 due largely to additional physical plant renewal spending in lieu of the funds borrowed through the Massachusetts Industrial Finance Agency (MIFA) in 1989, to the expansion of our fund-raising efforts, to higher benefit costs and to the program growth described above.

Tuition and Financial Aid

Financial aid, including scholarship grants and loans, increased 4.6 percent over the prior year to $6,117,000. The 508 recipients of aid represented 41 percent of our enrollment. These direct grants and loans are awarded to students on the basis of financial need.

It is important to note that the academy supports all students financially in addition to any tuition payment made by the family. The actual cost per student was $24,600 in 1993, while the average tuition for boarding and day students was $16,500, representing academy support for each student of $8,100, an increase of 9.5 percent over last year.

The boarding rate of $17,300 in 1992-93 was an increase of 7.7 percent over the prior year, while the rate of $18,500 in 1993-94 is a 6.9 percent increase. Tuition remains modest, nonetheless, in comparison with other residential schools.

The Endowment and Its Investment

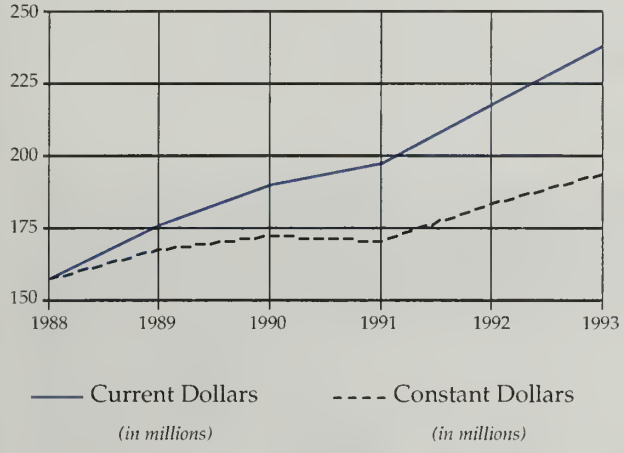

The total academy endowment, with investments stated at market value, was $237,372,000 at June 30, 1993, compared with $217,652,000 one year earlier. The significant increase in the endowment's market value results from the following factors:

Increase resulting from gifts and bequests added to the endowment	$ 1,979,000
Transfer to operating income from fund appreciation	(3,781,000)
Appreciation, both realized and unrealized, in the market value of the investments	21,283,000
Net effect of all other additions and withdrawals	239,000
Total increase in market value	$19,720,000

The performance of the academy's endowment managers is reviewed regularly by the Finance Committee of the Board of Trustees on the basis of the academy's stated investment objectives. Currently the school has six equity managers, one fixed income manager and several organizations managing a relatively small portion of real estate and venture capital investments.

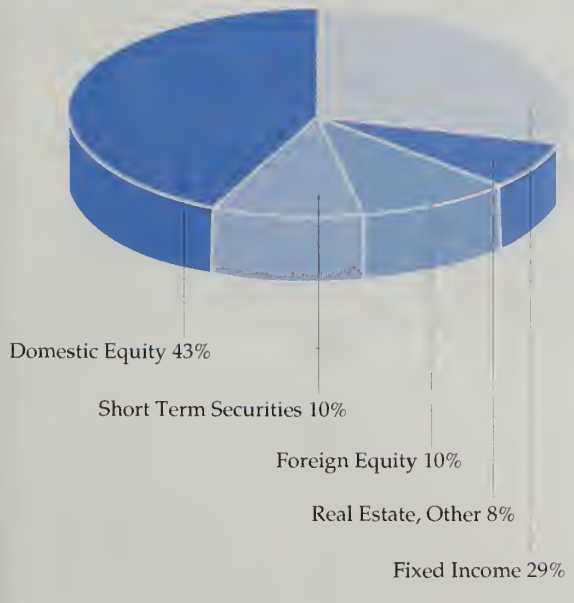

In fiscal year 1993, the general pooled investments realized a total return of 12.9 percent which compared with 12.5 percent for a benchmark index comprised of 65 percent S&P 500 stocks, 25 percent Lehman Brothers Government/Corporate Bond Index and 10 percent 91 day Treasury bills. For the ten-year period ending June 30, 1993, the academy's invested funds realized a 13.5 percent annual return compared with a 13.2 percent return for the above index. The graph on the following page illustrates Andover's endowment growth since 1988. The pie chart depicts the allocation of the endowment assets at June 30, 1993.

Endowment Asset Allocation

Physical Plant

Andover's campus includes 163 buildings totaling approximately 1.5 million square feet under roof, located on approximately 500 acres of land. The two charts below show the number of buildings and square footage by category of use.

Number of Buildings by Category of Use

Gross Square Feet by Category of Use

In 1993, the academy commissioned an independent engineering firm to conduct a physical facilities audit of the campus. The audit was completed in July 1993 and found that the academy has approximately $42 million of deferred maintenance. The proceeds of the 1993 bonds will address a portion of these needs. Approximately $23 million of the bond issue will pay for the renovation of dormitories and faculty housing to enhance campus residential life; the conversion of the heating plant and an extension of the electrical and telecommunications systems. The remaining bond proceeds will be used to redeem the variable rate bonds issued in 1989. The academy currently anticipates funding any remaining deferred maintenance through operations and from gifts.

Resources of Andover

Since many alumni support specific projects and funds with gifts which are not credited to the Alumni Fund, we acknowledge this generosity by listing all cash gifts and pledges received during the 1992-93 fund year. Reunion Giving totals are comprised of 1992-1993 reunion gifts (including an alumni fund component and capital project when appropriate) and all capital gifts to endowment or building projects made during the five years since July 1, 1988. All class totals combine Abbot Academy and Phillips Academy giving.

The 1992-93 Annual Fund set a record for giving to Andover, with $3,482,857 raised from 9,880 alumni, alumnae and parents. Hundreds of alumni and parent volunteers raised significant resources in support of Andover's annual operating budget. Congratulations to all! As we look to the 1993-94 year, we urge you to become involved and support Phillips Academy.

On the pages that follow, we acknowledge everyone who has furthered Andover's mission by selflessly supporting the Annual Fund. As ever, our heartfelt thanks to all of you for keeping Andover strong.

1992-93 Alumni Fund Highlights

Our committed crew of Abbot and Phillips head agents, Non Sibi agents and co-agents

- raised 98 percent of our ambitious goal of $3,000,000 for the Alumni Fund.
- further implemented the reunion gift plan, under which the 3's and 8's committed over a million dollars to the Alumni Fund and nearly an additional million dollars designated for class projects.
- expanded the Non Sibi Program, which grew 13 percent in leadership dollars and 16 percent in leadership donors.
- increased last year's young alumni dollars by 43 percent and donors by 4 percent.
- increased Alumni Fund donors by 4 percent, nearly equalling our 1990-91 participation record.
- created an Annual Giving Board of Directors to expand leadership consultation and advice to the Annual Giving staff.
- drew support for Andover from all over the globe, including Canada. Annual contributions of Canadian alumni/ae have provided generous scholarship support for Canadian scholarship students since the Fund was established in 1979.
- applauded the Class of 1993, under the leadership of Amanda Adams, Susan Crowe and Leila Jones, as they raised nearly $2,500 for the Korean/Vietnam War Memorial—a generous and thoughtful gift from these students as they became alumni.

Alumni Fund Donors

The 1992-93 Alumni Fund year started July 1, 1992, and ended June 30, 1993. Donors to the Fund, alumni who made gifts and pledges for 1993 reunions, contributors to the Andover Canadian Fund and donors to capital accounts are listed. All Non Sibi Association members—those who gave $1,000 and more to the Alumni Fund this year—are listed with their class. Class dollar totals and participation figures are also recorded. Gifts received after June 30, 1993, will appear in the 1993-94 Annual Report.

Reunion totals represent the combination of this year's reunion gift and five-year capital donations from the class. Reunion class donors of $1,000 and more to any capital project over the past five years and/or the reunion gift effort gain membership in the Non Sibi Association and are recognized for their cumulative gifts to Andover.

Foundation and Corporate Support

The major news in the area of foundation and corporate support of the academy during 1993 is the continued progress of the endowment drive for the $(MS)^2$ program, Mathematics and Science for Minority Students. The Starr Foundation, which made an operating grant of $100,000 in 1991, made an endowment grant of $200,000 this year in response to the $500,000 double challenge grant made by The Sperry Fund in 1992. And the Hearst Foundations, who have given $320,000 in operating and endowment grants to $(MS)^2$ since 1975, made an additional $100,000 grant to the endowment in 1993, also in response to The Sperry Fund challenge. The Dr. Scholl Foundation, donors of $70,000 to the $(MS)^2$ endowment over the past two years, made a $35,000 grant this year. The program's endowment currently stands at $1,255,000, well on the way to a $2 million goal set just two years ago.

Donors to $(MS)^2$'s annual operating budget for 1993 include The Klingenstein Fund ($50,000), The Heckscher Foundation for Children ($36,000) and Bristol-Myers Squibb ($30,000). Other new gifts and grants from foundations and friends brought the program's total operating support to $140,000.

The Institute for the Recruitment of Teachers (IRT) found a major new supporter this year in the Philip Morris Companies, who made a 3-year, $150,000 grant to the program. The IRT also received renewed support of $75,000 from the Rockefeller Brothers Fund, who funded the program in 1991/1992. Bristol-Myers Squibb, a perennial supporter, made the IRT a $25,000 grant. Friends of the IRT brought that program's total funds raised in 1993 to $314,000.

The Phillips Academy/Leonard School (PALS) program for area high school students and Lawrence middle school students received $63,315 from area businesses, foundations, and friends.

The Andover Bread Loaf Urban Teachers Workshop, funded by two-year grants made last year by the George I. Alden Trust, the Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation, The Henry Luce Foundation and Education Enhancement Partnership, received an additional grant of $5,000 from the I Have a Dream Foundation for 1993.

The Andover-Dartmouth Urban Teachers Institute received $148,530 in the first year of a two-year grant from an anonymous foundation which has supported the program since its creation by the Ford Foundation in 1984.

Finally, The Clarence Manger and Audrey Cordero Plitt Trust made a $30,000 grant to the Parent Loan Fund.

New grant support for 1993 totaled $877,415.

Andover Development Board

Cynthia Eaton Bing AA'61, chair, Arts Center Committeee

Richard Goodyear '59, chair of the Andover Development Board, led the Office of Academy Resources Trustee Committee and the Development Board in another year of successful fund-raising efforts. At the May 1 ADB meeting, Dick Goodyear honored Oscar L. Tang '56 for his most generous support of Andover in memory of his wife Frances Young Tang '57. The ADB members focused on discussions of the Long-Range Plan and the Arts and Communications Center Development Program, which had been launched earlier in the year by the Arts Center Committee, chaired by Cynthia Eaton Bing '61. That program was given enthusiastic momentum in mid-May when Edward E. Elson '52 made a $2.2 million gift: the center will be named the Elson Arts Center. As of June 30, 1993, more than 76 percent of the total project had been committed for construction and endowment of the Elson Arts Center. Under Goodyear's leadership the Andover Development Board in three years has now raised more than $38.6 million. During 1992-93 a total of $9.3 million was added to the $29.3 earlier raised.

Throughout the year, Ward W. Woods, Jr. '60 led his committee of volunteers in seeking funds for scholarships, and Donna Brace Ogilvie '30 chaired an effort to raise funds for the renovation of Abbot Hall which will include a center for the study of gender issues for boys and girls at Phillips Academy today. Donna has offered a challenge, dollar for dollar, of $500,000, and $131,720 in additional funds have been raised in support of the renovation of Abbot Hall.

This past year marked the second year of Andover's new Reunion Gift Program, which allows classes to merge their alumni fund total with funds for a capital project for a larger class reunion gift. Toward that program the Class of 1928 raised funds for a teaching fellowship; three classes, 1963, 1968 and 1973, created endowed scholarships; and three classes supported spaces in the Arts Center, as well as meeting challenging alumni fund goals. The Class of 1953 funded the Bensley Visual Studies Classroom in honor of Gordon G. Bensley '43, former faculty member in photography and visual studies and Audrey Nye Bensley, who retired in June after 28 years of teaching ceramics at Abbot Academy and Phillips Academy. The 50th Reunion Class of 1943, as a part of their $1.5 million total, funded the Exhibition Gallery, which will be a student art exhibition space between the Gelb Gallery in George Washington Hall and the Addison Gallery. The Abbot Class of 1943 funded the restoration of the portico of Abbot Hall. The Phillips Class of 1948 established a fund in memory of Frederick S. Allis, Jr. '31 for support of the history department.

During the past year, two well-qualified staff members joined the Capital Development team, Marcy Botwick-Blumers as assistant director of capital development and Robert Neill as director of foundation and corporate support. Donald B. Abbott served during the past year as associate director of capital development and as of August 1, 1993, took on the responsibilities of acting director of capital development, replacing Pat Edmonds.

IDEAS AND NOTATIONS

Addison Gallery of American Art

During 1992-93 the Addison Gallery launched its first formal educational outreach program. This innovation, coupled with a series of major exhibitions and fruitful artists-in-residence programs, made 1992-93 a benchmark in the development of the Addison's service to Phillips Academy and the community.

EXHIBITIONS

The highlights of the fall trimester were Point of View: Landscapes from the Addison Collection and Walker Evans: Subways and Streets. The landscape show was a stunning, nine-gallery presentation of artists' representations of the ever-changing natural world and man's place within it. Curated by Susan C. Faxon, the show honored the Addison's first director and first registrar, Charles '28 and Katherine Sawyer. The Walker Evans show came to us from the National Gallery of Art. It offered a rich survey of the ground-breaking work of one of photography's most innovative artists, and a member of the class of 1922. During the winter term we were proud to be the only New England museum to offer Homecoming: William H. Johnson and Afro-America, 1938-1946 during its national tour. Homecoming is the Smithsonian Institution's ground-breaking exhibition, curated by Duke University professor Dr. Richard Powell. Dr. Powell spent last year at Harvard as a Visiting Fellow and was able to share with us and with other educators throughout the region his considerable knowledge of William Johnson and Johnson's emerging role in the hierarchy of American modernist painters. Finally, during the spring term we presented Next Generation: Alumni/ae Artists from Phillips Academy, co-curated by Andover 1983 classmates Andrea Feldman and Cassandra Reid on the occasion of their 10th reunion. These two talented women selected 24 artists who graduated from Phillips since 1978 for inclusion in this multi-media show. Upstairs we offered Sol LeWitt: Twenty-Five Years of Wall Drawings, the world's most comprehensive LeWitt wall drawing retrospective to date, which the New York Times called "incandescent!" Indeed this was a banner year for press reviews of our exhibitions at the Addison. We received glowing write-ups in international publications such as the Christian Science Monitor, national coverage in the New York Times, and regional coverage in ARTNew England and the Boston Globe. Two exhibitions organized by the Addison, American Abstraction from the Addison Gallery and Motion and Document-Sequence and Time: Eadweard Muybridge and Contemporary American Photography, are touring the United States. They have added a national dimension to our exhibition program and have also garnered reviewers' praise in Los Angeles, Chicago, Washington, Seattle, Portland and Hartford. Teaming up with Joe Wennik, Andover's director of alumni affairs, we co-sponsored regional alumni/ae gatherings in connection with our travelling exhibitions.

EDUCATION PROGRAMS

Thanks to the generosity and vision of Penny and Mike Winton '46, we were able to launch a comprehensive Addison Gallery Education Outreach Program in 1992-93. They not only completely underwrote the cost of bringing the Homecoming show to the Addison, but they also fully funded the first year of the new Addison Education Outreach Coordinator position and provided resources to purchase student and teacher-training guides, catalogues, videotapes and other curricular material which we distributed free of charge to public schools throughout the region. Inspired by the Wintons, and under the leadership of trustee Charles J. Beard '55, together with major support from Fleet Bank of Massachusetts and the Massachusetts Cultural Council, we were able to raise sufficient funds to bus nearly 5,000 public school students and teachers from throughout Boston and the Merrimack Valley to the Addison to experience our exhibitions first-hand. Our Education Outreach Coordinator Andrea Myers, led tours for hundreds of groups of students. The Edward E. Elson Artist-In-Residence program brought photographer Dawoud Bey and painter Candida Alvarez to Andover in the fall term and sculptor Alison Saar and video-artist Tom Leeser in the winter term. Having visiting-artists living and working with us on campus for 6-week residencies continues to be a wonderful gift for our students and faculty.

APPRECIATION

In addition to those mentioned above, we recognize the following for their extraordinary generosity to the Addison this past year: the Lila Wallace-Reader's Digest Fund for a magnificent grant in support of next spring's show House and Home: Spirits of the South, Tom and Frances Dittmer, Caroline and John Macomber '46, Frank Stella '54, Peter Halley '71, Carroll Dunham '67, Stephen Sherrill '71, Bob '54, Linda, and Andrea Feldman '83, Jeremy Scott Wood '60, Clifford Elias '48, Joshua Steiner '83, Mr. and Mrs. David F. Putnam '32, Mrs. Francis G. Kingsley, the Lachaise Foundation, Elizabeth McGuire Enders '57, Antony Fisher '52, Glen Eagles Foundation, Greater Boston Chapter of Links, Inc., Mr. and Mrs. Werner Kramarsky, Ruth and Jacob Kainen, the National Endowment for the Arts, Hanford Smith '45, David Carter '41, Caroline Greene Donnelly, Charlene Engelhard, Jennifer Eastman, and the Edward S. Moore Foundation.

Planned Giving

Planned Giving totals for fiscal '93 were bolstered by a substantial amount received from new bequests. Bequests are truly the most significant single source of endowment funds for Andover. Planned gifts in one form or another accounted for about 27 percent of the total capital funds raised during the year. We continue to receive a steady stream of Pooled Income Fund and Gift Annuity participations. One alumnus and his wife deeded a building site in Wisconsin to a charitable remainder trust, which was subsequently sold and $100,000 invested for income to the donors with Andover as remainderman. Higher income and estate taxes this year make charitable gifts a more attractive component of estate planning, particularly gifts of appreciated assets which are no longer subject to the alternative minimum tax implications. We are indebted to the growing number of Samuel Phillips and Sarah Abbot Society members who have made a special commitment to supporting Andover and its future.

The Samuel Phillips and Sarah Abbot Society

To recognize and honor those alumni, alumnae, parents and friends who have remembered Phillips Academy in their estate plans, the Office of Academy Resources has established the Samuel Phillips and Sarah Abbot Society:

Phillips Academy, Andover

Statement of Purpose

This revised version of the Statement of Purpose, voted by the faculty in the spring of 1988, reaffirms the Academy's goals set forth in the Constitution of 1778.

Phillips Academy is a residential high school that seeks students of character and intelligence from diverse ethnic, racial, socioeconomic, and geographic backgrounds.

The academy's scholastic program is designed to foster excellence in all disciplines associated with the liberal arts tradition. Faculty members guide students to master skills, to acquire knowledge, and to think critically, creatively and independently. The school strives to help young people achieve their potential not only in intellectual understanding, but also in esthetic sensitivity, physical well-being, athletic prowess, and moral decisiveness so that they may lead productive, responsible lives.

Committed to discovering authentic sources of community, the academy strives to understand and respect the differences that arise in a multicultural setting. Academic and residential programs encourage sensitivity to issues of gender, race, and social class. The school's residential structure fosters close association between faculty and students for personal, social and intellectual development.

Andover's 1778 constitution charges the academy to prepare "youth from every quarter" to understand that "goodness without knowledge is weak and feeble; yet knowledge without goodness is dangerous." This obligation challenges students in mind, body, and spirit to see beyond themselves and to go beyond the familiar; to remain committed to developing what is finest in themselves and others, for others and themselves.

Report from the Outgoing Headmaster

With profoundly mixed emotions I write my final report to Andover alumni and friends. Britta and I have enjoyed our thirteen years at Phillips Academy enormously and will deeply miss the Andover family. We leave with the satisfaction that many of our hopes for the school have been realized, in particular the preservation of excellence, the increase in scholarships, and the enrichment of the academy's extraordinary learning environment.

Andover is successful in creating an environment in which young people develop their personal and intellectual skills and values for future service to their families, communities, and societies. The traditions of Phillips Academy and Abbot Academy — great teaching, lasting friendships among students, and an emphasis on growth in all aspects of intellectual, athletic, and personal life — create this learning environment. As our society faces an ominous decline toward mediocrity, confusion about values, and a shift away from community toward individual interests and concerns, Phillips Academy today provides not only an excellent education but also goals which can offer a powerful antidote to these growing social ills.

This past year has been an important one in establishing plans for the academy's future. The adoption by the Trustees of a Long Range Plan last July established the priorities of the institution for the next five years. The plan places top priority on enhancing the quality of residential life, while maintaining excellence in the academic program, supporting the faculty, continuing the strong scholarship program to maintain economic and racial diversity in the student body, and increasing the pace of plant renewal on the campus. The successful completion of a $35 million bond issue provided funds to undertake significant renewal projects including the renovation of several dormitories. Teachers have developed programs for teaching about life issues in the clusters and dormitories. The Long Range Plan calls for a major capital campaign to involve all alumni in realizing these goals, and the Trustees have been working closely with the Office of Academy Resources to plan the campaign.

This past year brought many rewards to the Andover community. In September of 1993 the Academy welcomed a delegation from Doshisha University in Kyoto, Japan, to honor their founder, Joseph Neesima, who graduated from Phillips Academy in 1867. A Doshisha chorus performed with the PA orchestra in Symphony Hall in Boston, and the delegation as a whole presented the academy with a stone pillar bearing Neesima's calligraphy, which now stands beside Bulfinch Hall. We also received word last fall that 34 members of the senior class had been named semi-finalists in the national Merit Scholars program. Nationally .5 percent of high school seniors receive this honor; 10 percent of Andover's senior class were so honored. Andover athletes won championships in seven different sports with the women leading the way. The Admissions Office received over 2,000 applications for four hundred places, making us the most sought-after school in the country.

I am also pleased to report that the academy concluded the year with a balanced budget, which resulted from a careful balancing of program needs with the resources available from tuition, gifts, and endowment Through the generous gifts of alumni, alumnae, parents, and friends, the academy raised $3.6 million in the Annual Fund program and $11.6 million for endowment, capital projects, and current programs. Finally, this past year has included the transition from the 13th to the 14th head of the academy. The trustees named Barbara Landis Chase, head of the Bryn Mawr School in Baltimore, as the 14th head of Phillips Academy, culminating a national search that involved students, faculty, staff, alumni, and parents as well as the board itself.

Britta and I have been proud to lead Andover for these past 13 years. We leave knowing that Phillips Academy remains an outstanding institution primarily because of the continuing commitment of its many alumni, parents, students, and teachers to excellence; a belief that learning extends through all aspects of campus life; a recognition of the importance of bringing together youngsters of exceptional talent from all races, economic classes, and nationalities; and an appreciation of the importance of teaching about honesty, integrity, and service. These are worthy commitments and will stand Phillips in good stead as it enters the next century.

I have especially enjoyed working with alumni, parents, and friends of the academy to whom our Annual Report is particularly addressed, and deeply appreciate all of the support you have provided for your school. I know you will give the same generous support to Barbara Chase as she carries forward the great traditions of Phillips Academy.

Donald W. McNemar

Report from the Head of School

In a sense, the privilege of reporting on 1993-94 at Phillips Academy is not mine by rights. The challenges that were met, the goals achieved in the past school year, took place during Donald McNemar's tenure as Andover's 13th head of school. I came along just in time to be awed by the institution's excellence, exhilarated by its challenges, and thankful for the opportunity to succeed Don and inherit the leadership of the strong institution he left behind. To him and to Ted Sizer, both of whom contributed so much of their idealism, energy, and dedication to making Andover the first-class institution it is today, I am truly indebted.

Still, this report closes a 12-month cycle for me as well. Although as I put these words to paper it has been less than two weeks since Don McNemar officially placed in my hand the ceremonial gavel of Eliphalet Pearson, Andover's first head, it is almost a year to the day since I received the initial phone call that started me on my journey to Massachusetts.

More than 14 years into my career at the Bryn Mawr School in Baltimore, I had certainly entertained the idea that the time might come to move on. When the phone call came from Andover that October day, I knew that I wanted very much to pursue this particular opportunity. I was drawn to the position because of my belief in the important role of educational leadership which Phillips Academy plays.

I deliberately use the word educational leadership, rather than academic, because to me it suggests the broad experience of students at Phillips Academy. The academic curriculum at Andover is rich and challenging. But the concept of total education goes beyond the academic curriculum and involves a broader and deeper commitment. It calls upon us to try to fulfill the precept set forth in the charter: that "goodness without knowledge is weak and feeble; yet knowledge without goodness is dangerous."

How do we engender goodness? The Administrative Council of the school recently articulated some priorities for the year ahead. Flowing from the long-range plan of 1993, those include an emphasis on residential life. We will concentrate on enriching the contacts between adults and young people in the community and consider how to make relationships within a community of this size work in a personally satisfying way. One thing students learn in a residential community such as this is how to get along with a range of people from all across the country: from different racial groups, religions and socioeconomic backgrounds. I started this school year trying to be as explicit as possible with the students about how people relate to one another respectfully and with respect for themselves. If we can find fresh and compelling ways to talk to our students about this, then we can present them with a remarkable learning opportunity.

Another learning opportunity comes in the form of the community service that is so much a part of Phillips Academy's culture. It is my own belief that a school's obligation to the wider society is fulfilled in several ways. One is by providing community service opportunities for individual students and faculty to work with community agencies. Another is by putting institutional resources — time and space and fund-raising apparatus, for example — behind community service efforts. A third is by educating community leaders who care, creating a breeding ground for future generations of doers and givers.

That Phillips Academy is effective in the first two regards is apparent in a variety of programs that engage us as an institution in important work here at the academy, in Greater Andover and beyond.

On the third count — the nurturing of future doers and givers — one sure measure is the remarkable wellspring of dedication and loyalty that alumni have for Abbot and Phillips academies themselves. Even in my short association with Andover, I have been overwhelmed by the gratitude our graduates display for the opportunities that were provided for them here and gratified by their conviction that they have an obligation to provide those same opportunities to coming generations of Phillips Academy students. To those who have given of their own resources — of time, money and personal energy — I express both my admiration and my gratitude. I applaud your generosity and I celebrate the imagination and vision that allow you to realize that your gifts can make a difference.

Barbara Landis Chase

Report from the Acting Secretary of the Academy

This has been a year of transition and preparation, but that has not kept the Office of Academy Resources from meeting its challenges in fund-raising and alumni relations. All fund-raising goals were surpassed during 1993-94, and the alumni affairs office expanded all of its efforts with alumni groups throughout the world as well as here at Andover. Don and Britta McNemar met alumni from Boston to Seoul at events held to celebrate their thirteen-year tenure at Phillips Academy. They were welcomed at the Doshisha School in Kyoto, where they dedicated a weather vane given by Phillips Academy to the Doshisha to honor Doshisha founder and Andover alumnus Joseph Hardy Neesima, 1867. The McNemars were also celebrated in Texas, Florida, California, the Mid-west, Hong Kong, and Tokyo. In the United Nations delegates' dining room in New York City, they were feted with a special celebration by the New York Association. In May they were honored with a dinner, at which the president of the Board of Trustees, David M. Underwood '54, presented them with a silver pitcher engraved with a map of the world and a star placed for Andover. Donald L. Shapiro '53, chair of the Donald W. and Britta S. McNemar Scholarship Fund, created in their honor, announced the fund had that evening surpassed $1 million. At the Development Board meeting, chair Richard Goodyear '59 presented Don McNemar the Development Board Bowl in honor of his efforts in founding the Development Board and spearheading its fundraising. The totals during the McNemar years in all forms of giving exceeded $137 million.

As part of the transition, the new head of school, Barbara Landis Chase, spoke at the Development Board luncheon on May 13 and also had the opportunity to meet alumni in June at a reception in the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library.

The Alumni Council, presided over by Alumni Trustee Richard H. Barry '62, met in both the fall and spring and discussed the topic "The Andover Student Body: Diversity and Community." That study has informed the Board of Trustees and the faculty and administration about the strengths of the present Andover community and has provided direction for the few modifications that are expected to make the Andover community even stronger. The study was a resounding endorsement of the concept of "youth from every quarter" in contemporary terms, as Phillips Academy prepares for the 21st century.

Our alumnae, alumni, parents and foundation and corporate supporters surpassed all fund-raising totals this year. The Annual Fund, chaired by Alumni Trustee Gerard E. Jones '55, went over goal by raising $3,659,277. As a part of that Annual Giving total, the Parent Fund, led by Trawick and Jane Stubbs with a $550,000 goal, crossed the $600,000 threshold for the first time, attaining $606,147. With an $11 million goal, capital development totals reached $11,577,284. Corporate and foundation fundraising surpassed the $1 million mark by raising $1,187,908 as part of the capital development total. More people than ever before, 1,512, attended the reunion weekend June 11 - 13, meeting Barbara Chase and learning of Andover today from Don and Britta McNemar. At reunion weekend we celebrated the NcNemars and retiring Alumni Trustees Richard H. Barry '62, Gerard E. Jones '55, Gerrit M. Keator '57 and Sandra A. Urie '70.

Within the Office of Academy Resources we are in a transition mode to a new computer software program which will better serve the needs of our alumni, alumnae and parent constituency, will integrate our computer system with the rest of the campus at Phillips Academy, and will better meet the needs of the Resources Office as we plan for a capital campaign.

Throughout the past year a Campaign Development Study Committee, led by Trustee Richard Goodyear, has been overseeing a campaign information study conducted by an outside consultant, John Brown Limited, to assess the interest and awareness of more than 140 Andover and Abbot alumni and parents. The highly encouraging results of that study were presented to the Andover Development Board. We are pleased that so many — in fact 87% of those interviewed — indicated they would be happy to support and to work for Phillips Academy in a capital campaign, which is now in its planning phase. As a prelude to the campaign, a new directory has been distributed, thanks to the many alumni who provided information.

It gives me great pleasure to say a special thank you to all alumni, alumnae, and parent volunteers and donors. The volunteers and donors have made my years working at Andover wonderfully happy and rewarding. Warm thanks to the many alumni, alumnae, and parent friends who have joined me in valuing the mission of both Abbot Academy and Phillips Academy and in assuring the future strength of Andover. A record number of donors during the 1993-94 year — 11,298 — have supported and sustained Phillips Academy in ways which will insure the academy's continuing strength as a premier institution, preparing young people for further education, but also for a life using the knowledge and committed to the goodness that Samuel Phillips said "lays the surest foundation of usefulness to mankind."

Operations

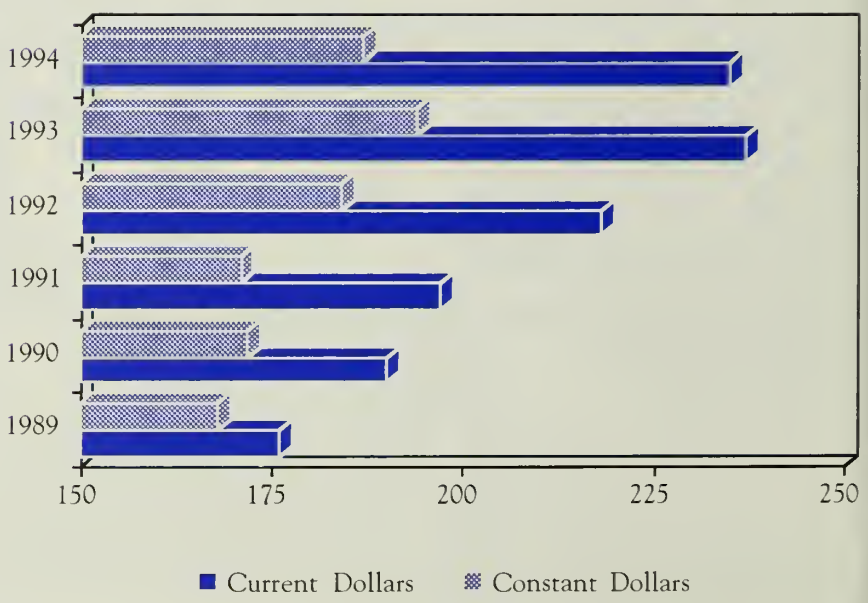

The 1994 fiscal year concluded with an operating surplus of $175,000 on a total expense base of $42.4 million. Revenue patterns remained relatively stable with the exception of endowment income, which grew significantly to help fund a portion of the debt service expense increase in 1994. In September 1993, the Academy borrowed $35 million at a favorable 30-year interest rate of five and three-eights % to address a significant portion of the accumulated deferred maintenance in campus buildings.

Expenses grew more than the rate of inflation in spite of a significant decline in the cost of benefits stemming from lower expenses in worker compensation and unemployment insurance. This decline was more than offset by the large increase in debt service, program growth in the Addison Gallery which was funded by additional income, an increase in financial aid and a rise in physical plant spending to undertake more renewal.

Market Value of Andover's Endowment

The Endowment and Its Investment

The total Academy endowment, with investments stated at market value, was $235,106,000 at June 30, 1994, compared with $237,372,000 one year earlier. The change in the endowment's market value results from the following factors:

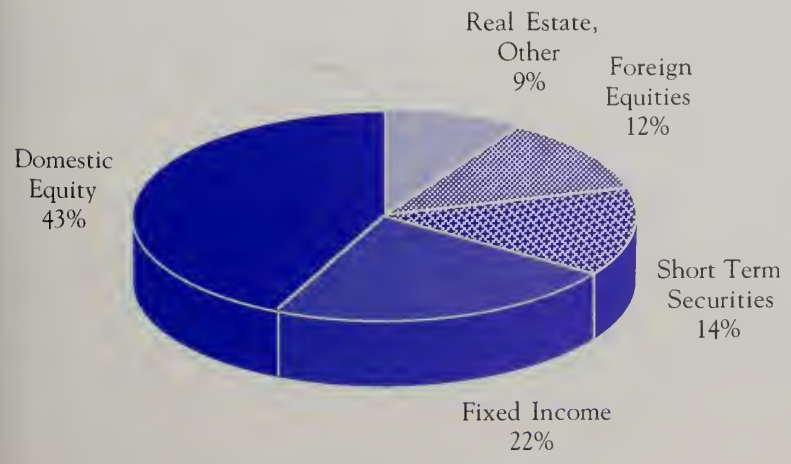

Increase resulting from gifts and bequests added to the endowment	$ 4,701,000
Transfer to operating income from fund appreciation	(6,204,000)
Appreciation, both realized and unrealized, in the market value of investments	2,500,000
Transfer to operations to fund prior years' accumulated deficit	(2,544,000)
Net effect of all other additions and withdrawals	(719,000)
	$(2,266,000)

The performance of the academy's endowment managers is reviewed regularly by the Finance Committee of the Board of Trustees on the basis of the academy's stated investment objectives. Currently the school has five equity managers, one fixed income manager, and several organizations managing a relatively small portion of real estate and venture capital investments.

In fiscal year 1994, the general pooled investments realized a total return of 5.1 percent, which compared with 0.9 percent for a benchmark index comprised of 65 percent S&P 500 stocks, 25 percent Lehman Brothers Government/Corporate Bond Index and 10 percent 91-day Treasury bills. For the ten-year period ending June 30, 1994, the academy's invested funds realized a 14.4 percent annual return compared with a 13.5 percent return for the above index. The accompanying graph illustrates Andover's endowment growth since 1988. The pie chart depicts the allocation of the endowment assets at June 30, 1994.

Endowment Asset Allocation

Financial Aid

Financial aid, including scholarship grants and loans, increased 8.1 percent over the prior year to $6,613,000. The 495 recipients of aid represented 41 percent of our enrollment. These direct grants and loans are awarded to students on the basis of financial need.

The academy supports all students financially in addition to any tuition payment made by the family. The actual cost per student was $25,800 in 1994, while the average tuition for boarding and day students was $17,400, representing academy support for each student of $8,100.

The boarding tuition of $19,425 in 1994-95 was 5.0 percent higher than the prior year, yet tuition remains modest in comparison with other residential schools.

Physical Plant

In addition to borrowing funds to continue to address deferred maintenance in 1994, the academy resolved the use of the three major buildings comprising Abbot Circle. In 1991, McKeen Hall was rehabilitated to house the Offices of Academy Resources and an independently operated child care center. In 1994, the trustees decided to seek the necessary funding to renovate Abbot Hall and the adjoining John Ester Gallery to house the Brace Center, the Office of Communciations, School Year Abroad, an art studio/gallery, the Addison exhibit workshop, a 100 person meeting hall and an artist-in-residence apartment. In addition, they decided to preserve and renovate the east wing of Draper Hall for 12 faculty apartments and several academy offices including the Office of Physical Plant, Information Technology and Telecommunications, the Institute for Recruitment of Teachers, and the Andover Bread Loaf Urban Teachers Writing Workshop. In preserving Abbot Circle, the Academy will restore an important symbol of Abbot Academy's heritage while gaining space for important academy functions.

Annual Fund Goes Over $3.65 Million Goal

Daniel P. Cunningham '67 and Audrey Taylor MacLean '53, co-chairs of the 1994-95 Alumni Fund.

The 1993-94 Annual Fund went over goal and set a record for giving to Andover, with $3,659,277 raised from 9,961 alumni, alumnae and parents. Hundreds of alumni and parent volunteers raised significant resources in support of Andover's annual operating budget. Congratulations to all! As we look to the 1994-95 year, we urge you to become involved and support Phillips Academy.

The pages that follow acknowledge everyone who has furthered Andover's mission by selflessly supporting the Annual Fund. As ever, our heartfelt thanks to all of you for keeping Andover strong.

1993-94 Highlights

Our committed crew of Abbot and Phillips Head Agents, NON SIBI Agents and Co-Agents

- passed the $3,000,000 mark for the first time in history!
- further implemented the reunion gift plan, under which the 4's and 9's committed over $1 million to the Alumni Fund and nearly $2 million designated for class projects.
- built the NON SIBI Program, in which approximately 10 percent of our donors provide 65 percent of our dollars.
- increased last year's young alumni donors by 3 percent.
- exceeded last year's Abbot dollars by 11 percent.
- initiated several new programs under the Annual Giving Board of Directors, including a mentoring program for new agents and a "young alum" NON SIBI program. Donors of $500 and more in PA classes 1986-1994 will be NON SIBI Associates.
- drew support for Andover from all over the globe. Annual contributions of Canadian alumni/ae have provided generous scholarship support for Canadian scholarship students since the Canadian Fund was established in 1979.
- applauded the Class of 1994, under the leadership of Laurence Jollon and Donna Kaminski, for setting a new record for Senior Class giving. $2,774 was raised by the class and matched 2-1 from alumni parents for a grand total of $8,322 given in honor of Donald and Britta McNemar for the McNemar Scholarship Fund.

Parent and Grandparent Funds

Parent Fund giving exceeded the $600,000 mark for the first time with a record-breaking 1,708 Andover parent and grandparent donors.

Thanks to the generous leadership of Susan and Bob Burns and Kim and Kuhn Hong, the Senior Parent Fund reached an all time high of $200,000 and achieved 80% participation from senior parents.

Parents of students in the classes of 1995, 1996, 1997 made their $250,000 goal while adding many new parent donors. Parents of alumni continued to break their giving records, contributing over $132,000 to the Parent Fund.

Grandparents gave in honor of their grandchildren to help maintain excellent programs at Andover.

Parent Fund Committee Chairs Jane and Buzzy Stubbs, parents of Alice '85, Trawick '91, Jane '92, and John '94

In Memoriam

Jane Stubbs died suddenly on September 13. The Phillips Academy community deeply mourns her passing. During the past twelve years, Jane gave her energies, warmth and enthusiasm to Andover in numerous ways: as an admission volunteer in the North Carolina area; member of the Andover/Abbot, NC and Southern VA Regional Association; Parent Fund volunteer; and most recently Co-Chair of the Parent Fund, 1992-1994.

Foundation and Corporate Support

New pledges of foundation and corporate support increased 35% this year to $1,187,908 — some $200,000 above the average for the past ten years. Critical to this success was $512,000 in new funds pledged to the Institute for the Recruitment of Teachers. Grants from Citibank, the Ford Foundation, Bristol-Myers Squibb and a major new funder who has asked to remain anonymous until 1995 made this the best year for the IRT since its founding in 1990. Continuing grant funds for the program were also received from the Philip Morris Companies Inc.

Mathematics and Science for Minority Students $(MS)^2$ had another fine year, attracting $231,500 in operating grant funds and $40,000 toward its endowment, which has reached $1,435,000. Major new grants to $(MS)^2$ this year came from Morgan Guaranty Trust, the Booth Ferris Foundation, Bristol-Myers Squibb, the Primerica Foundation, the James C. Penney Foundation, and the Dr. Scholl Foundation. Continuing grant funds were received from the Edwin Gould Foundation for Children, the Klingenstein Fund, AT&T, Polaroid, the Starr Foundation, and the Heckscher Foundation for Children.

The Andover Bread Loaf Writing Workshop received new support from the Geraldine R. Dodge and I Have a Dream Foundations, for a total of $89,000, and continuing funding from the Henry Luce Foundation. The Andover Dartmouth Institute received its final grant from the Sherman Fairchild Foundation. And the Phillips Academy-Leonard School (PALS) program, through which PA students work with middle school students from Lawrence, received $64,796, with major grants coming from the Stuart Foundations and the Josephine Russell Trust.

A total of $173,000 was also received from foundations and corporations for various academy programs and organizations, as listed below.

Andover Development Board

The Andover Development Board, which since 1985 has led the academy's capital fund-raising efforts, enjoyed another highly successful year. Chair Richard Goodyear '59 announced that $11,574,283 was raised in 1993-94, bringing the ADB's four-year total to more than $50 million toward its second five-year goal of $53 million.

The year was marked by a special effort to honor the distinguished thirteen-year tenure of Don and Britta McNemar. Donald L. Shapiro '53, vice chair of the ADB, led a committee to raise $1 million to establish the Donald W. and Britta S. McNemar Scholarship Fund, and at a gala dinner during the annual meeting of the ADB on May 13, he announced that the goal had been surpassed. Earlier that same day, in recognition that in the past thirteen years the academy had raised more than $137 million in capital and annual funds, Dick Goodyear presented a silver bowl to Don McNemar, "whose articulation of the mission of Phillips Academy and belief in every person inspired unparalleled support for Andover."

On behalf of the ADB, Goodyear also honored four individuals who had recently made significant gifts to the Academy: Edward E. Elson '52, $2.2 million to name the new Arts Center; Donna Brace Ogilvie '30, $975,000 to renew and endow Abbot Hall and $25,000 to the McNemar Scholarship Fund; R. Crosby Kemper '45, $500,000 to name the new sculpture courtyard at the Addison Gallery, $200,000 to renovate the W. Thornton Kemper Auditorium, $50,000 to underwrite an exhibition of portraits at the Addison, and $15,000 to purchase a painting by Red Grooms of Jackie Kennedy; and Louis F. Polk, Jr. '49, $500,000 to name the new video and electronic imaging center in the Elson Arts Center.

Throughout the year two committees of volunteers have elevated the importance of renewing and endowing facilities by continuing to raise funds for the Arts Center and Abbot Hall respectively. Cynthia Eaton Bing '61 has headed the Arts Center program, which now has raised $4,412,087 toward its new goal of $6.4 million. Donna Brace Ogilvie '30 has chaired the program for Abbot Hall, which has reached $1,930,790 toward its overall goal of $3.7 million.

This past year marked the third year of Andover's Reunion Gift Program, through which classes maximize their reunion gifts by funding a capital project in addition to the Annual Fund. The Class of 1944 presented a gift of $1,150,000 in unrestricted endowment, established in the name of the academy's first headmaster, Eliphalet Pearson. Two classes, 1934 and 1939, created new endowed scholarships and a third, 1959, contributed to the McNemar Scholarship Fund. The Class of 1954 funded the renovation of the David M. Underwood Room and the Class of 1969 gave the new video studio in the Elson Arts Center. The Class of 1964 honored one of its revered teachers by augmenting the Frederick S. Allis, Jr. Fund, which supports salary for an instructor in history.

Looking ahead, the ADB devoted much of its May meeting to discussions of the recommendation in the Long-Range Plan (July 1993) that Andover should undertake a major capital campaign in the coming years. As it now moves through the final year of its second five-year cycle, the ADB will be working closely with Head of School Barbara Chase and the Office of Academy Resources as they continue the pre-campaign planning for the Phillips Academy.

Addison Gallery of American Art

Jock Reynolds '65, Director

In September 1993, the Addison Gallery of American Art completed a $3.1 million climate control, art storage, and handicap access retrofit construction project resulting in improved access to the museum for all audiences and substantial enhancement of our ability to present the Addison's collection to those audiences. The project included the following amenities: a new handicapped accessible museum entrance and elevator; a new sculpture courtyard; new art storage and study areas for paintings, works-on-paper, photography, and sculpture; new HVAC climate control throughout the building; and new UV protection for all gallery skylights. We also installed an inter-active computer and laser video disc system in the museum's library, allowing visitors easily and quickly to see a picture of nearly every object in the entire 12,000-piece collection. After searching the collection with this system, scholars, teachers, and students can, by appointment, ask that specific works be brought out of storage for study.

Major gifts from R. Crosby Kemper '45 (to name the new museum entrance and adjoining sculpture courtyard, and to renovate Kemper Auditorium), Sidney Knafel '48 (to support the new works-on-paper and photography study and storage area), and past parents John and Barbara Robinson (to support the new paintings study and storage area) were essential to the successful completion of the renovation project.

The new Kemper Sculpture Courtyard is now home to Frank Stella's '54 latest gift of art, his stainless steel sculpture Mont Saint Quentin, delivered in honor of his 40th Andover reunion. Frank's 1954 classmate, Sidney Unobskey, and his wife Nancy, also sent the Addison a lovely George Rickey sculpture called Two Open Triangles Up.

During FY '94, we were delighted to receive important gifts of art from Carl Andre '53, Charter Trustee Cynthia Eaton Bing AA '61, Carroll Dunham '67, Richard Durrance '61, Andrea Feldman '83, Bob '54 and Linda Feldman, Peter Halley '71, Ann McKeever Hatch AA '67, R. Crosby Kemper '45, Mel Kendrick '67, Cameron LaClair, Jr. '39, Sol LeWitt, Leslie Miller of Grenfell Press, John and Barbara Robinson and the Beinecke Foundation, Elizabeth Senior '76, Stephen C. Sherrill '71, Barbara Singer, and George Tooker '38.

The Edward E. Elson Artist-in-Residence Fund supported on-campus residencies for photographer Mark Klett, painter George Tooker '38, and Michael Paha, a Chicago-based artist who created one of his unique "Arsarium" structures in the lobby of our science building, Evans Hall. Paha coined the term "Arsarium" (ars meaning art and arium an enclosure for plants and animals) to describe his work. This floor-to-ceiling, wall-covering bio-system combined sculpture and ecology/biology in a fascinating and vivid way. It included living mice, zebra finches, turtles, fish, and plants, as well as running water, earth, wood, and graphic elements. Paha's commission at Andover was co-sponsored by the Addison Gallery and the Academy's Biology Department (which re-sequenced the spring syllabus in order to cover bio-ecological issues while Michael Paha was here and available to speak before biology classes).

The Addison Gallery offered students, teachers, and the public a stunning array of exhibitions last year, including traveling exhibitions: The Drawings of Stuart Davis, organized by The American Federation of Arts; Revealing Territory: Mark Klett — Photographs of the Southwest, organized by the Amon Carter Museum; and Jacob Kainen, a painting retrospective organized by the National Museum of American Art. Exhibitions organized by the Addison Gallery included George Tooker: 50 Years of Paintings and Study Drawings, generously funded by Mike '46 and Penny Winton, which presented 14 egg tempera paintings by the class of '38 alumnus alongside all the study drawings Tooker used in developing the finished works (Tooker is also giving his entire drawing archive to the Addison); Faces of the Addison: Portraits from the Collection, curated by Associate Director Susan C. Faxon and supported by a major gift from R. Crosby Kemper '45; Contemporary Abstract American Prints, guest-curated by New York print dealer Elizabeth Senior '76; Harlem Heroes: Carl Van Vechten Photographic Portraits, curated by our education coordinator, Andrea Myers, from a collection of gravure prints given by Stephen Sherrill '71 in honor of Don and Britta McNemar; and House and Home: Spirits of the South, a presentation of the vanishing architecture of the rural South in paintings, sculpture, and photography by artists Max Belcher, Beverly Buchanan, and William Christenberry. House and Home: Spirits of the South will visit four other museums during the next two years. This exhibition and its related education program were made possible by a major grant from the Lila Wallace-Reader's Digest Fund with additional support from the National Endowment for the Arts.

The Addison Gallery of American Art is a teaching museum which serves as an educational resource for the faculty and students at Phillips Academy, as well as public schools throughout the region. 1993-94 saw the further development of a formal educational outreach program conducted by the curatorial staff and Andrea Myers, who returned to the Addison for a second year as educational outreach coordinator. Our education program has four sequential elements: informing teachers about our upcoming exhibitions and presenting them with resource material such as slide kits, videotapes, exhibition catalogues and books, at our teacher training evenings; site visits to classrooms in schools throughout the area to help prepare students for their visit to the Addison; the actual class visit, which includes gallery tours and age-appropriate "hands on" creative activities; and, finally, the creation by students of their own works of art and/or written reports about their visit when they are back in their classrooms. Of the 7,382 student visits to the Addison during the 1994 school year, 4,316 were part of scheduled visits, which were part of the Addison Gallery Education Outreach Program.

The generous support of Friends of the Addison Gallery (which reached an all-time record this year), as well as art patrons and artists, is enhancing and strengthening the vibrant exhibition and education programs here at the museum. On behalf of all of us at the Addison, let me thank you very much for your support, and invite you to come see us soon.

Planned Giving

The 1994 fiscal totals for planned giving represented over 30% of the total amount raised by capital development. New pooled income and gift annuity participations reached $118,000; new charitable trusts, $157,379; and new bequests, $2,390,000. Real estate and limited partnership interests accounted for about $444,000. Actual dollars received from estates during the year totalled $3,958,596. These funds were used primarily to support scholarship and teaching and are a ringing endorsement of the importance of planned gifts to the overall success of the school's fund-raising effort. In addition to the capital effort, bequests also provided monies to the annual fund.

The gifts we received this past year included real estate and limited partnership interests, pooled income fund and gift annuity participations and trusts. But again the single most important sources of funds for the school's endowment was through bequests. We give recognition to all who include Andover in their estate plans by inviting them to become members of the Samuel Phillips and Sarah Abbot Society, whose current members are listed below. There is a growing interest on the part of younger alumni/ae to include Andover in their estate plans when they redo their wills in response to changing financial or family circumstances, and we are pleased to assist in providing the proper wording to achieve the donors' goals.

The planned giving department has presented a series of donor profiles in the last three issues of the Andover Bulletin and expects to have articles in future issues as well. New brochures and newsletters are planned for this coming year. As in the past, the director will be working closely with the older reunion classes to spread the news about the various life-income gift plans that benefit the donor as well as the school. We look forward to another strong year for planned giving.

The Samuel Phillips and Sarah Abbot Society

To recognize and honor those alumni, alumnae, parents and friends who have remembered Phillips Academy in their estate plans, the Office of Academy Resources has established the Samuel Phillips and Sarah Abbot Society:
